

Youthful arsonists pose problem for Beach

By STEVE STONE
Sun News Editor

In 1975 it cost the City of Virginia Beach—that is, the taxpayer—an average of $322.35 each time a fire unit was called out for a car accident, a house fire or the results of children playing with matches.

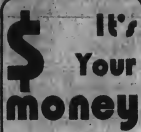

The price tag is understandable, and the service appreciated for the first two types of calls, but it is the fire set by children which cannot be accepted, city fire officials warn. Not only does it cost the "running amount" when fire units respond, but there is the potential expense of that unit being unavailable for other calls.

In 1975 fire officials in Virginia Beach determined that 207 fires were directly attributable to youths with matches. That is about one fire every 40 hours. Of these it is estimated that 90 per cent were brush fires, easy to set, fast to spread.

Lt. Gerald Perkins of the Fire Bureau says that the primary responsibility for preventing these fires rests with parents.

Often the fires are set without thought of consequence, and with little children, even concern for personal safety is lacking.

Everyone likes the woods, and in the fall especially the children are there playing, but the fun ends when the kids start fires—now is a dangerous time. Lt. Perkins emphasizes that quite often parents can know something is wrong just by closely watching their young children.

"If a parent has a suspicion or even finds matches, he should sit and talk with the child and explain the dangers involved."

Like so many things, parents may find that they have to explain the problem two or three times, but if the child still continues to carry matches, (and so, the possibility that he or she might set a fire), it is a threat to the family and the community, Perkins says.

Perhaps a trip to the fire station will help. There, firemen will be happy to explain the dangers, the cost and the results, according to the fire official. This might impress a child where a parental discussion has not.

If a parent desires, he may contact the Fire Bureau and someone will try to come to the home and sit with the youngster(s) to explain the situation. In some cases however, the problem can be more serious, and professional assistance should be sought for the child.

It is a serious problem, and, according to officials, it can be disastrous. "Children playing with matches have been known to start fires within the home, endangering the entire family. Often this happens in the day, and there is only property damage, but what if a child set a fire at night while others slept?" Perkins asks. "It is a very serious problem," concluded Lt. Perkins, "one that should not be treated lightly."

Beach's leading industry

Value of farm products doubled in five years

By STEVE STONE
Sun News Editor

Hotels may rise dozens of stories into the sky, tourists may swarm to the beach and the population of the city may have a large percentage of military dependents, but Virginia Beach still counts on agriculture as its leading industry.

The market value of all agricultural products sold by the 256 farms in Virginia Beach in 1974 amounted to $23,745,000, according to a preliminary report of the 1974 Census of Agriculture released recently by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

This sum of $23.7 million represents a very substantial increase as compared with the same reports five years before. In 1969 the value of all agricultural products sold was just over $7.9 million, or less than a third of the '74 total.

While the value was up tremendously, the number of farms only increased slightly, from 210 in 1969 to 236 in 1974. Farms reporting sales of over $1,000 increased a little more in the five-year comparison period, from 161 in '69 to 218 in '74.

Expenses of farm production ran only slightly behind the total value of the products sold. In 1969 the cost was $6.9 million, in 1974, $22.3 million. Cattle and calf inventories dropped over the years while the hog and pig inventory more than tripled. Chicken inventories dropped.

INVENTORY

Cattle, calves.....	$,195...	1,720
Hogs, pigs.....	15,884...	59,232
Chickens, 3 months and older.....	40,323...	11,404

In 1974 the approximate land area of Virginia Beach dedicated in any way to agricultural production totaled 25 per cent. This left 74 per cent of the 165,760 acres of land area in Virginia Beach listed as non-farm land.

--19 per cent harvested cropland.
--1 per cent of other cropland.
--4 per cent for woodland pasture.
--2 per cent for all other croplands.
Other changes noted in the city's land use as follows:

Beach plans establishment of handicapped home

Virginia Beach is interested in establishing homes where mentally retarded and emotionally handicapped adults would get some help in learning how to cope with living.

As a step in this direction, City Council last week authorized the city manager to apply to the State Department of Mental Health and Mental Rehabilitation Services for a Transitional Living Program grant.

Under the program, State funds will provide $48,447; fees another $16,000 and the City $14,445 which has previously been budgeted.

Dr. John Aycock, Virginia Beach director of mental health, said the homes would be located at the Atlantic Apartments at Blisbeck Road and Virginia Beach Boulevard, a cottage of the Holmes Convalescent Center on Bonney Road. The buildings are presently unoccupied. Dr. Aycock said that the City plans to contract with the Holmes - Homer Homes for Adults, which presently operates adult homes in the city, to operate the centers along with Volunteers of America.

The program will be coordinated by Dr. Jay Lasker, assistant director of mental health for evaluation and program development, and Mrs. Eileen Shavers, in charge of transitions living.

The homes will provide a home-like atmosphere for people who have been patients in State institutions and for handicapped persons from the community.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said the Southeastern Regional Training Center in Chesapeake, which also serves the Beach, lessens the gap between State institutions like Lynchburg and private homes, but that the group home concept lessens the gap even further.

Aycock said that 50 persons at the Beach are immediately eligible for residence in the homes which will house a total of 14 persons, but that as many as 100 persons may eventually be identified as eligible.

The adults will be taught at the homes in the elements of living in their own

Free Bee does it all

People have been so pleased with the SUN'S FREE BEE column that give-aways. Dogs, yes. Cats, yes. FREE BEES have found homes for scores of them. But a dog AND a cat? Donna Graves of Old Forge Road in Virginia Beach called recently to see if we could help find a good home for a very odd couple—a young dog and a kitten who think they're mother and daughter.

The dog is about a year old and the kitten six months, but they're developed quite an attachment for one another.

"They've had all their shots, and they're both exceptional with children," says Mrs. Graves. "I know it's going to be difficult, but I would like to find one home for both of them."

The Graves are moving to an apartment and can't keep these pets. (Call 426-1576 after 6 if you want a pair of pets!)

Free-Bees have filled lots of tough orders, though. If you want to give something away free, we'll give you free space in the SUN to advertise it. FREE BEES have found new owners for puppies, washing machines, boats, clothes. Turn to the classified section now and look us over—you might find something you need!

Help yourself and help your neighbor today by using the FREE BEES. Give us a call at 547-4571, and we'll take your ad. No charge—it's our way of thanking you for reading Byerly Publications community Newspapers!

Carriers of the SUN were treated to pizza and ice cream at the new Village Inn Pizza and Ice Cream Parlor on Laskin Road at Hilltop Plaza. Here, Valerie Grace overcomes the obstacles of two handicapped figures to dig in to her chocolate "supermousse" after several servings of pizza.

A special treat came when the carriers were served the Village Inn Volcano, mounds of ice cream served with loads of topping, whipped cream and presented with streamers and flashing lights. More inside.

Friday, at the Dome

Tidewater Garden Show ones for weekend

The Third Annual Tidewater Flower and Garden Show opens Friday, Sept. 3, with the Men's Garden Club of Tidewater attempting to out-do their successful show last Labor Day weekend.

Show hours are changed in 1976 to an hour earlier, opening at 9 a.m. and closing at 9 p.m. Friday through Sunday at the Virginia Beach Civic Center (Dome), 19th and Pacific Avenues.

Gardens built by the parks departments of the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Virginia Beach are the highlight of the show. Each city competes for the coveted award of honor from the American Horticultural Society.

Each city carries its plans until garden-building day at the Dome in order to surprise its sister cities. Norfolk has won the top prize for the last two years but has been edged by Portsmouth and Virginia Beach parks departments that they expect to win in 1976.

A Bi-Centennial theme will be prevalent throughout the show, with red, white and blue flower arrangements featured.

A select committee of the Men's Garden Club headed by Fred Heutte has selected a group of unusual plants to be sold that will thrive in Tidewater but can not be obtained at local nurseries. They were purchased from all over the U.S.A. and have been grown since early spring in the Tidewater area so the plants are acclimated to Tidewater weather.

Feature of the 1976 show is the Chinese Chestnut, a small tree, which will thrive in Tidewater according to Heutte. Some of the trees offered will be as high as six feet tall, grown in pots. Some of the old favorites from prior shows will be back, including Asa Cedar, Hardy Palm and Dwarf Crane Myrtle.

In addition, the Tidewater Rose Society will have more than 1,500 miniature roses for sale, all grown by members of the society. In addition, for the first time the Society will sell cut roses by the dozen. Huge bouquets of roses will adorn the Dome throughout the show.

Participating in the show will be 12 plant societies, ready to provide helpful information and sell some of their unusual plants. The Virginia Greenhouse Society will offer an array of unusual house plants while the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs will sell their Neptune Chrysanthemum, symbol of the up-coming Neptune Festival.

The show will feature an information booth with experts in all areas of horticulture providing free information. For sale at that booth will be a variety of special garden books, including the Washington Star Garden book, said to be one of the best for the Tidewater area.

Bill Youngman, retired garden editor of the Washington Star and one of the judges of the show, will autograph copies. Other books available include Betsy Trundle's locally written book, "A Gardener's Eye View of Gardening," and an elaborate wild flower book printed by the University of North Carolina.

Judges for this year's show in addition to Youngman are George Gillies, international flower show judge from Long Island; Professor Albert Beecher and Dr. Wesley Jenkins from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg; and nationally accredited flower show judge Madeline Lukanich.

A new feature (the 1976 show will be an expert's throne within the Men's Garden Club selling area, where the clubs more noted plant experts will be available to answer questions on unusual plants. Among those experts will be Heutte, extension specialist Dr. Charles Elstrott, Botanical Garden Superintendent Robert Mathews, the Virginia Pilot's Gardening in Tidewater writer Robert Sliffert and Tidewater Rose Society president William Overton.

The Virginia Bonsai Society will return with the largest collection of bonsai ever exhibited on the East Coast. Hit of the show for the last two years, members have reserved approximately 75 of their miniature plants and trees to sell during the shows.

A hit of last year's show was the exotic display of orchids assembled by the Tidewater Orchid Society. That group will again be back with even a more elaborate display.

Societies participating in the show include the Virginia Cmeilia Society, Tidewater Rose Society, Virginia Bonsai Society, Virginia Rhododendron Society, Tidewater Orchid Society, Violet Society, Virginia Greenhouse Society, Tidewater African Violet Society, Tidewater Virginia Nurserymen's Association, Norfolk Botanical Garden Society, Tidewater District of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs and the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs.

Admission is $1 and children 12 and under when accompanied by a parent. Founder and director of the show is Heutte show chairman is Robert Sliffert, with Robert Mathews co-chairman.

ROWT meeting set for Sept. 9

The Retired Officers' Wives of Tidewater will hold its monthly luncheon Thursday, Sept. 9 at Fort Story Officers' Club.

A social hour begins at 11:30 a.m. with lunch at 12:15 p.m.

The program will be fall fashions by Leggett's. Reservation deadline is Tuesday, Sept. 7. Phone Mrs. Harold Carter, 464-4995.

Red Cross short of goal

Tidewater Chapter, American Red Cross, is still short of its goal of $36,000 as part of the $10 million disaster fund drive being conducted by the American National Red Cross. Have you made your contribution yet?

With a hurricane threat already behind Tidewater, one that caused Red Cross to open shelters and feed thousands away from state parks threatened by Hurricane Belle, the disaster preparations involved with the recently capped hurricane and with additional hurricanes threatening the Tidewater area, local residents should be well aware of the aid which Red Cross furnishes in times of need. The current fiscal year is shaping up as the most expensive in Red Cross history of providing relief to disaster victims.

The Red Cross National Headquarters reported that Typhoon Pamela, which devastated Guam in May, floods in Tulsa, Okla., and the Teton Dam catastrophe have escalated its disaster relief costs for the year ending June 30 to an unprecedented $33 million.

"This disaster relief estimate is the highest amount ever, exceeding similar expenditures in 1972-73, which included hurricane Agnes, and in 1955-56, which include the Eastern and Western States floods," a wire to Red Cross Division and area managers stated.

Red Cross aid to the Pacific Island victims following Pamela now is estimated at $10 million, the Tulsa flood at $375,000 and the Teton Dam disaster at $2,825,000.

The Red Cross has launched a special $10 million nationwide fund appeal to help meet the skyrocketing relief costs.

First Colonies Division, American Red Cross, Norfolk, headquarters for 28 Red Cross chapters in the surrounding area, has a goal of $67,000. Your tax deductible donation can be sent to your local Red Cross chapter and should be marked for disaster relief.

Parenthood class opens Wednesday

A Red Cross class in "Preparation for Parenthood" will be held at the Little Creek Amphib Base for military personnel and their dependents beginning Wednesday, Sept. 8. The classes will be held on four consecutive Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. For information, call 464-7581.

Beach students at Tanglewood

Two Virginia Beach students are attending the Young Artists Instrumental Program at Boston University Tanglewood Institute in Lexington, Mass.

John Bradell Jr., son of Mrs. and Mrs. John Bradell of Parsons Lane and Robert W. Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cross, Jr., of Orkney Drive are participating in the program.

The Boston University Tanglewood Institute is now in its 11th season. Auditions for the instrumental and vocal programs for outstanding high school musicians are scheduled throughout the United States during the academic year.

Bradell is a student at Bayside High School while Cross attends Kempville High.

The Young Artists are outstanding high school instrumentalists from all over the country who participate in a rigorous study and performance schedule at Tanglewood, the summer home of the Boston Symphony. They receive private lessons with master instrumentalists on the Boston University faculty and first chair players of the Symphony. They also perform in chamber groups and with the Young Artists Orchestra.

A typical week includes nine to 12 hours of orchestra rehearsal, six hours of chamber study, one hour of private study, many hours of private practice, and at least one public performance. Students receive four credits toward the Bachelor of Music degree, upon successful completion of the program.

Harrison attends course

David W. Harrison of Virginia Beach recently attended a five-day course for general agents, managers and supervisors of New England Mutual Life Insurance Company in Boston.

Harrison was one of 42 executives from the company's 118 agencies across the country to attend this seminar. It covered the latest developments in the application of life insurance to business and family protection problems.

Harrison joined New England Life in 1974. A member of both the Norfolk and the National Life Underwriters Association, Harrison is a 1970 graduate of Eion College and served in the United States Coast Guard until his release in 1974. His office is in Norfolk.

Truth group formed

Truth in Power, an environmental information or organization, will hold an open meeting 4 p.m. Sunday Sept. 12, at Friends Meeting House, 1397 Southland Rd., Virginia Beach.

The guest speaker will be Ms. June Allen, President of the North Anna Environmental Coalition.

Since its formation in January 1973, the NAEC has been informing the public of the hidden costs and high risks of nuclear power.

Ms. Allen was featured as one of "America's Unsung Heroines" by Ralph Nader in the July issue of the "Ladies Home Journal." In this meeting she will speak on the Barry-Becker Paper Plant and how the Tidewater area would be affected should a nuclear accident occur. A luncheon will also be shown. Admission is free.

Evangelist John Collier

Youth revlval Sept. 12-17 at Emanuel Baptist Church

A youth revival featuring Evangelist John Collier will be held Sept. 12-17 at Emanuel Baptist Church, 4710 Baxter Road, Virginia Beach.

While attending grade and high school in Garland, Tex. Collier was involved in sports. Later, as a student in Tennessee Temple College, he was pitcher for the college baseball team. He went back to Texas to finish college and it was there he entered the ministry.

He found he was attracted to young people and had an earnest desire to witness to them. Christ and to help them solve the many problems confronting youth today.

He also found himself interested in a girl named Virginia who married soon after his graduation.

After several years, he resigned his pastorate and became youth pastor in Garland. Later, at a camp on the Bill Rice Ranch several years, Collier began to feel that the ranch ministry was right down his trail.

He loved young people and enjoyed working with them whether it was on the basketball court, the ball diamond, the weekly radio or from the pulpit. In the spring of 1973, he became one of the 36 staff members of the Bill Rice Ranch and was immediately made Camp Foreman.

Today he and Virginia and their two children live on the ranch.

The Bill Rice Ranch not only maintains America's largest independent youth camp but is headquarters for the world's largest missionary work to the deaf.

During the summer months, he works with teenagers who come to camp from all over the United States. During the remainder of the year he conducts special services in churches, helping pastors train young people to witness for Christ.

Youth groups are invited to come and hear him and take part in the activities he has planned for the local revival.

Services begin at 7:30 each evening. Collier will also preach 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday in the Emanuel Baptist Church.

Pastor Waldo F. Grandstaff extends an invitation to everyone to attend these services.

You can can your tomatoes

Summer's nearly over in Virginia Beach, and your kitchen window sill is lined with tomatoes from yours or a friend's garden. Unless the family enjoys them stewed or fried, fried for lunch and in salad for dinner, these tomatoes are going to spoil. Why not can them?

Many people are canning fruits and vegetables these days, notes the Better Business Bureau. If done properly, canning is not only an economical and practical method of preserving foods at home, it also offers a nutritious alternative to highly sweetened or over-seasoned commercially prepared fruits and vegetables.

When canning, remember above all that this is no time for creativity. Improperly processed foods can cause fatal food poisoning from botulism organisms. "mgramda's methods may have worked in her day, but new scientific developments have necessitated newer methods of canning. These methods are explained in basic canning goods, available from your county extension service or your state university. Several canning jar manufacturers also publish books on canning procedures for guidance. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Agricultural Research Service has a home and garden bulletin (#8 "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables") which gives step by step instructions for canning any type of fruit or vegetable, from apricot to zucchini.

There are two types of canning procedures: water bath and pressure canner. In the boiling water method, acid foods such as fruits, tomatoes and pickled vegetables are placed in a covered kettle and boiled. Foods with low acid, however, need to be processed at the higher temperature of a steam-pressure canner so that spoilage organisms can be completely destroyed. A pressure cooker may be used for canning only if it has a gauge that can maintain 10 pounds of pressure.

The Better Business Bureau advises consumers to keep in mind these precautions when canning:

*Use only tested, currently approved methods of canning.

*Select only jars, cans and lids made especially for canning—never use ordinary jars.

*Use food of perfect quality—fresh, firm fruits and young, tender vegetables. Watch particularly that tomatoes are not overripe.

*Do not overpack foods—this may lead to under-processing and spoilage.

*Follow time and temperature instructions and container specifications exactly. Higher altitudes require longer processing times.

*After cooling, test jar lids according to directions on the box of lids.

*Destroy any foods showing signs of spoilage—bulging lids, leaks, off-odors or mold. The deadly toxin produced by botulism organisms, however, usually has no warning smell or taste. It must be destroyed by boiling home-canned foods for at least ten minutes after opening the jar.

There has been some concern recently over whether several new varieties of tomatoes have less acidity than older strains. This would encourage the growth of botulism bacteria. However, the latest USDA tests show that several modern so-called "low-acid" tomatoes are not really low in acid. They are high in sugar, which hides the tart, acid tomato flavor. If other vegetables are added to tomatoes—for example, celery, green pepper or onion—"tomatoes" acidity is lowered and the product would then require the pressure canner method of processing.

In addition, USDA research shows that the common recommendation of adding citric acid may not substantially increase the acidity of canned tomato products.

The great canning lid shortage last year forced consumers either to pay for the whole jar unit or to let the home or farm stand produce spoil. This year, according to reports by the canning supplies industry and the USDA, there seems to be plenty of replacement lids. In fact, double the amount of 1975.

However, because of problems concerning who has the authority to test and control the lids, many of the new designs have not been pre-tested. The Better Business Bureau advises consumers to be cautious until more information has been gathered on these new types of lids.

There are generally two types of closures for canning jars: the metal screwband with flat metal lid and the porcelain-lined screw cap with shoulder rubber ring. Both screwband and zinc cap may be reused as long as they are in good condition, but neither metal lid nor rubber should ever be reused.

Don't get carried away with home processing—canning lima beans, for example, when no one in the family will touch them is not really economical. In addition, some vegetables like carrots are available all year around at reasonable costs.

Canning provides some non-economical benefits. Not only is there that "feeling of personal accomplishment," but the family may gladly unite to help in the canning process—anything to temporarily stop eating tomatoes!

A city police cruiser was wrecked by the pursued

This uninvolved bus was struck by escapees car

And the crowd laughed. . .

The 'free show' makes the people a sight

By STEVE STONE
Sun News Editor

The initial scene was like so many others I viewed in the past. Fire equipment and police cars with lights flashing, firemen with stripes and name tags on their gear reflecting strange skeleton figures, and a crowd watching.

Later, that crowd became the most disturbing aspect of Wednesday night.

After a few moments, after some looking around and key questions, it was obvious to me that this was more than just another accident.

It had been a "spectacular accident" as some would say, though such a phrase seems misplaced where there is so much property damage and injury. A police car was wrecked, two officers badly injured. The car that the police had been chasing was also wrecked, its occupants, identified as escapees from the Delaware State Prison, also injured. And a Volkswagen bus, was also toppled by impact with the sedan, its passengers injured.

The rescue crews worked quickly and professionally on all victims regardless of their part in the incident.

While reporters and cameramen moved through the area recording the event for their papers and television stations, police held back the crowd which had grown to number several hundred.

They watched, satisfying natural curiosity. (If people were not curious they would not even need newspapers. It is slightly disturbing, however, that destruction is always the biggest attention-grabber, but even that can be rationalized.)

It was the laughing that became overpowering in its meaning to me. Some in the crowd actually laughed and joked while men bled, while taxpayers' money was towed away. When the rescue crew started to move the torn body of one of the prisoners, the crowd tried to move, too, to see each step toward the ambulance.

The sight of an accident victim is not a pleasant one, but for me it was far preferable to the crowd. They gawked, stretched and moved forward. They were spectators at a horrible sideshow, and the blood and carnage was the headline act.

"Let me get a better look."

"Wow! Look at all the blood."

"Damn, he really got messed up that's wild."

"I wonder if he got the cop that good?"

It was a free show, the freak side of the circus being performed in the street, and it didn't cost them a nickel.

Has civilization in America slipped that far back that we find genuine satisfaction in such tragedy? Or is it simply a case of man never really having left his cave? Has he just added running water and electricity?

When a girl in another city recently slashed her wrists and threatened to cut her throat on the steps of a church, the crowd cheered and urged her on. The laughing and joking in the face of such horror on the beach, Wednesday night was little different.

As distressing was the attitude toward the police. One youth even remarked to a companion watching the removal of an injured officer, "Serves him right for being pig." I thought I had heard that term for the last time in the late 60's and early '70s.

One can only wonder what makes them want to be policemen. They are blamed because of high crime rates, yet people damn them when they are stopped for breaking the law. In a pinch, the people call expect them to appear immediately with an answer in hand—but otherwise don't let that cruiser be seen parked near their home. Policemen's lives are in constant danger, and their home life often disrupted by odd hours and extra work.

What do those who were laughing and joking say to the families who waited in hospital corridors with that inner bell-knocking a loved one has been hurt badly while serving the "public"?

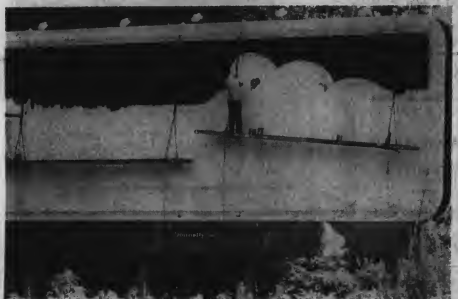

Sadly, my saying anything won't help. There will be other disasters, accidents, fires and deaths. Crowds will gather and some will laugh. But how hard will they laugh when the crowds gather to see them bleed, or die?

Over Labor Day

Drive wise; arrive alive!

Proper usage of safety belts and child restraint devices is essential for safe Labor Day driving.

"Because Labor Day is the last holiday weekend of the summer and a high fatality period, drivers and passengers need to protect themselves against adverse driving conditions by buckling their safety belts as soon as they get into a motor vehicle," said John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Virginia.

"For every motor vehicle driver and passenger in the United States used safety belts, 10-20,000 lives could be saved annually. When worn correctly, lap belts and shoulder belts keep motor vehicle occupants from being thrown out of their vehicle as well as keep the head and chest from hitting the steering wheel or instrument panel," the safety official explained.

Seat or lap belts should fit snugly and be worn low across the hips. Shoulder belts should be adjusted to allow space for a fist between the belt and the breast bone. A fist's width allows sufficient slack for the driver to reach essential operating controls. Safety belts should never be twisted.

Drivers and passengers need to wear both lap and shoulder belts for maximum protection. A shoulder belt should never be worn alone. The impact of a collision could cause a person to slip under the shoulder belt.

"Infants and young children need special safety protection in the form of child restraint devices. Since many children will be traveling with their parents during the Labor Day holiday, adults should be sure every child is secure in the appropriate restraint," said Hanna.

A padded bed or carrier (rearward-facing device) should be used by infants under 2 years. Small children 2 months to 4 years should be protected by an impact-absorbing shield, car seat or safety harness restraint. Effective restraint devices can be purchased at department or juvenile specialty stores.

Children over the age of four, weighing at least 40 pounds and at least 4 feet 7 inches tall, can use standard lap and shoulder belts. Two children should never be strapped into one belt.

"Acquiring the safety belt habit and using child restraint devices can save lives and reduce injuries on Labor Day and every day if motorists and passengers of all ages take time to buckle up," concluded Hanna.

Last year 22 people died on Virginia's highways during the three-day holiday. Nationally, some 407 highway fatalities occurred.

Writer offers cost comparisons on phones

To The Editor:

On October 7, the State Corporation Commission will hold a public hearing on another proposal to increase state telephone charges.

To be considered is a request to raise rates for private lines, in-state long distance calls and certain other tariffs.

Fellow readers may be interested in comparing the cost of telephone service in Virginia rural areas to its cost in other areas of the state and nation.

In Frankfort, Ky., a residential phone plus extension costs $12 per month, plus taxes.

In North Stamford, Ct., a residential phone plus two extensions costs $18, plus taxes.

In Pompano Beach, Fl., a phone is $13 plus taxes.

Just outside Richmond, a phone plus extension is $14.

In rural Albemarle County, a single residential phone is $23.20 per month plus taxes, nearly double the cost of a phone in nearby Charlottesville which is $11.20 plus tax.

It might be time for the State Corporation Commission to re-examine its practices on telephone company rate making. These practices have always made rural residents second class customers. The rural rate is statewide.

County governments should be especially interested in the SCC policy of encouraging Virginia Telephone companies to impose costly zone charges based on distance from the central office, nearly always located in a city.

It might also be timely to remember that the outdated party line is still widespread throughout Virginia, another second class service imposed on residents outside the cities.

Virginia's refusal to up to now to phase out old-fashioned zone charges and semipublic party lines years after even rural residents have seen Americans walking on the moon via TV is nothing short of mind boggling.

It is said the past is prologue. If so, when does the prologue end and modern telephone policy begin?

Julia Monk displays works

By VIRGINIA HOLMES

The delicate softness and flowing lines of the pastel work in art are to be found in the works of Julia Monk. Although she lives in Virginia Beach at 5262 Jacob Ct., she is a member of the Chesapeake Art Guild and has displayed her works locally as well as having studied up and down the Atlantic coast.

Julia is a pastel artist. She explains how she first started working in art.

"When I was 19 years old, I began studying at Lindsay Ocheltree's Art Studio from 1961 until early 1963. Mr. Ocheltree started me off with a lot of charcoal drawings -- practically everything. He wouldn't let me go into color for one year, and when I did, I went into pastels. He taught in the old-fashioned way -- starting with figures drawing. He felt that, if you could draw figures, then you could draw anything."

Then came marriage. In May, 1963, Julia became engaged. In November she was married. She traveled up and down the East Coast, from Norfolk to Rhode Island, Florida and then back to Norfolk in 1972. In between she studied several places under different instructors.

"When I am working in my pastels, it's actually just in front of me -- it doesn't come from my head. I try to put down what I see and the difference in the light and the shade and the contrasts. I set up my own still life in my studio. I don't like to work from photographs or slides. I can't see too much depth. I prefer having the still life set up and work from what I see," she commented.

"The reason I work in pastels, rather than watercolors or oils, is because I enjoy

Drive carefully; school's open

With the beginning of a new school year motorists are reminded to stop for school buses and reduce their speed when driving near schools and bus stops.

"The safety of students traveling to and from school should be the concern of every motorist. Waiting patiently for a stopped school bus and observing the 25 m.p.h. speed limit in school zones are two important ways motorists can prevent injuries and fatalities," said John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Virginia.

Drivers must stop when approaching a school bus with flashing signals and stopped to load or unload children. When highways are separated by physical barriers or unpaved median areas, the driver on the separated roadway is not required to stop for a school bus located on the other side of the barrier. However, before moving on motorists should always be certain children are clear of the roadway.

"Last year 203 people died on Virginia's highways during August and September, traditionally the two 'back to school' months. Often students by their own careless actions contribute to the high fatality period. A student may be late for the bus, dart across the road and fall in the way of a moving vehicle. Motorists need to be prepared for the unexpected and the unpredictable behavior of children by slowing down and driving with caution," said Hanna.

The safety official offered the following safety tips for motorists traveling near school areas and bus stops:

Always yield the right-of-way to pedestrians.

When approaching an intersection or bus stop where school children may be waiting, take your foot off the accelerator and place it over the brake pedal to give yourself that extra split second of reaction time for emergencies.

Women's Fellowship holding luncheon

The Women's Aglow Fellowship of Virginia Beach will hold its monthly luncheon 11 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 8 at Lake Wright Motel.

Guest speaker will be Joyce Trawick of Virginia Beach. Mrs. Trawick describes herself as "a homemaker who loves the Lord," and loves being the person He has made her to be.

For the past eight years she has been involved in teaching the Bible, counseling, working with young people, and "leading Christian women's retreats. She is currently writing a book about the love and life God gives so freely."

Luncheon is $3.50 per person. Reservations should be called in by Sept. 7. Call Florence Wilson, 497-3609; Debbie Underhill, 420-

Princess Anne Orientation

Several hundred students gathered at Princess Anne High School last week to participate in orientation for the soon-to-begin school year. Among those attending were: Greg long summer vacation, but the time is changing now. Schools really get rolling Sept. 7, and some 56,000 Beach students will be returning to the classrooms. Many will be in new buildings and unfamiliar surroundings. To help stem the tide of certain confusion, several schools have been (and are) holding orientation sessions for new students. The Student Council Association (SCA) at Princess Anne High School Beach Boulevard held its orientation last week.

SCA President Hal Carlson termed the orientation program a "success," saying that he felt many of the students now felt more at home and familiar with their school.

The program included welcoming talks from school officials and tours of the buildings on the school grounds conducted by P.A. cheerleaders.

Assistant Principal Larry Shackelford praised the students for their organization, noting the orientation was "excellent." "We had a good turnout with about 400 students participating. It was well planned by the SCA, and we are very pleased with it. Carlson, in turn, said that much credit for the program went to Michelle McDavid, chairperson of the orientation program.

Students were toured through the school to familiarize them with the location of classrooms and other facilities and help avoid some confusion on the first day of class. Here, Janice Flowers, Melody Hill, Brian Wald and Owen Glass listen as cheerleader and guide Mary Foster shows them around.

A new Red Cross booklet, "First Aid for Foreign Body Obstruction of the Airway," is now available from the Tidewater Red Cross Chapter, Norfolk.

The 22-page booklet provides instruction in prevention, early recognition and emergency treatment of blocked passages usually caused by food particles -- the so-called case coronary.

The booklet is designed primarily to be used by Red Cross instructors for teaching this emergency care in Red Cross Safety or Nursing courses. Instruction in dealing with airway blockage is important because symptoms are similar to a heart attack or stroke. Bystanders must decide quickly whether to apply manual abdominal thrusts for choking or some other emergency care for heart attack victims.

A poster telling how frequently case coronary occurs and how to deal with it when it does, is also available for posting in restaurants or other public places.

Council makes five new appointments

Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon appointed five persons to special bodies.

Holand Chandler was re-appointed to the Virginia Beach Development Authority for a four-year term. Four members were appointed to the Library Board for three-year terms Mrs. William Campbell, Jack Robertson, Mrs. James Morrow and Mrs. Swindell Pollock.

Over Bicentennial

Business boom bombed

There haven't been as many beach balls bouncing at Virginia Beach as was initially expected for the Bicentennial year.

While Virginia travel attractions are having a relatively good year, a disappointing attendance trend in June has thrown a definite monkey wrench in the works. This information comes from statistics supplied to the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce by 35 of Virginia's top travel destinations for the month of June.

The Chamber's monthly "Travel Barometer" shows that 16 attractions had less attendance in June than they did in the same month in 1975. 14 reported increases, and 5 were approximately even. With a few notable exceptions, those which did gain did so only slightly. Part of the blame for June's poor showing has been laid to projections by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration U.S. Travel Data Center and others, which indicated huge numbers of vacationers would visit East Coast travel destinations before and during the Fourth of July week-end. Experts in Virginia and elsewhere felt that the widely publicized crowd predictions caused a "Bicentennial backlash," mainly a fear of overcrowding, that kept travelers at home. The great numbers of local festivals available was also a factor in keeping people in their own communities during the July 4th celebration.

Attendance totals for the first half of the year are more encouraging. Despite the poor showing in June, 26 of the 35 stations reporting were ahead for the year-to-date, one was even, and only 8 were behind. Early reports coming in on July attendance figures would seem to indicate a return of the upward trend following the slow independence Day week.

In developing air transport

Dalton urges active role

Lieutenant Governor John Dalton today called for state government to "take an active role" in developing better air transportation in Virginia. Speaking to the Aviation Conference at the New Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach, Dalton said transportation (roads, railways, ports and air) are the major keys to economic growth in the state.

Virginia, Dalton said, "is the natural economic center of the mid Atlantic states from Maryland through the Carolinas. We can be the hub of that new growth center if our transportation systems measure up. No state stands to profit more from Virginia from good commercial air service, facilities for private aircraft and the further development of commuter airlines as well."

The development of good air service throughout Virginia "is a critical factor in attracting new companies and new jobs to Virginia," Dalton noted. "and the Commonwealth should have a transportation policy, which reflects this and actively pursues better service."

TCC establishes Seatack Center

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College has established a Student Information and Assistance Center at the Seatack Community Center on Birdneck Road. The information center hours are Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

All Seatack residents can receive information and assistance concerning TCC programs, schedules, financial aid, and veterans' benefits. Additionally, the center can assist in making college appointments for counseling, testing, and admissions assistance.

This center is another community service provided by TCC at no cost to the public.

Apple time here

It's finally here, but we all can feel it -- the coming of fall with its cool nights and clear days. Along with fall comes a treat for all Virginians -- apples.

Starting in late summer with early apples, the apple harvest promises a wealth of good eating for all. Eaten right out of the hand or made into scrumptious desserts or side dishes, apples have a place at all times.

Again this year, orchards in Virginia are participating in "pick-your own" where families can take an outing to the Amherst-Nelson area or Northern Virginia area and purchase apples directly from an orchard or have the fun of picking their own. Many of the orchards offer picnic grounds and special events on weekends such as apple butter or cider making or community crafts.

Don't worry about using a bushel or two of apples it's easy. Besides the number easily used for snacks and in cooking, apples can be used for canning, apple butter, spiced apple rings, applesauce, apples for pies or frozen as applesauce or apple slices for later use.

For information on pick your own orchards and the types and uses of Virginia apples, write apples, Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce, P.O. Box 1163, Richmond, Va. 23209 or call (804) 786-0406.

Carter, O'Brien confer

Billy O'Brien, the Democratic nominee for Congress in the fourth district of Virginia, recently met and conferred with Gov. Jimmy Carter, the chairman of the House Committee, and the Democratic leadership of the House at the Rhyll Regency Hotel in Washington, D. C. Carter, the Democratic Presidential nominee, endorsed O'Brien in his Congressional race and pledged his support. Both agreed that this would be a Democratic year.

According to his campaign coordinators, Carter will be appearing in the fourth district on behalf of O'Brien later this fall.

O'Brien and Carter have similar stands on many of the issues. O'Brien has said, "It is time to make the government accountable to the people of the United States. No longer should special interests dominate the decision making process... The best disinfectant for the government is sunshine. What we've got to do at all levels of government is to let the people know what is going on, and to give the people a say in the decision making process."

To both O'Brien and Carter, tax reform is one of the highest priorities. According to O'Brien, "The present system of taxation must be changed, to rid it of its present inequities." Both candidates agree that all people must pay a fair and reasonable tax.

According to both Carter and O'Brien, inflation must be conquered. They say government spending must be cut, and the government should be run more efficiently. Carter and O'Brien both support a zero-based budget to prevent excessive spending and the resulting debt.

Remodeling work at the Mariner Resort Inn at Virginia Beach has included redesigning all the rooms, making them more comfortable.

$400,000 project

Mariner Resort undergoes remodeling

The Mariner Resort Inn of Virginia Beach will be starting the final phase of a general facelift soon when they begin the remodeling of their high-rise building. With the completion of that effort the inn will have finished a two-year project at a cost of nearly $400,000.

The remodeling program began almost immediately after the new operators of the property took over ownership. Resort Motor Inns, Inc., a Virginia Beach based Management Company operates the inn for Neptune Associates, a Virginia limited partnership.

Purchase of the inn was completed on April 4, 1975, for an undisclosed sum. Within weeks renovation was underway.

The first major project was the old Open Hearth Restaurant. Now known as the Mariner's Wharf the new facilities include the Mariner's Wharf Family Entertainment Restaurant, Mariners Cove Gourmet Restaurant and the Shark's Club. Other renovations have included recarpeting, new wall coverings, new beds and bedding, new drapes, remodeling of some baths, and the installation of 17 efficiency kitchens in some of the rooms.

The courtyard of the inn was also remodeled earlier this year.

The inn, located at 57th and Ocean Front, has the attraction of being located away from the general hotel/motel district with all of its crowded parking and high rise towers, but this advantage can also be a problem as not all Beach visitors are aware of the inn's location. The massive renovation has all been part of an effort to provide Beach visitors with one of the best inns in Virginia Beach, and the 58 per cent increase recorded by the inn in gross sales indicates that it is working.

The Virginia Beach Public School administration today announced plans to continue the school division's participation in the National School Lunch and Special Milk programs.

These programs are designed to provide nutritious lunches to all students at reasonable prices and free and reduced price lunches to those children unable to pay the full price.

Student eligibility for free or reduced lunches or free milk is determined by a special scale which considers family income and the number of persons in a family.

Families which do not meet the income criteria but have unusual expenses such as high medical expenditures, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses are eligible to apply for these programs. In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits.

Determination of eligibility will be made by the school principal. Parents who might be dissatisfied with the principal's decision on their eligibility have the right to appeal to the assistant supervisor of the Virginia Beach Public Schools' food service program. The information provided on the application requesting free or reduced lunches is confidential and used only to determine the eligibility of a family. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

A complete copy of the school lunch policy is on file in each school and in the office of the division superintendent for review.

agricultural base over the five-year comparison period included:

--A 12 per cent increase in the number of farms

--A 7 per cent increase in the number of farms with sales over $2,500.

--A 19 per cent decrease in total farm acreage.

--A 22 per cent decrease in average acreage per farm.

--A 14 per cent decrease in the overall amount of land harvested.

--A 23 per cent decrease in the amount of land harvested per farm.

--A 19 per cent increase in the total value of product sold.

--A 165 per cent increase in the total value of products sold per farm.

The overall report indicates that while the average farm is decreasing in size and less land is being used, the amount of product has increased, and its value has jumped greatly. Costs have followed that increase in equal jumps.

The program was endorsed unanimously by Council members present.

The telephone has become an ever-present part of our lives in Tidewater. It has throughout most of the world. But it was only 64 years ago when the very first telephone came to Virginia Beach.

That first phone was, as is to be expected, installed for business purposes in 1908. For Mr. Dave Stormont at his store on 17th Street. Since that time the phones have advanced in system, styles and numbers. Today there are over 139,000 telephones in Virginia Beach, which averages more than one phone for every two citizens.

In 1911 the first telephone company serving the area was formed; it was the Princess Anne and Virginia Beach Telephone Company.

Eventually the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company took over the old PAAVBT. Today the system is known as Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

A year after the first local company was formed, it served 50 telephones from offices located at Atlantic and 22nd Street.

As the years passed the number of phones increased. By 1922 the number had passed over the hundred mark with 161 phones in service. Ten years later there were 739 phones ringing and buzzing in the city.

In the next few decades more and more homes and businesses installed the now not-so-newfangled telephones. In 1932 there were 739 phones; in 1942, at the mid-point of the Second World War, there were 2,384. The number doubled by 1952 with 5,800 phones in service, and in 1962 it had again doubled to 11,610.

Telephone installers must have felt like chickens with their heads cut off between '62 and 1972. The number of phones increased almost ten-fold: 105,537 by the end of '72.

Today the system is a complicated one with six switching centers within the city and a seventh planned for the Indian Lakes area next year.

And if 139,318 phones don't sound like enough, remember, there are two other companies, Continental and Norfolk and Carolina, which serve an additional 12,000 phones in the city.

As America celebrates its Bicentennial, the telephone companies are marking the centennial of Mr. Bell's invention which people laughed at a century ago, and which they laugh on today.

LABOR DAY - MONDAY, SEPT. 6

Let's Honor The Working People, Our Community's Life Source!

"Good old American know-how." We're as proud of that term as we are of the people who exemplify the phrase each and every working day. The people who've joined together, rolled up their sleeves, and pitched right in to offer their share of hard work.

They've developed and perfected skills and interests in every vocation under the sun with the knowledge that no matter what job they have, it's an important one. For without each of them doing their part, earning their wages, and making their living, this country wouldn't be the strong and prosperous nation that it is.

We've seen how our forefathers took an untamed wilderness and turned it into a thriving land. We've seen how labor has played a vital part in the growth and development of every field. And we've seen that the only way to achieve greatness is through hard work.

Thanks to those resourceful, dedicated people and their "good old American know-how," we've made such progress. And because of them, we shall continue to grow and prosper.

Let's take this Labor Day to pay tribute to our working force. And to show our pride, respect and appreciation for a job well done.

City acquires right of way

The City of Virginia Beach is acquiring right of way for a short stretch near the Norfolk city limits necessary for the widening of Princess Anne Road.

The acquisition is one of the last items necessary for construction of the road by the State. The project has met with heated objections from residents along Princess Anne Road who wanted to maintain the residential nature of the street and had asked City Council to consider alternatives.

Council approved the widening several months ago, and Monday afternoon approved the ordinance to acquire by purchase or condemnation temporary and permanent easements and from .347 miles west of Norfolk to the Norfolk City Line and .006 miles west of the intersection of South Parliament Drive to the Virginia Beach city line.

Rattlers killed in Kempsville

Mrs. W. T. Carter of 1100 Candlewood Dr., Virginia Beach, was out in the yard with her husband Friday afternoon. She was turning on a sprinkler in an adjacent lot which they own when she was greeted with a frightening sight—two live rattlesnakes.

Luckily, the three-foot snakes didn't try to attack Mrs. Carter. In fact, they didn't even rattle at her. She called for her husband who promptly dispatched the snakes with a shotgun.

The Carters are worried, however, that more snakes may be coming into the woods near their neighborhood. They fear for the safety of children who like to play in the woods.

A project is going to be built soon, they say, in untouched woodland between Princess Anne Road and Providence Road. They think that any rattlers in those woods will be forced to cross the Providence Road and find new homes in the woods where the children play.

(Editor: There is little that could be done to prevent that, which means that kids will just have to be sure of where they are playing. Perhaps parents will be able to check the areas out before the children begin using them.)

The Office of Animal Control can help if snakes are found anywhere in Virginia Beach. Their crews can come out to dispose of dangerous snakes if they are easily found. They cannot help where the snakes have gone under buildings or are in the woods.

The phone number for animal control is 427-4158. Shaffers can answer most questions about snakes, their dangers and how to deal with them should any be found.

Displaying the two rattlesnakes he killed in a lot next to his house, W.T. Carter of 1100 Candlewood Drive, said that he is worried about children playing in the woods in Kempsville because of snakes. Sun photo by Steve Stone.

Rescue Squad begins fund drive

The Virginia Beach Rescue Squad, Inc., which operates three stations in the city, has begun its 24th annual fund drive.

A non-profit, volunteer public service organization, the squad is not dependent on any agency or government for support.

Expenditures for 1975-76 totaled $68,112 after a tripling an increase in the number of calls, the service is projecting expenditures of $80,500 for the coming year.

The squad is the only one in the city which has personnel on duty 24 hours a day. Like many squads, they provide professionally trained, volunteer men and women to assist in times of emergencies at no cost to the individual(s) affected.

The squad's history dates back to May of 1952 when a small group of concerned citizens, with the assistance of the Fredericksburg Rescue Squad, organized the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne Rescue Squad. The group was the first chartered volunteer rescue unit in southeastern Virginia.

In 1955 public response made possible the construction of the squad's current headquarters known by most as Station 14.

As the city grew and the need arose, the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad was instrumental in the formation of the Kempville and Hammond - Suffolk squads, providing organizational framework, training and guidance.

The Virginia Beach Rescue Squad handles about 40 per cent of all the calls in this city of nearly a quarter-million residents.

The squad's average cost per response has been down over previous years, running at $16.07 in 1975 as compared to $18.87 in 1975. The greatest expense is gas, oil and maintenance of the vehicles, at over one fifth of the whole budget.

The current squad includes 60 members, all certified by the Commonwealth as qualified in advanced first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Contributions are needed to continue the service of the squad. For more information write the squad at P. O. Box 945, Virginia Beach.

Naval aviators planning Virginia Beach convention

Although the Democratic convention in New York and the Republican convention in Kansas City are past history, the electric excitement of a convention still hangs in the air around Virginia Beach, home of Naval Air Station Oceana.

This is the site of the first annual convention of the Association of Naval Aviators, Inc. (ANAA), and is scheduled to be held Sept. 17 and 18.

Plans have already been made to insure that there is something for everyone at this convention. Men's and women's golf; tennis singles, doubles, and mixed doubles; tours of the Norfolk area for out-of-towners; a tour of the aircraft carrier, USS INDEPENDENCE (CV-62); a cocktail party; and much, much more is being planned for those who attend.

The early birds that have already mailed in their registrations have already received their tickets to the cocktail party and the banquet which will have George Bush, Director of the CIA, as the featured speaker. They want to be certain they are included in the maximum 1,500 persons that can be accommodated at this convention.

The ANAA is a new organization, formed last year to stimulate and extend an appreciation for naval aviation, especially the history and achievements, and it's everybody's association. As interest in naval aviation is all that is required for membership.

Membership in the ANAA is not required to attend the convention. You may register and attend the convention to look the association over to decide if you wish to join. At the convention, you may join as a life member. Membership includes a paid subscription to "Wings of Gold," the official magazine of ANAA.

A multi-media presentation entitled "Naval Aviation: Past, Present, Future" will be presented to conventioners at the Cavalier Hotel where out-of-towners will stay.

This first annual convention is being hosted by the Tidewater Chapter of the Association of Naval Aviators, with Vice Admiral Howard E. Greer, Commander Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet, as the president.

The guest list already includes the former Chief of Naval Operations and President of the ANAA, Admiral T.H. Moore, USN (Ret); and the present Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral James L. Holloway.

An open business meeting will be held which will include the election of officers for the coming year for ANAA. A static display of aircraft will also be available for viewing.

Registration for this convention is on a first-come, first-serve basis and due to facility limitations, must be cut off at 1,500, so don't wait too long to send in your registration forms and your check. If you need a form or additional information, call 444-3373/3374.

Welfare Council to hold lunch

The September luncheon meeting of the Tidewater District, Virginia Council on Social Welfare, will be held 12 noon Thursday, Sept. 23 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 201 St. Paul's Blvd. Norfolk.

Speaker will be Alene Jacobus of the Virginia Beach Mental Health Center. Community Development Council will speak on "The Stress in Your Life—Getting in Touch."

Send reservations to Mrs. Dorothy Mason, Division of Social Services, 1000 E. Main St., Chesapeake 23046. Make checks payable to VCSW.

Cans yield cash

With the children, being back to school, extra cash comes in handy for clothes, books and lunches. Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company will pay you 15 cents per pound for your all-aluminum beverage cans and clean household aluminum.

You'll be preserving one of our nation's resources, helping to fight litter and earning extra money for you and your family. Recycling aluminum saves energy, too. It takes only five per cent of the energy needed to make recycled aluminum as it does to make the metal from virgin ore.

Remember to place a magnet to the sides of all your cans. If it does not stick, then it is aluminum and worth 15 cents a pound—cash on the spot.

In Virginia Beach, bring your aluminum to the Civic Center (Dome), 19th and Pacific Ave. 1-3 p.m. every Wednesday.

In Norfolk, deposit aluminum at Military Circle Shopping Mall, 880 N. Military Hwy., 9-11 a.m. every Saturday, or Norfolk Beverage Co., 301 E. 20th St., 10 a.m. to 12 noon every Wednesday.

SECTION B

The Marlins appear to be taking it easy this year

Football Preview

By BLAIR THURMAN
Sun Sports Editor

On Friday night will begin the 1976 high school football season, and it should be an interesting one at Virginia Beach.

One reason is the new alignment. The Eastern District has been divided, spawning the embryonic Beach District, consisting of the six Beach high schools. Now, more than ever, a team cannot afford to lose a single game, since the odds of another team losing a district game are decreased.

The stronger teams can't take anything for granted--one loss could do them in. The coaches of the pre-season favorites are, exceptionally coy, not taking anything for granted, and lauding the potential of the weaker teams.

No reason to aggravate an opponent.

Another difference this year, is the absence of the jayvee squads, the training grounds for the varsity in days gone by. In order to comply with Title IX, the Beach eliminated the jayvee teams so that equality with the girls, who had no such teams, would be insured.

Only time will tell how this will affect future varsity squads, but initial appearances seem to indicate that fewer boys are going out, knowing that they won't get to play for another year or two. This won't hurt Beach teams' competitiveness within the district, but may damage their ability to compete with schools that have a jayvee program.

Those are but interesting sidelights to what should be an exciting season of football. So without further ado, let's look at the teams.

Bayside: fear the veer

Marina coach Terry Morton has a touch act to follow, but just may have the horses to do it. Morton guided his baseball team to the state championship last spring, and would like nothing better than to keep on the winning track.

Last season, Morton adopted the Houston Veeer attack, and Chris Scissom is the man who will run it. The Marlins went 7-3 with the veer last year, and although Morton wasn't completely satisfied with it, he feels that with a year of veer experience under their pads, his boys are capable of a more successful campaign.

Luther Koox and Shelton White, two speedsters capable of sub-10 second 100's, will play at halfback positions, not giving opposing defenses anyone to key on.

Ronald Williams and Nathan Lewis will see action as flankers.

The offensive line looks strong and has experience. Guard Donny Jones and tackle Ed Wack started last year, and will be joined by Steve Kellsager at center, a reserve last year, Dan Krueger at guard, and Mike Starling, a jayvee tackle last season.

There is no shortage of tight-end talent, with Mike McConnell and Wilbur Whaff handling that chore.

Defensively, the Marlins could be awesome. At middle guard is sophomore Timmy Harold, a 6-2, 260 pound rock. At tackles, are Dan Krueger and Andy Russell, who started last year. The ends will be Mike McConnell and Paul Tyner, who Morton says will be an All-American some day. Tyner is injured now, however, and remains a question mark early in the season.

Mail Swanson and Donny Jones will play linebacker. Jones started last year.

The secondary will be patrolled by Wilbur Whaff. Whaff is the defensive "monster." Joining Whaff in the secondary will be Lee Baxter, Tod Archari and Bob Gurnee, jayvee players last year.

The Marlins will be hard to beat, and other teams know it. Week after week, they will have to be prepared for facing teams at their best. It shouldn't bother them too much.

Prediction: First.

Kellam: could take it all

One team that is sure to have something to say about Bayside's superiority this year, will undoubtedly be Kellam, where coach John Cooke has established a winning tradition that should carry over to this year.

After posting a 1-9 and a 3-4 record his first two years as the Knight's head coach, Cooke has turned Kellam into a perennial powerhouse. His record for the last three seasons is 28-4. Cooke knows how to win, and intends to do so more winning.

One reason for Kellam's bright outlook, is quarterback Billy Carr, the SUN's selection last year for All-City quarterback. "Billy can throw," said Cooke, "so we will be going to the air."

The rest of the backfield is not blessed with experience though. Trent Haynes has moved from the defensive backfield in order to carry the ball, and Dennis Hoggard, an All-City guard, has also made a similar move. Herbert Bright will be seeing action in the backfield too. Cooke says that this year, "it's a case of back-up people filling in."

The line should be strong, and is sound enough to ensure Cooke of good lines in the future. The elder statesman of the line is at center, where Terrell Williams will play.

Williams is a senior. Junior Maurice Joseph will start at one guard slot, with David Powell and Greg Pugh still battling for the other one. Wally Brown, a 6-4, 239 pound behemoth, started last year as a sophomore. He will blow out some big holes this year. Clyde Johnson, a 6-4, 220 pound sophomore will also play tackle.

Joe Efrid and Tom Ludvik are the leading candidates for the end positions.

On defense, the secondary will be particularly strong, with Trent Haynes, Matt Simen, Robert Etridge, Scott Smith and Herbert Bright all expecting to see action.

Eugene Rose, a starter last year at linebacker, will be ably assisted by Lamar Cuffie.

Some of the defensive linemen will be Maurice Joseph, Dennis Hoggard, Wally Brown, David Foxwell, Clyde Johnson, Joel Efrid and Greg Gerber.

When replacements are needed, Barry McLaughlin, hampered last year by a knee injury, can go both ways.

He will also punt.

Kellam was number one last year and could easily repeat. But when you're number one, everyone wants your blood.

Prediction: Second.

No, it's not a new Marine offense, it's just a drill

Cox: may rise and surprise

"We don't have much game experience or depth at critical positions," summed up Cox coach Al Hahit, of his football team.

"His real find hands, round well. He's a good rangy kid." The center of the line is ably filled 6-2, 225 pound Eddie Hahit, the coach's son.

Nevertheless, the Falcons could be tough, due in part to the switching of Randy Goffigan, a superb athlete, from receiver to quarterback. Goffigan led Tidewater in receptions last year, but will be calling the signals this season on the throwing end of the passes this year. "Randy has really looked good so far," said Hahit. "He's a good athlete. He throws well to the right and to the left and is good on sprint-outs."

But although Goffigan looks good, there is very little depth, which means a lot of players must go both ways. "When you look at our offense," said Hahit, "you're just about looking at our defense."

Playing fullback is Hahit's 1-Formation will be Jerry Larson, who made the transition from guard. Larson is strong and fast. "He goes in hard," said Hahit. "He kills people."

At the tailback position will be Tim Disher, who hasn't run much before.

Pop Dally will play slot back.

At split end will be John Reed, who according to Hahit, Mason Trask should be a standout at tackle and defensive guard, and sophomore Mark Woodhouse, a guard and defensive tackle, looks exceptionally good.

And Hugh Hendricks, who will go both ways as a guard and linebacker too, should play good ball.

Hahit thinks the defense, "looks pretty good." Brian Reindeau, 6-3, and 225 pounds, won post-season honors last year, and should do the same in this, his senior year. Reindeau plays on both lines.

Along with Reindeau, on defense, are Woodhouse and Doug Moore. Hahit says of his linemen, "I wouldn't trade them for anyone."

In the defensive secondary, Chuck Reynolds, Kenny Cornick and John Reed appear to be headed for starting roles.

The Falcons have some quality ballplayers, but may be spread too thin. One or two injuries could do them in entirely. Look for Goffigan to spark the offense.

Prediction: Third.

pigskin prognostications

By BLAIR THURMAN

As the SUN's "fearless football forecaster," I will attempt to pick the winners of each week's games. The picture in the column may be used for a dartboard by the underdogs.

Kellam plays at First Colonial this week, but the Knights know they can't afford a first game loss in their quest for the Beach District crown. This will negate the Patriot's home-field advantage.

Kellam by 12.

Bayside hosts Kempville in their opener and must be favored. The Chiefs should be much improved after last year, but so should the Marlins. And the Marlins went 7-3 last season.

Bayside by 10.

Princess Anne plays at Cox, in what should be a close, hard-fought contest. Neither team is favored to finish at the top, but neither team wants to concede anything either.

Cox by 2.

Patriot co-captains David Cavett and Ron Zollicoffer

First Colonial: lacks depth

If experience is a necessity in high school football, then First Colonial is in for a long season. The Patriots have no return starters.

"The boys have showed a lot of enthusiasm," said coach Frank Webster, optimistically. "But when you're working with new faces, it takes a while to know what you've got."

Webster will run a Wishbone T offense this year, with co-captain Ron "Zollicoffer" Zollicoffer having a good shot at quarterback. "He'll play somewhere," guaranteed Webster. "He can play split end or halfback too."

David Cavitt, the other co-captain, will probably start at split end.

One of the halfback slots will be filled by Leon Lawson. In fact, his brother James may join him in the backfield. Scott Perkins, who got some experience at linebacker last season, was described by his coach as a "real hitter."

"We've got to make up for inexperience," said Webster. That's true. But often inexperience is made up for with enthusiasm, and the Patriot practices are indeed enthusiastic. More so, in fact than some of the more favored schools. Nevertheless, it will probably be a long hard road.

Prediction: Sixth.

Kempville players leap-frog during practice

Kempville: much improved

Kempville coach Ed Booth began this season with a head full of hair. Whether or not he finishes the season in the same condition remains to be seen.

The Chiefs compiled only a 3-7 record last year, but with the return of 11 starters, things looked as if they might take a turn for the better. Until the injuries.

The weakest part of the Chief attack is probably the passing game, and number one quarterback Mark Christian has lost precious practice time because of a bruised muscle. That can only hurt.

And Harrison Freeman, a starter last year at tailback has injured himself, and is a question mark.

There should be enough running backs though, to make Booth's I-Formation formidable. Bob Beamon, who started last year as a junior will get to play, as will John Boston. Rick Stottlemeyer "came on real strong" last year, rushing for over 100 yards in each of the Chief's last two encounters.

The receivers, a bored group last year, hope to catch a few more aeriels this season. Split and Rick Beasley, the leader in this department last year with four catches, returns, as does Chris Worst, the right end.

The line, according to Booth, is "young and inexperienced."

The Chief secondary would appear to be the strongest part of their defense with several players fighting for starting spots. The leading candidates are, Rick Bilangi, Ricky Rich, Scott Davis, Jimmy Warton, and Doug Anderson.

Pete Kitchen returns at linebacker. Several others are in a dogfight for a starting spot at that position.

On the defensive line, Frank Elkins, Tom Reap and Alvin Biddle return from last year's squad.

Mark Creekmore, who averaged about 38 yards a kick last year, returns, and could lead the district in this category. It is an important one.

The Chiefs have a good backfield, but the line is questionable. They have good receivers, but their passing may be off the mark.

Prediction: Fourth

Davidson chooses ODU

Timmy Davidson, a 138-pounder from state runner-up Cox High, has signed a grant-in-aid to wrestle for Old Dominion University this season.

Davidson, 17-3 as a senior, placed second in the Eastern District and third in the regional for Cox. In the state meet, he wound up sixth after losing a 4-3 decision in the semi-finals.

Princess Anne's Jimmy DiNardo

Lost QB Princess Anne

The Cavaliers of Princess Anne were dealt a serious blow when they lost the services of their number one quarterback last week, with a broken collarbone. Paul Townsend's injury thrusts Jimmy DiNardo, who expected to start at halfback, into the limelight.

"You can't lose your first string quarterback and not be hurt," noted Cox coach Ralph Gahagan. "This will hurt our depth."

Now, Calvin Menden, a guard, will play halfback, while Wayne Weidenhoft will be forced to go both ways at offensive and defensive guard.

And how will DiNardo do as QB on such short notice? "Jimmy will do great anywhere you put him," said Gahagan. This will be his first quarterback job.

Removing DiNardo from a running position will also increase the pressure on Jesse Williams, a 5-9 speed merchant who will run at tailback in the Cavalier I-Formation attack.

The receiving corps is headed by Charlie Mann and Kevin Haxler, both of whom are expected to play light end.

The line should be bolstered by Jackie Mark Ziegler and Mike Dougherty, a pair of seniors with experience. Greg Sapp and Weidenhoft will start again at defensive guard, and will be joined on the line by Mike Dougherty and Antoine Holoman at the ends.

Gahagan considered how thin he is everywhere and offered, "I hope those kids are tough as hell." Then he added, "But I think we have the ingredients to win."

Prediction: Fifth.

Cox rally tonight

Frank W. Cox High School's Booster Club will host a sports rally for parents only tonight, Sept. 2, at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The speaker for the program will be Al Hahit, head football coach at Cox.

Refreshments will be served and all parents of students are invited to attend. C.H.S. spokesmen are urging everyone to support the Cox athletes in their effort to earn top honors throughout the year.

Band associations insure that the beat goes on

What keeps the high school bands and drill teams going? There are many things involved, but one of the most important factors to remember is the band and drill team parent associations from the different high schools. These groups include not only parents of the band and drill team members, but anyone interested in the well-being of the unit.

One of the main functions of these groups is to raise funds for the trips, uniforms, and any other expense that may come up to support the different units with which they are connected.

Every band and drill team in our high schools has a parent association to back it up. The more active this group is, the more successful their unit is. Many parents are not involved, and this shows in the long run with the unit itself.

These associations work hand-in-hand with the different directors of each high school for the well-being of the unit. And many lack the support they should be getting. People never stop to think that these young people are doing their thing—and they're not out causing trouble for others, but doing something useful and constructive.

The SUN has tried to compile a list of the meeting nights of these groups and the president in charge at the meetings in hopes that it may encourage more of the parents to take an active part in the different organizations:

The Marching Falcons Band and Drill Team Parents Association from Cox High meets on the second Tuesday of each month, Mrs. Joan Walsh, president.

The Marching Marlins Band Parents Association from Bayside High meets on the first Tuesday of each month, Audrey Klante, president; The Marching Marlinettes Parents Association from Bayside High meets on the first Thursday of each month, Mary Kaye Shoemaker, president.

The Marching Cavaliers Band and Drill Team Parents Association meets on the fourth Monday of each month, Ken Wirt, band president; Ernest Etheridge, drill team president.

The Marching Knights Band and Drill Team Parents Association meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month, Hursabel Hobbs, band president; Charlotte Flagg, drill team president.

The Marching Chiefs Band and Drill Team Parents Association meets on the last Tuesday of each month, Carol Sekula, band president; Charles Irwin, drill team president.

Most of the Parents Associations have a membership fee, and when the school year begins each parent is contacted and asked to join. Everyone has an opportunity to take an active part, but not many even bother to join or to let the students know they're really interested.

Right now would be a good time to let that student know you are behind him all the way. Ask your band member or drill team member if they have such an organization that you could join—and come out when they meet. Help share the load that others have been carrying for too long!

Also when you hear that your kids are performing at a concert, football game, field competition, or parade, be there to give them the moral support that is so important to our youth today. They may not say they want you there, but they do and they will show that they do in their own way.

And for the ones that say it is a clique that runs the organization, remember—the abbreviation for clique is WORK!

Police display wares; explain role to public

Pembroke Mall in Virginia Beach was the site this past week of numerous demonstrations and displays in conjunction with Police Week.

Instigated last year, the Police Week program is designed to help educate the community about the spectrum of services offered by the Virginia Beach Police Department.

Among the programs were a Burglary Prevention Clinic, a display and explanation of dangerous drugs and a showing of the police helicopter (with questions and answers about the chopper), as well as regular patrol cars and police motorcycles and their uses.

The police boat and a mobile crime lab were also on display. The K-9 Corps demonstrated the command dogs' training. Rounding out the exhibit a display on techniques of rape prevention.

Officer T. Ramsey of the Virginia Beach Auxiliary Police Force explains locks and their different features to Alex Johnson and his son Dirk, 3, of Chesapeake. The display was part of Police Week at Pembroke Mall.

The Police Command Dogs drew a large and interested crowd at Pembroke Mall last week.

Virginia Beach Public Notices

VIRGINIA: Notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, September 8, 1976, the City of Virginia Beach shall submit to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development a request and certification for the release of $1,318,000 in Entitlement Funds under Title 1 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The request and certification for the release of funds pertains to the Seateck Sanitary Sewerage Program (Service Areas 1, 2, and 3), the Seateck Water Program, the Newlight Sanitary Sewerage Program (Service Area 1), the Newlight Water Program, the Queen City Water Program, and Contingency monies as outlined in the City's application to HUD on April 9, 1976.

The City of Virginia Beach has prepared an environmental review record respecting the above project for which the release of funds is sought. This record may be reviewed and copies obtained thereof at the Virginia Beach Department of Planning from 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday. The City of Virginia Beach is the official Applicant for the above-referenced funding and the address is: Municipal Center, City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, Beach, Va. 23456. George L. Hanbury, City Manager, is the Chief Executive Officer representing the Applicant.

The City of Virginia Beach will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title 1 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The City of Virginia Beach is certifying to HUD that the City of Virginia Beach and George L. Hanbury, in his official capacity as City Manager, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making, and action, and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Virginia Beach may use its Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer of the applicant; or (b) That applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at 701 East Franklin Street, Richmond, Va. 23219. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after September 29, 1976, will be considered by HUD.

Working Around The Clock For You!

Some advertising messages are fleeting . . . they're seen or heard for a few seconds . . . and then they are gone.

It's not that way when you advertise in classified. Your message, in print, can be read and re-read . . . any time of the day or night.

When you're looking for results, look to classified. One phone call puts you ad in print and it keeps on working for you . . . right around the clock!

HOMETOWN NEWSPAPERS SELL! Here's why: The reader of the hometown weekly paper has more time to pursue each copy, because the newspaper is usually smaller, less crowded and with editorial content that is alive with local events that involve the reader. This provides a depth of readership that favors the classified advertiser in hometown newspapers. Give us a try!

That's why Hometown newspapers are read with such interest. Folks believe in them. Advertising pays results.

Who like pets are regular readers and users of Classified. They know that where dogs, cats and other pets are bought and sold.

Local DARs sponsor naturalization ceremony

Three Tidewater area chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution banded together recently in a joint Bicentennial observance. They sponsored ceremonies at which about 200 new citizens were naturalized aboard the USS Guam.

The chapters of the D.A.R. involved were the Adam Thoroughgood, the Great Bridge, and the Sarah Constant Chapters. Their membership includes residents of Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Norfolk and Portsmouth.

Mrs. William H. Austin, Jr., of Virginia Beach, regent of the Adam Thoroughgood Chapter, was the general chairman of the event. She worked closely with the Navy and the U.S. District Court in planning and carrying out the program last week.

The Hon. Richard B. Kellam, U.S. District Court Judge for the Eastern District of Virginia presided over the court session during which photographers were allowed to record the event. (Courts normally bar photographers from sessions.)

The naturalization ceremony was the first ever held aboard a U.S. Naval vessel.

Capt. Thomas A. Stanley, commanding officer of the Guam, welcomed the guests assembled in the large hangar deck of the helicopter carrier.

The ship was brightly decorated with signal flags and bunting.

Mrs. Austin introduced Leonard F. Chapman, Jr., commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington who addressed the group.

The ceremonies were interlarded with patriotic song and each of the new citizens was introduced by I. Steven Krup of the Naturalization Service.

Following the Oath of Citizenship each new citizen received a certificate and an American flag.

Many of those naturalized will reside in the Tidewater area, most in Virginia Beach and Norfolk.

They represented a vast array of nationalities and expertise. There were nurses, doctors, engineers and pharmacists from Panama, Canada, China, Jordan, Germany and numerous other nations. Many of the new citizens are military personnel stationed in the area.

A reception hosted by the officers and crew of the Guam followed the naturalization ceremonies.

The program was termed a success by officials and there was a great deal of praise for the D.A.R.'s efforts.

Says new American

Citizenship, 'feels fine!'

By STEVE STONE
Sun News Editor

"I feel fine!" Exclaimed Mrs. Alba Medhat Badawi of Virginia Beach last week shortly after becoming an American citizen.

"Now I have the rights of any American!"

Mrs. Badawi was one of nearly 180 people who received their citizenship aboard the USS Guam docked in Norfolk.

Her husband, Medhat Badawi, (who was naturalized in June in ceremonies at Yorktown) was on hand for the occasion.

"She's a great country," Mrs. Badawi said moments after becoming one of America's newest citizens, "a rich country, and I like her very much."

The Badawis came to the United States from Egypt. Mrs. Badawi a former resident of the capital, Cairo. Her husband arrived about a year before her in 1970, and she joined him in 1971.

They lived in New Jersey for a few years and then moved to Virginia Beach where Mr. Badawi is a chemist.

They both say they like Virginia Beach better than New Jersey. "The people are very friendly, they were not as friendly in New Jersey and it was much by accident."

The Badawis were not naturalized together because of bureaucratic problems—their personal files were in two different cities. Both have been looking forward to full citizenship since they filed more than five years ago.

They reside on Broad Street in Virginia Beach.

Widening planned

Withchduck Road Project to be discussed Tuesday

Location and design plans for a project which would improve North Withchduck Road in Virginia Beach will be discussed at a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday Sept. 14 at the Bayside Junior High School auditorium, located at 1700 North Main Street in Suffolk.

The proposed plans would dual-lane this facility from its intersection with the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway to Pembroke Boulevard, a distance of 2.1 miles.

For the benefit of citizens who wish to know more details of the proposed plans, representatives of the Department of Highways and Transportation will be at the Bayside Junior High School auditorium from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday, the evening prior to the public hearing to informally discuss the proposed project.

They will have with them maps, brochures, environmental study reports and other data relative to the proposed plans. These will be available for informal review and study by interested citizens, and the department's representatives will be available to answer questions.

This material is also available for public study and review now in the office of the Acting Director of Community Services for Virginia Beach, located in the Administration Building at the Municipal Center on Court House Drive, at the Department of Highways and Transportation residency office, located at the intersection of Business Route 13 and VA 168 in Chesapeake; and at the district office, located at 1700 North Main Street in Suffolk.

The project, if approved as planned, would begin at its intersection with VA 44 and, following the existing location, proceed in a north-easterly direction to Pembroke Boulevard.

Where the proposed project curves to the into Pembroke Boulevard, approximately 500 feet of existing Withchduck Road would be closed to through traffic. A temporary detour route would be constructed to serve those property owners adjacent to this section of North Withchduck Road. Through traffic would use Pembroke Boulevard for access to Independence Boulevard.

Should the project be approved, the road would have two lanes for each direction of traffic. They would be separated by a raised median varying in width from four to 16 feet.

Curb and gutter would be placed on both sides of the road and a concrete, nine-foot-wide bicycle trail would be constructed on the west side of the road, as requested by the city.

On the east side of the road, a five-foot grass utility strip and a four-foot sidewalk would be placed. Six-inch backup spaces would be provided behind the sidewalk on the east side and behind the bicycle trail on the west side.

All intersecting streets would be reconstructed sufficiently to tie into the new facility. Left-turn storage lanes and crossovers would be provided at all streets except Southern Boulevard, Jeanne Street, Withchduck Avenue, Jacqueline Avenue, Houston Lane and Welch Lane.

These streets would have right-turn access in and out, with opposite-direction access being provided by adjacent streets and around-the-block patterns.

Many from Beach

Tidewater turns out for Carter's visit

By STEVE STONE
Sun News Editor

It was everything that a visit by a presidential contender should, or depending on your involvement, shouldn't be.

There should be perfect weather, a large and friendly crowd, a great deal of media representation and a smooth schedule. There was. There shouldn't be pushing and shoving, crowds, cords to trip over, ropes to straddle. There were.

The Labor Day visit of Jimmy Carter to the Norfolk Botanical Garden and later Scope, drew large crowds. As many as 15,000 people were estimated to have crowded into the Gardens to see and hear the Democratic nominee.

The Carter visit didn't just happen though. It was planned over a period of days.

The logistics of the visit were complicated and the timing tight, but it was an advance man's dream-come-true, everything seemed to go right. The weather was perfect, not too hot or cold. It was sunny, though bright at times for the press' desires.

In speaking with 25 people scattered through the crowd it was found that Carter had drawn his audience from around the Hampton area. Eight of the people questioned were from Norfolk, seven from Virginia Beach, four from Chesapeake, two from Portsmouth, one from Hampton and one from West Virginia.

About half said they were strong Carter supporters while the rest were there to see someone who was making a little history.

"He's famous," exclaimed one woman. "I just want to be able to say I saw him and shook his hand!" An O.D.U. graduate student explained that he was going to write-in Ronald Reagan, "But I want to meet Mr. Carter anyway."

While the whole purpose of the visit was to help send local Democratic candidates off to victory with the presidential nominee's nod, it was clear that Carter was the main attraction. Governor Carter's speech was interrupted by numerous rounds of applause and cheers. The audience was quickly caught up in the atmosphere of the moment.

Some people became as interested in the "antics" of the media as they were in the nominee. Several hundred reporters photographers television cameramen and other crewmen pushed, shoved and generally battled each other as they jockeyed for positions. One was quick to find that an NBC cameraman, a still photographer and a Secret Service agent can not occupy the same space at the same time; the usual winner was the Secret Service.

Local police were everywhere and the Secret Service was conspicuous with sunglasses, earphones and miniature microphones and similar lapel pins. Private security agents also kept a wary eye on the crowd and the press.

Trying to talk to an agent can leave one with a paranoid feeling, they usually don't answer, never smile and if they do say something it is, "more on, over or away." One exception noticed was at a particularly "tight" moment as Governor Carter moved through the crowd: "I'll bet you love this," an agent was told, he just looked skyward briefly as if to ask, "Why me?"

The visit left everyone with something. People with a thrill. Reporters with a story. Secret Service agents with sore feet and Jimmy Carter with more votes.

Voters must register

Residents of Virginia Beach who have not yet registered to vote are being advised to do so on or before Oct. 2 by the general registrar of the city.

Mrs. Clea G. Liverman has announced that persons may register to vote any week day between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at her office at 2304 Courthouse Dr. in the Municipal Center.

Additional information may be obtained from the registrars' office by calling 427-4667.

School Board meeting changed

The regular monthly meeting of the Virginia Beach School Board scheduled for Sept. 21, has been rescheduled room of the main School Administration Building.

Tina Joyce and Neil Zetterberg of Virginia Beach enjoy the gardens set up under the Dome for the Third Annual Flower and Garden Show held this past weekend in Virginia Beach. Sponsored by the Men's Garden Club of Tidewater, the event drew large crowds of spectators and buyers. More photos on page 4.

Council to consider septic ordinances

A new septic tank ordinance which will allow the freeze placed on construction on some of the City's low-lying acreage will be before Virginia Beach City Council Sept. 27.

The City of Chesapeake

last week passed ordinances setting out procedures for securing approval for septic tanks on lots of three acres or more of marginal property which has been closed to development since February of 1975. New regulations of the State Health Department deemed much of the property unfit for septic tank installation.

Virginia Beach, faced with the same problem, plans to prepare an ordinance consistent with the Chesapeake ordinances.

With access were granted permission to enact the ordinances to which will offer some relief in the two cities. The ordinances, as passed by Chesapeake, provide for more stringent procedures than existed before February, 1975.

Neptune Festival

'Royal Armada' now being planned

King Neptune's Royal Armada of pleasure boats will escort the "Royal Barge" to the site of the Norwegian Lady Friday, Sept. 24 at 7:45 p.m. Judging of the Royal Armada, one of the festival's first competitive events, will begin at 7 p.m. Boats will assemble located between 14th and 15th Streets, and the craft will be judged for their decorations.

Theme of this year's festival is "Our Heritage--From Sea to Shining Sea".

There are no limitations with regard to boat and ship decorations, but all entries must have running lights as the sun will set at 6:58 p.m.

Judges for the Royal Armada are Cdr. Richard Muller and Lcdr. Jim Cooper. Official judging will be at 7:15 p.m.; after that, the Armada will proceed approximately one mile out to sea where they will meet and escort the Royal Barge to the 25th Street landing.

The first place winner will receive the Festival trophy, and ribbons of distinction will be awarded to boats of honorable mention.

All pleasure boats are invited to participate in the Royal Armada judging and meet King Neptune and the Royal Family as the entourage arrives from the sea.

Entry forms are available at all Virginia Beach marinas or may be obtained from the Virginia Beach Neptune Festival Office, Box 390, Virginia Beach, 23459. Applications must be received no later than Sept. 15.

Charter cruises will be conducted from Rudee Inlet for those interested in escorting the Royal Barge to Virginia Beach. Charters will leave at 6:30 p.m. and return at approximately 8 p.m. An excursion fee for adults is $4 and children under 12 only $2.

Warner Athlye is serving as Commodore of the Fleet and will coordinate the Royal Armada.

Beach to get citation

Virginia Beach is slated to receive a special citation from the American Automobile Association for its low casualty record at ceremonies to be held in Richmond.

Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr. will present the award during a luncheon at the Richmond Holiday Inn West. Virginia Beach is one of 28 localities that will receive special awards for pedestrian safety.

Traffic signals at Virginia Beach Boulevard and Aragona Boulevard would be modified to fit the new facility, but no new traffic signals are planned at this time.

On-the-street parking would not be permitted after completion of the facility. Entrances are being provided along both sides of the project, and new entrances may be provided with the approval of the City of Virginia Beach. Written statements and other exhibits relative to the proposed project may be presented in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the hearing. Such written statements and exhibits may also be submitted to the department within 10 days after the public hearing.

Relocation assistance programs, as well as tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction, will be discussed at this public hearing.

Expressway Commission seeks ideas and suggestions

The Norfolk-Virginia Beach Expressway Study Commission, chaired by Delegate Glenn B. McClanahan of Virginia Beach, will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the Virginia Beach City Council Chambers.

Public opinions on the following matters are of great concern to the Commission: --Ways in which the designs of the ramps and the traffic flow from them can be improved. --Areas in which the Expressway itself should be widened or otherwise improved.

Council to appear at civic meeting

Members of the Virginia Beach City Council are scheduled to appear at this evening's (Wednesday, Sept. 8) meeting of the Virginia Beach Council of Civic Organizations.

The Councilmen will present short addresses and then take part in a question-and-answer session, according to Garland Isdell, president of the civic group.

The session begins at its regular 7:30 p.m. starting time, but the meeting place has been changed. Because of a scheduling conflict, this meeting will be held at the Pembroke Meadows Elementary School on Cathedral --Ideas for improving the design of the intersection at I-64 I-264 and the Expressway, west of Newtown Road.

--Means by which the operations at the central Toll Plaza can be improved. --Should commuter rates be established?

Virginia Beach Tomorrow

Urban goals to be set

A second session of Virginia Beach Tomorrow has been scheduled for Nov. 5 through Nov. 7 to conclude the long-range planning objectives outlined in the initial 10 seminars of the urban goal-setting program.

The purpose of VBT-II, as in the original program, is to plan the ideal future for the Virginia Beach of the 1980's-1990's.

The second seminar, to be held in a retreat-type setting in Hags Head, N.C., will follow the American Assembly program developed at Columbia University 25 years ago. The American Assembly process is designed to extract a consensus of opinion from a group of citizen participants on a variety of topical subjects. To be discussed at VBT-II are the social and economic policies which should be incorporated into a long-range plan for Virginia Beach's future development.

Approximately 60 Beach citizens will take part in the intensive round-the-clock seminars led by Assembly Director Dr. John DeGrove, Director of the Joint Center for Environmental and Urban Problems of Florida Atlantic and Florida International Universities. Dr. DeGrove is a noted consultant in urban planning and an experienced director of American Assemblies.

Retained by the City of Virginia Beach to coordinate the two-day seminar is Oid Domion University's Center for Urban and Regional Research. Program Director for VBT-II will be the Center's Director Dr. Leonard Ruckelshaus, who will be responsible for preparation of all research materials and overall supervision of the seminars.

Chairman of the two-day program is Derek Dunn-Rankin, Vice President/Corporate Planning for Landmark Communications. Mr. Dunn-Rankin was a participant in the first session of Virginia Beach Tomorrow.

Recommendations emanating from Virginia Beach Tomorrow will be put before City Council for adoption in the City's long-range planning process.

Corrie to show Sunday, Sept. 19

"Corrie: Behind the Scenes With 'The Hiding Place'", a new full-length color film, will be shown at the Charity United Methodist Church, 3199 Charity Neck Rd. in Virginia Beach Sunday evening, Sept. 19.

A single showing is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

"Corrie" was produced to give people who have seen "The Hiding Place" or read Miss ten Boom's many best selling books, an opportunity to hear her share many of her memories about life in Holland, her family, and her lifetime of service to others.

This showing of "Corrie" is open to the public free of charge.

VWC registration starts Monday

Registration for regular fall semester classes at Virginia Wesleyan College in Virginia Beach will begin Sept. 13 in the main reading room of the College's Hofheimer Library.

Registration for freshmen will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 10:10 a.m. Freshmen whose last names begin with the letters E through J should register from 8:30 a.m. to 8:55 a.m.; letters K through P, 8:55 a.m. to 9:20 a.m.; letters A through D, 9:20 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. to 10:10 a.m.

Registration for upper classes will begin at 1:15 p.m. Students who have completed 85 semester hours at the end of the end of the spring semester should register from 1:15 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. Students who have completed 54 semester hours register from 1:45 to 2:30 p.m. Students who have completed 24 hours register from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Delayed registrants may register from 3:30 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.

Classes begin on Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Vows exchanged

Oakette United Methodist Church was the setting Sept. 4 for the wedding of Deborah Louise Marks of Virginia Beach and David Michael Rippard of Chesapeake. The Rev. Charles Bartholomew, Jr., presided.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Marks of Chesapeake. The groom is the son of Stephen W. Rippard Sr. of Chesapeake, and Mrs. Lewis B. Glass of Virginia Beach.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Debra W. Lloyd of Albemarle, who was matron of honor. The bride's attendants were Miss Nancy L. Pierce, Miss Virginia E. Lillyer, Mrs. Catherine K. Thomas, all of Chesapeake; and Mrs. Leigh A. Rippard of Virginia Beach.

Rippard served as his son's best man. Ushers were Dennis L. Marks, brother of the bride, Jerry H. Sawyer, Mr. Craig N. Bagley, all of Chesapeake; and Stephen W. Rippard Jr., brother of the groom, Virginia Beach. Shava Thomas was ring-bearer. Mrs. Carol Stewart served as mistress of ceremonies, and Miss Lella Cutler of Norfolk was soloist.

After a wedding trip to Orlando, Florida, the couple will reside in Virginia Beach.

DAR to meet

The Princess Anne County Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will hold a luncheon meeting at 12 noon Sept. 11 at the New Cavalier Hotel at 42nd Street and Atlantic Avenue in Virginia Beach.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Mr. Henry desSeldes, Coordinator of the Princess Anne Memorial Park's Liberty Bell, who will give a program called "Ring in Jubilee."

At Virginia Beach

Ballet completes good year

The faculty and students of the Academy of the Virginia Beach Ballet have had a most productive and busy summer this year. Miss Judith Hatcher, faculty member and dance kinologist, choreographed the Inter-Art Biocentennial Commission performance of "A Vigil for Liberty" at Scope on July 4.

It was the only gathering of its kind in the nation and was listed in the Congressional Record. Five of the academy's dancers performed in it.

On Aug. 15, Miss Hatcher danced before an audience of clergy at Blessed Sacrament for Sister Rita's 50th anniversary.

Three dancers from the Academy have performed in the "Common Glory" in Williamsburg. Heidi Rohlf, one of the three, has been lead dancer and dance captain.

Both Hudson, Business Manager for the academy, Virginia Beach Ballet and Virginia Beach Civic Ballet, has been named to "Who's Who of American Women" this year.

Maj. Burchfield, Academy Director, has been studying dance in Europe this summer. Miss Nancy Finch, gymnastic director, has also been studying in Europe, developing new methods of gymnastic instruction and training.

Three girls from the academy competed in the "Little Miss Virginia Beach" pageant, and one was the winner, Casey Ivey.

Horticulture classes begin

The Norfolk Botanical Garden Society this week started its second season in its Horticulture Education Program.

A total of 38 courses will be offered September through December. Among the horticulture classes being offered are house plants, lawn, greenhouse planning, rose care, orchid culture, gardening under lights, several identification courses...to name only a few.

Fees for the courses vary, with a discount given to members of the Norfolk Botanical Garden Society.

The first course to be offered in the fall program of the Botanical Garden Society's program is a course entitled "Principles of Landscape Design." Instructor is John Copeland, a Norfolk native who is the ornamental horticulturist and landscape designer at the Norfolk Botanical Garden.

tanical Gardens.

The class will meet on Tuesday evenings for eight weeks through Oct. 25 in the Garden Auditorium. The fee is $25 for non-members and $15 for members.

For registration and further information on all courses call 853-6972.

$24 for members of the Norfolk Botanical Garden Society.

I BUILT THAT HOUSE

This man is justifiably proud of his labor. He wants his son to know about his contribution to his community. Without this man and others like him, America could not have become the great nation it is now.

Through our two hundred year history as a nation, it is the laborers who have been the backbone of our economy. In time of war, they produce those things necessary for our defense. In peacetime, they produce goods that have made our standard of living second to none.

In the years to come, the laborers of America will continue to improve the quality of life in our country. On this Labor Day, give thanks for the contributions the laboring man has made in our two hundred year history.

Tidewater garden show was popular and fun

Ernie Horner, 8, of Virginia Beach found that carrying his parents' purchases around in a wagon was much easier on the arms.

Helen Ryan (right) of Norfolk, explains the proper method of pruning a miniature rose plant to Claire Ward of Virginia Beach.

Jeff Miller, a Virginia Beach visitor from Tampa, Florida, thought the "American Flag" garden of flowers around Betsy Ross wasn't quite enough, so he decided to give her a little potted plant of his own.

Beach projects approved

Two Virginia Beach projects with total costs of $35,000 were approved for funding by the Governor's Council on Criminal Justice at that group's Sept. 2 meeting.

A $25,000 award will be used to expand the library services provided offenders at the Virginia Beach City Jail. This grant will also provide for tutoring in educational studies. Local for the project is $1,250. A second award of $10,000 will be used to send officers from the Virginia Beach Police Department to specified training programs in homicide investigations, police administration and several other areas. Local share for this project is $500.

'Contact' seeks aid

"Contact Virginia Beach" is looking for people who would be interested in helping out with the 24-hour-a-day crisis intervention telephone ministry.

Training sessions will begin on Monday, Sept. 15, and will be held every Monday through Dec. 13 from 7:30-10:30 p.m. The sessions will be held at the Eastern Shore Chapel, 2020 Laskin Rd. in Virginia Beach.

New trainees are being accepted through the second week, however, they can not be accepted after that time.

Volunteers must be willing to engage in the work at "Contact" as a ministry of the ecumenical Church and must possess personal, emotional maturity in order to deal with people in crisis. The training programs are about 50 hours in duration.

"Contact" is designed to provide a human touch in a casual world for people in need, people who are lonely, troubled, depressed or desperate. The service, in operation continuously since May of 1974, puts help just a phone call away.

"Contact Virginia Beach" is one of 70 centers throughout the United States affiliated with "Contact Teleministry USA," and "Life Line" which serves 10 other countries.

The program is sponsored by churches and individuals within the community, who contribute generously of their time and/or money.

Disabled child is subject of ODU course

A special-interest non-credit course titled "The Learning Disabled Child: A School-Oriented Introduction and Overview" will again be offered by the Bureau of Field Services in Professional Education in the Old Dominion University School of Continuing Studies and the ODU School of Education. Classes will meet 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays, beginning Sept. 30 for 10 weeks in room 355 at the ODU Technology Building.

Jointly sponsored by the Junior League of Norfolk-Virginia Beach and the Tidewater area Kiwanis Clubs, the course is being offered for those interested in working as volunteers with public school children who have been identified as learning disabled.

Topics to be covered include an introduction to learning disabilities, how these children should be taught, and special tutorial techniques for language, reading, writing, and mathematics problems.

Course expenses will be underwritten by the sponsoring civic and community groups. Enrollment will be limited to a first-come first-served basis. Registration forms must be completed by Sept. 13.

For further information, call the Bureau of field services at 489-6396.

Bret Steele leads Coopers Troopers off the field

Coopers Troopers posed for photographer Bud Lowe recently

Coopers Troopers set a high note

By BUD LOWE
Sun Band Writer

It was the big night. The first football game of the new school year. -- Cox vs. Princess Anne at Cox High School.

And, as one nears the stadium, you can hear those Cooper Troopers loud and clear. "Cooper's Troopers" -- as they've been tagged -- are the high school band at Cox, and, naturally, they're under the direction of Billy Cooper. They came into the stadium in long, straight ranks and sounded as clear as a bell. One look at those straight lines and you could tell that this was Cooper's gang.

You could sense the excitement of the game between the two rival high schools, but every eye was turned to watch the musicians as they entered the field. This was the first showing of Cox's band this year and many, including myself, were anxious to see what they had put together this year.

At halftime they took the field, led by Bret Steele, drum major. They quietly assumed their positions on the far side and waited the command to begin. In a matter of moments they were in their routines. It was short, but not shorter than expected for this time of year. And it was plain to see that they were well underway to another big year.

There were some rough edges and a few missed cues, but all in all, it was good. The silks and rifles showed they had been practicing this summer while others were enjoying the sun at the beach. Cox had 24 silks on the field, and their rifles numbered 10 -- double the rifles of last year. Their rifles showed they were further along on their routines than expected, and they are going to be hard to beat in any competition this year.

This band was considered the number one band in their class here at the Beach last year, and from all indications they are going to right up there again this year. The percussion was exceptionally sharp and should do well; they do not have the assistance of Steele this year, since he's moved up to leader of the band. He is going to be hard to replace in the percussion section, but they sounded very strong.

And for those of you who are wondering who the drill team director is, well it's Gary Hudson again this year. Rumor had it that Gary had moved to Washington but he is back with Cooper and this year he has a wife. The lovely Mrs. Gary Hudson was present for the opening night. Congratulations to the two of you on your recent marriage!

To have you opening night before school opens is a hard thing to do, but Cooper's Troopers did it and did an outstanding job.

Cox Band will be host for the High School Band Field Competition for the Neptune Festival this year. And for those of you who like marching music and marching bands, this is one show you won't want to miss. So make it a date not to forget: Sept.

25, 1 p.m. at Cox High School Stadium. Be there. Everyone else is going to be!

TCC opens base centers

In cooperation with the base commanders, Tidewater Community College has established continuing education centers at the major military installations in the area.

These centers provide an opportunity for our military community to work toward specific educational objectives on-base during their off-duty hours. The College also provides on-base counseling and testing services for prospective students at no charge.

The Fall Quarter, which begins on September 23, will reflect an across-the-board expansion of on-base programs at all installations. These classes are also open to dependents, civilian employees and retired personnel.

The Constitution of Virginia requires that you be registered in the precinct in which you live in order to be qualified to vote. If you are currently living in Virginia Beach and you have moved your place of residence, either within the city or from another Virginia city or county, you must contact your General Registrar at the address shown below on Monday through Friday between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on or before October 2, 1976, to change your voting registration to your current place of residence or you may not be qualified to vote in the November 2, 1976 General Election. Only those persons who moved their residence between October 2 and November 2 may be permitted to return to their former precinct to vote.

City employees will be in step with State employees now that City Council has approved an increase in mileage reimbursement from 12 cents to 15 cents a mile.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said the General Assembly recently approved an increase for State employees.

Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield, Jr., said he knew of no private industry which paid less than 15 cents a mile.

Hanbury said that he planned to handle the increase within the present budget. The change will mean an increase of $15,000 for personnel using their own automobiles for work exclusive of school personnel. The current budget has $59,881 earmarked for travel reimbursement anticipated at 12 cents a mile.

The increase for school personnel is expected to be $31,360.

Councilman R. L. Riggs asked Hanbury to prepare information on the use of City vehicles.

In response to a remark from Councilwoman Meyers Oberdorff that some cities have eliminated out-of-state travel to save money, Hanbury said the city has already done that except for a few regional meetings.

New karate school open

By BLAIR THURMAN
Sun Sports Editor

"Karate is not just a self-defense, but a way of life." So says black-belt Pat Frick, the head instructor at the fledgling Nima karate school in Virginia Beach.

Frick, a North Carolinian-turned-Californian-turned-Virginian, has an all around knowledge of karate, and feels that this will give his students at Nima (National Institute of Martial Arts) a very beneficial overview of a misunderstood art.

"There are many different types of karate," said Frick, "and I try to teach the best of all of them. I teach practical karate that can be applied to real situations."

But karate goes much deeper than just a way to defend oneself. "It is also a philosophy, so to speak," said Frick. "You can't separate life from karate. It's a way of getting in touch with yourself. It is a very flowing type of being."

It is also an effective self-discipline. I was given a lesson in order that I might write a more effective article, and was threatened with push-ups if I scribbled myself while in a preparation stance. I didn't mind though, because within a few minutes of starting, I was already using an assortment of punches and kicks. And now I can also bring someone to foolishness enough to grab me on the shoulder from behind, to his knees. Beware.

The facilities at Nima are either brand-new or still under construction. When completed there will be three dojos, or large rooms where the art is practiced, a sauna, a student lounge, video-tapes for the advanced students and more.

"Everyone is born with an equal opportunity to prove himself unequal," said Frick. "Our goal is to improve people physically and mentally. You can go as far with this as you want to. I don't push students, but rather let them progress individually, according to their abilities."

Frick, in tune with his body and mind, is a product of martial arts training. It appears to be worthwhile.

Sink it-win $$

$1,000 for each hole-in-one is being offered for the second straight year at the Old Dominion University Hole-in-One Golf Tournament at Lake Wright Sept. 11-19.

The $1,000 payouts will go to all contestants who can sink a hole-in-one on a 150-yard green at the Lake Wright driving range during the nine-day event. At least $100 cash will be awarded each day, with additional five prizes given daily.

One $1,000 prize was paid last year when the hole-in-one tournament began as a fundraising event benefiting the ODU athletic program. Scheduled to run from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. all nine days, the tournament is sponsored by the ODU Intercollegiate Foundation and the ODU Monarch Club.

Walt Jones, Monarch Club president, is general chairman of the event.

Free tickets for one ball each are available at participating Burger King stores. Advance tickets offering five shots for a dollar can be purchased from Monarch Club and Intercollegiate Foundation members and in the ODU athletic office. During the tournament, three balls will cost one dollar.

Split season

Hunting dates set for '76

The Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries met in Richmond today, Sept. 2, 1976, set the waterfowl hunting dates for the 1976-77 season. In doing so they adopted a 30-day split season, close out to open the season for hunting canvas-back ducks and redheads.

Under the point system, and using 100 points as the total allowed, birds scoring 70 points include the hen mallard, black duck, wood duck and hooded merganser. Birds scoring 10 points are the blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, pintail, gadwall, shoveler, scaup, sea ducks and mergansers (except hooded). All other waterfowl count as 25 points towards the 100-point total.

The split season, which was adopted for hunting ducks, coots and gallinules, will open soon on October 6, 1976 and conclude on October 11, 1976 at sunset. That season will reopen at noon on December 3, 1976 and close at sunset January 20, 1977. The special season for geese at Back Bay will open at noon on December 8, 1976 and close at sunset on January 20, 1977. The snow goose season will commence on December 22, 1976 and will end on January 20, 1977 at sunset. The special season for scamp in designated waters will open on January 21, 1977 and close at sunset on January 31, 1977.

The statewide goose season is scheduled to open on November 12, 1976 and end at sunset, January 20, 1977. Snipe hunting will commence on October 18, 1976 at noon and conclude on January 31, 1977 at sunset. The season for sea ducks will open on October 6, 1976 and close at sunset on January 20, 1977.

The hours during which migratory waterfowl may be hunted are from one half hour before sunrise until sunset each day, except the General Duck Season opening day, which opens at noon and ends at sunset.

Art festival scheduled

The Back Bay Wildfowl Gun and headquarter in Virginia Beach will sponsor the Mid-Atlantic Waterfowl Festival scheduled to be held in Virginia Beach, Virginia at the Civic Center (19th and Pacific Avenues) on September 17 through 19, 1976. The show will feature the work of some of the Nation's top carvers and wildlife artists. More than 20 artists, including the Game Commission's Carl "Spoke" Knecht, and in excess of 25 contemporary carvers will participate in the festival.

Admission charge for the event will be $2.00 for adults and is free for children under the age of 12. Hours of the Festival will be from 10 A.M. to 10 P.M. For more information contact Mr. J. Fletcher Bryant, Jr., telephone #604-423-5111 or by writing to Mid-Atlantic Waterfowl Festival, P.O. Box 451, Virginia Beach, Va. 23451.

1st golf tourney for women soon

Competitive golf for women in Tidewater may have been neglected in the past, but something is being done about it this year during the Regatta Festival.

The Women's Regatta Festival Golf Classic, which takes place September 28 and 30, will be the first two-woman team tournament in the area.

Red Wing will be the site of the tournament, and Kay House, wife of Red Wing pro Jennings House, is enthusiastic about the upcoming event. "There is only one tournament in Virginia Beach for women, and they have good turn-outs. It depends on the response we get this year, but we hope it will become an annual event."

Kay also feels that the two-woman team concept will help strengthen the field. "In two-woman team competition (only the best ball for each hole is counted) there is not as much pressure, and the ladies play better. Also, we hope to attract higher handicap players."

According to Kay, this type of tournament is much needed in Virginia Beach. "There are a lot of women golfers in Virginia Beach, and total has to be increasing. When the Parks and Recreation holds its clinics, most of the participants are women. And competitive golf is super. The more you compete, the better you get."

The entry fee for the tournament is $30 per team, and the deadline for applications is September 24. For further information, call Kay House, at 425-6300.

pigskin prognostications

By BLAIR THURMAN

Well, Kellam's inability to score against First Colonial in their 0-0 deadlock last week, spoiled an otherwise perfect evening of prognostications. Bayside and Cox emerged from the first week of action with wins, putting them in the drivers' seats in the Beach District.

For a week anyway, Bayside and Cox meet this week for sole possession of first place. Both teams will be high, but Bayside is better and will play at home. Bayside by 3.

Lake Taylor plays Kempsville, coming off a 23-5 shell.

Lacking of Booker T. in which they didn't attempt a pass, but amassed 498 yards rushing. The Chiefs won't get creamed, but they won't be able to stop Ames Lawrence. Lake Taylor by 11.

Princess Anne travels to Great Bridge to tangle with a Wildcat team that has their eyes set on the Southeastern District crown, and a victory over Manor under their belts. Jimmy DiNardo and Co. will not be run out of Chesapeake, but they will lose. Great Bridge by 5.

by this week, and must be excited about its inactivity with Kellam. The Patriots will remain undefeated. First Colonial by 9.

Kellam plays Maury at home this week, and all though the game is probably meaningless (unless they wind up in a first place tie), Coach Cooke doesn't want to wait until the Knight's third game to look for their first victory. Maury failed to score last week against Norview, and will have a long night against a fired-up Kellam squad. Kellam by 14.

Little leaguers win district

The Plaza Senior Little League recently won the District 8 Championship by going undefeated in the double elimination tournament.

They beat Virginia Beach 4-2; Naval Air Station, 6-3; Aragona - Pembroke, 10-4; and Wards Corner, 3-1, in the championship game.

Winning the District 8 championship enabled them to enter the state competition. However, they fell to Tuckahoe, the District 5 representative, who went on to compete in the national tournament.

Wesleyan seeks crown

It's open season this year on the Dixie Conference soccer championship and the Virginia Wesleyan College Blue Marlins and Coach William W. Davis think this might be their year to snare the elusive soccer crown. In recent years, explains Davis, the race has been for the second place slot. Powerhouse Lynchburg College has dominated the Dixie Conference soccer competition since 1970. Last season, Lynchburg took the championship as Virginia Wesleyan, Greensboro College and Christopher Newport College slugged it out for a three-way second place tie. Lynchburg's departure from the Dixie Conference has officially made the soccer crown a moving target.

Virginia Wesleyan's opening shots at that target will come on September 18 and 21 when the Blue Marlins will meet the other two holders of last year's second place berth. The Blue Marlins will host Greensboro College on the 18th at 8 p.m. and Christopher Newport on the 21st at 3 p.m. Their 14-game schedule will also include contests with Old Dominion University on October 20, the University of Richmond on October 23 and the College of William and Mary on October 27. The season will conclude at Randolph-Macon College.

Preparations for the season began this year on September 18 as 23 players arrived to begin a week-long training camp that will conclude on September 25 with a 4 p.m. scrimmage against Chowan College. Highlighting the training camp will be a special rules clinic on September 7 at 7 p.m. in the College's new Van H. Cunningham Gymnasium. Conducting the clinic will be Virginia Intercollegiate Soccer Association official Martin Hooker. The clinic will be open to the public at no charge.

There are 11 returning lettermen, including co-captains Tassos Paphitis of Virginia Beach, and Kerry Jordan, also of the Beach.

Jerry Larsen, Cox High's bruising halfback, leaves the field here, after scoring his second touchdown of the evening against Princess Anne. His two-yard smash ended the Falcons' scoring for the game, as Cox defeated the Cavaliers, 19-6. Coach Al Habi's team will play Bayside this week for undisputed possession of first place.

Tennis classes starting now

The YMCA will sponsor a series of beginner tennis classes for men and women beginning September 7 and October 5th.

The class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays 6-7 p.m. for eight lessons at the Lake Taylor High School courts.

Enrollment is limited to beginners and will feature fundamentals of forehand, backhand and serve. Howard Mast will instruct. Students are to provide their own racquets.

Call 682-6328 for additional details.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

VIRGINIA: IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH ON THE 11TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1976.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER OF VIRGINIA, Plaintiff, vs. HELEN SHAW DIXON 555 North Birdneck Road Virginia Beach, Virginia;

GEORGE THOMAS SHAW 241 Dostler Lane Virginia Beach, Virginia;

LAWRENCE DEMPSEY SHAW 419 Morgan Terrace Virginia Beach, Virginia;

EVELYN S. ROBINSON 555 North Birdneck Road Virginia Beach, Virginia;

ALBERT LEE SHAW 553 North Birdneck Road Virginia Beach, Virginia;

And all other persons having an interest in the remains of John Henry Shaw, Ella M. Shaw, Ella Louise Shaw and two unnamed infants buried in the Shaw Family Cemetery at 555 North Birdneck Road, Virginia Beach, Virginia, the names of which persons being unknown to the petitioner are hereby proceeded against as "Parties Unknown".

CHANCERY NO. C76-1258

The object of this suit is for the petitioner to obtain authority from the Court for the disinterment and removal of the remains of the persons mentioned in the caption of this suit, which remains are within the proposed new right of way of North Birdneck Road, and for the reinterment of the same in a suitable repository. The foregoing is deemed necessary to facilitate the reconstruction and widening of North Birdneck Road in the City of Virginia Beach. The location of the property and the approximate location of the remains affected by this proceeding are shown on a plat filed with the Bill of Complaint in this cause, reference to which is hereby made for a full and accurate description thereof.

And it appearing by affidavit filed according to law that there may be relatives, descendants and other persons who may have an interest in the remains to be removed and reinterred, other than those named in the caption of this suit, the names and addresses of all such persons being unknown to the petitioner who has been unable to ascertain such after due diligence, it is ORDERED that the aforesaid persons do appear within ten (10) days after due publication of this order in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach and do what is necessary to protect their interests.

And it is FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order of Publication shall be posted on the bulletin board of the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach and do what is necessary to protect their interests.

A Copy-Teste: John V. Feinstrass, Clerk of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia.

NAS Oceana

Rosalyn Thomas named 'Sailor of the Month'

A lot of exciting things have been happening to Rosalyn Thomas of Naval Air Station Oceana this year.

She was advanced to Yeoman Petty Officer Third Class (YN3), selected Miss Military Oceana 1976, and now she has been chosen NAS Oceana's Sailor of the Month for August.

Yeoman Thomas's performance of duties as Aviation Division Yeoman while assigned to the Aircraft Intermediate Maintenance Department (AIMD), has consistently been of the highest calibre according to superiors.

Petty Officer Thomas was just finishing her second year at Marquette University in Milwaukee, when a girlfriend asked her to come along to a Navy recruiting office. They both went, but it was Rosalyn, not her girlfriend, who joined the Navy.

Miss Thomas has a great liking for music. One of her hobbies is interpretive dancing, though she only dances once in a while because of her hectic schedule. She is in the midst of growing a small flower garden at a friend's apartment.

Petty Officer Thomas says that while she really enjoys traveling, she has become quite attached to Oceana and does not want to leave.

As Sailor of the Month, YN3 Rosalyn Thomas received a framed letter of commendation, a free steak dinner for two at her club and a 72-hour liberty.

Bridges leaves service

After 21 years of active military service in the Army, Sgt. Maj. Warren D. Bridges of Virginia Beach, enlisted band leader with the U.S. Continental Army Band, retired in a ceremony held July 30 in Continental Park, Ft. Monroe.

During his service, Bridges saw action in World War II and the Korean Conflict. He has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal and received the Meritorious Service Medal upon retirement.

Bridges is a graduate of Georgia Military Academy, College Park, Ga., and attended Duke University, Seton University and Old Dominion to obtain his bachelor of science degree in music.

Presently residing with his wife, Catherine, in Virginia Beach, Bridges plans to return to broadcasting and continue graduate study in music and business.

At Wesleyan

'Venture' offers courses

Deadline for registration in Virginia Wesleyan College's adult education program, Venture, is Sept. 13.

Venture "is designed to make returning to the classroom an easy and rewarding experience for adults".

The courses in the program are a regular part of the Virginia Wesleyan curriculum and have been selected because they have something special to offer the more mature student.

Included in the program are more than 70 courses, including courses in art, biology, chemistry, English, modern languages, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, political science, physical education, religion, psychology, sociology and speech. The courses all carry regular college credit.

Adults who are 30 years of age or older and who are high school graduates (or have met equivalent requirements) are eligible to participate and to receive tuition grants that will cover more than 50 percent of the normal tuition at Virginia Wesleyan.

Outreach needs help

The Virginia Beach Drug Outreach Center has several openings for volunteers as Crisis Counselors on its telephone "Crisis Line" and in its walk-in "Crisis Service."

Those accepted into the program will be given a 50-hour training course and para-professional certification. College credit is available. Applications must be in by Sept. 28. Call now for information: 425-1403.

24-hour, crisis services to the people of Virginia Beach. Caring, dedicated, non-judgmental people are needed. College credit is available. Applications must be in by Sept. 28. Call now for information: 425-1403.

Cooperation is theme

Can Chesapeake, Virginia Beach, Portsmouth Norfolk and Suffolk learn to cooperate?

The directors of five Tidewater area Chambers of Commerce will meet at Virginia Wesleyan College this Friday, Sept. 10, for a breakfast discussion on "Area-wide Cooperation: What's ahead?"

Approximately 75 directors from the Chambers of Commerce in Chesapeake, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Suffolk and Virginia Beach are expected to attend the 8 a.m. breakfast forum.

The discussion is the second in a series of area-wide forums to be hosted by Virginia Wesleyan.

Serving as guest panelists for the forum will be the mayors of the five southside Hampton Roads cities: Martin F. Whitehurst of Chesapeake; Vincent J. Thomas of Norfolk; Richard J. Davis, Portsmouth; James F. Hope, Suffolk; and Dr. Clarence A. Holland of Virginia Beach.

Serving as panel moderator will be Derek Dunn-Rankin, vice-president for corporate planning for Landmark Communications, Inc.

The breakfast forum will be held in the college's Pruden Lounge.

Permits sought for Lynnhaven

James E. Thompson and Charles Robinson, both of Virginia Beach, have made application with the District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, for permission to proceed with individual projects on the Lynnhaven River.

Robinson plans to dredge by bucket or dragline method, an area approximately 50 feet long by 40 feet wide to a depth of four feet at mean low water. The operation is planned for a man-made canal adjacent to the Western Branch of the Lynnhaven River at Witch Deck Point.

Preliminary review of these applications has indicated that an environmental impact statement will not be required. Replies to this notice should be made in writing by Sept. 16 to the Office of the District Engineer in Norfolk.

Henderson to head reform committee

Horace "Hunt" Henderson of Virginia Beach, former Republican state chairman, has been named chairman of the Congressional Speaker Reform Committee in Washington.

Henderson, who was an independent Candidate for the US Senate in 1972, is heading up a national campaign which seeks to "Clean Up Congress" as a positive response to the public disenchantment with Washington.

Organized by the Republican Party, the committee will advocate Congressional reform, the necessity for new leadership in the Congress, the election of a GOP majority, and the elevation of Minority Leader John Rhodes as Speaker of the House.

At the recent Republican National Convention, the broom as the symbol of the "Clean Up Congress" campaign was much in evidence and all elements of the national party enthusiastically supported the objectives of the Reform Committee.

Henderson formerly served as national president of the Jaycees, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State and Director General of the World Peace Through Law Center at Geneva, Switzerland. He was also a candidate for Congress and for Lt. Governor of Virginia.

Your phone bill has lots to tell you besides the amount due. Once you understand it, you could save some money. And time.

For example, if there's no asterisk beside a number (see No. 11), that means that call was operator handled. A direct-dialed call would have been less expensive, something to remember in the future.

And once you know how to read your phone bill, you'll know if there's a mistake somewhere, and where to call us to have it corrected.

You'll also answer some of those questions yourself, and not waste your time calling us when you don't have to. So why not read the rest of the explanations. You just might save yourself some time. And money.

Preventive maintenance is the name of the game

Traffic backs up as one "victim" takes to the side of the road. This bumper-bumper traffic stretched from beyond the Independence Boulevard interchange through the toll gates on Rte. 44. Sun photo by Steve Stone.

It is called "Preventive maintenance" but many drivers of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway have come up with some names of their own for the numerous projects on the highway.

Drivers have been confronted with bumper-bumper traffic for several months now when traveling Rte. 44. The cause of the traffic problem is the construction taking place.

The Rosemont Road project is now completed, but a similar expansion of the Independence Road interchange is not slated for completion for another 11 months. However, that project is running ahead of schedule, reportedly at 41 per cent completion as opposed to the predicted 36 per cent rate.

The other project, which has been going on at various locations along 44, involves the replacement and enlargement of the expansion joints (which allow the concrete highway blocks to expand and contract with temperature changes) and the replacement of portions of the roadway which have deteriorated.

Charles E. Morris, a maintenance supervisor for the Commonwealth's Department of Highways explained to the SUN that every effort has been made to expedite the traffic flow.

The Independence interchange project currently affects the westbound lanes because of the barricades erected at the roadside where the new roadway is being tied in with the old. Much like drivers in a tunnel, many motorists are slowing down because they are so close to the barricades. There is no actual work in the road and both lanes' are open. If drivers maintained their regular speed there would be no tie up. The barricades are as far off the road as they can be.

The on-the-road project does close off lanes, but compared to a few years ago, the time involved is minimal.

First of all, according to Morris, the contractor is not allowed to work between 5 a.m. and 10 a.m. when the volume of traffic leaving the beach area for jobs inland is at its peak. The crew can work from 10 a.m. through 11 p.m.

When the east bound lanes were being worked on the hours were adjusted to fit the heavy traffic volume hours as they applied to that lane.

The general schedule calls for the digging up of worn pavement during the late morning and afternoon through the early evening. By 11 p.m. work must be completed and the patch concrete poured. The material sets overnight and is drivable by morning. This is a significant advance over previous years when it took as long as 72 hours for concrete to settle, explained Morris.

The current highway project is divided into two sections. The first under way now, is from the start of the toll road at the beach to the intersection with I-64. The second portion, which will start until the first is completed, will go from I-64 to the end of the route at Brambleton Avenue in Norfolk.

So drivers can look forward to further jam-ups in the future, but they should remember that this work now will save numerous emergency road jobs later that would tie up the traffic even more.

Weathermen planning to talk up a storm

The Hampton Roads Chapter of American Meteorological Society will host a national AMS Conference on coastal meteorology Sept. 21-23. The meeting will be held at the Sheraton Beach Inn at Virginia Beach.

Meteorologists and Oceanographers from business, government and university sectors across the nation will gather to hear results of the latest meteorological and climatological research. Experts in several atmospheric disciplines will present some 35 technical papers on such diverse subjects as wind patterns over Hawaii and the use of solar data in forecasting weather along the Atlantic Coast.

The purpose of the conference is to foster a better understanding of air-water interactions and to eventually enable better predictions of coastal weather. This is particularly significant in view of the fact that 39% of the national population lives in seaport cities or urban coastal areas. Seventy-six per cent of all Americans live in states that border the Atlantic or Pacific Oceans or one of the Great Lakes.

Guest speaker at the conference banquet on Sept. 23 will be Dr. William Hargis, Director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Sciences. Dr. Hargis is a member of the National Advisory Committee on Ocean and Atmosphere.

will be devoted to discussions on new and direction of scientific actions in response to implementation of these legislative mandates.

Cost of the workshop is $7.50 which includes lunch and materials. The registration fee should be sent to CPCB Treasurer J. Paul Williams, 1001 E. Main Street, Richmond 23219. Several model rooms have been held open for participants who will want to spend the night either before or after the conference. The cost of $25 single and $35 double occupancy per night. Reservations, which must be made by Sept. 30, should be arranged with Pat E. Emmons, Hunt Valley Inn, Interstate 83 at Shawan Road, Hunt Valley, Maryland 21031.

For additional information about the conference, contact the CPCB Secretariat, Virginia Tech, 322 Hutcheson Hall, Blacksburg, Virginia 24061.

The conference is also being sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Services and Selected Academic Departments of Virginia Tech and the University of Maryland and the Virginia Water Resources Research Center.

Workshop to center on Chesapeake Bay

The Citizens Program for the Chesapeake Bay Inc. will present a workshop October 21 on the "Impact of Recent Environmental Legislation on Chesapeake Bay and Implications for Citizens Action". The day long conference will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Hunt Valley Inn, Hunt Valley, Md.

Main topics will concern the implications of recent environmental legislation for transportation (volume, location, cost) and economic activity; for land use (zoning, outfalls, location and industry adjustments) and for wetlands (development and preservation values).

Guest speakers will include representatives from the Transportation Institute, the Maryland Conservation Council, the Virginia Harbor Pilots, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, the Tidewater Seaford Company and Chesapeake Bay Foundation. Walden Kerna, one of the program chairmen and associate professor with the Virginia Tech Water Resources Research Center, said the meeting is designed to provide a forum where the economic impact of recent environmental legislation can be discussed. "A major portion of the conference

Leaky ol' boat to float!

If you're not reading the FREE BEES in the classified ad section of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN you're really missing the boat.

You're missing Mrs. B. Raunser's boat, anyway. Mrs. Raunser has a leaky old boat to give away, so she's giving it away for free.

Mrs. Raunser admitted the 12-foot boat wasn't in very good shape (it had been given to her son, who didn't get around to fixing it before he left for college), and she simply wanted to get it out of her yard. Her boat-building friend was delighted to get it, though it'll provide him hours of hobby work. When he's finished, he plans to float the vessel on a North Carolina fishing lake.

Firemen crouch low against the intense heat of the blaze as an Arctic Avenue house was torched this past weekend for practice. There was some opposition to the burning of the building by followers of Edgar Cayce, one of the founders of the Association for Research and Enlightenment. They claimed that burning the building would destroy the Cayce's once a resident of the woodframe structure. More photos on page A-6. Sun photo by Steve Stone.

That's the way FREE BEES work—everybody benefits. If you want to give something away free, we'll give you free space in the SUN to advertise. Council will not discuss police spying

By LEE CAHILL
Sun Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach City Council's refusal to reopen the police spyware charges case may not put rumors to rest, but it has closed the subject for Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy, Jr.

Dr. McCoy wanted Council to appoint a "blue ribbon" committee with subpoena powers to investigate 1975 charges that the Virginia Beach Police Department undertook surveillance and maintained illegal files on Virginia Beach citizens with Italian surnames.

Council refused to even second his proposal, leading McCoy to say afterward that he wouldn't bring the subject up again.

"I'm asking to put the rumors at rest," McCoy had said. Councilman Robert B. Cromwell Jr., seemed to think that chances to stop the rumors, to find out whether or not members of the Police Department did in fact maintain illegal files, were lost when developer John A. Aragona dropped his suit in Federal Court last month.

Aragona sued two police detectives who, he claimed, maintained illegal files on him.

In the out-of-court settlement, Aragona not only agreed to forego a cash award, but to pay legal fees for the defendants, Detective J. Craig McCormack and Sgt. Allen Schieler. He also received a letter from City Manager George L. Hanbury as part of the settlement.

Cromwell remarked that a suit was filed, and all the Federal rules were available to the plaintiff. "Why didn't they prosecute that suit? With every legal tool at their disposal, I almost hoped they would go ahead," he said.

Councilman R. L. Riggs was concerned with the letter written by Hanbury. "Why would the City write an apology," he asked, "if there had been no wrong doing?"

His motion to have the Internal Affairs Committee of the Police Department investigate the case was defeated by a Council vote of 7-5, with Mayor Clarence Holland absent and Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr. abstaining.

Hanbury said he didn't consider his letter an apology. "I don't feel there's been any particular whitewashing... To my knowledge, we have not maintained a file on any citizens with Italian surnames."

"A lot of people are concerned about this thing," Riggs interjected.

Councilman John A. Baum remarked that "it did not appear that any great wrongdoing was found," and that further action would "jeopardize our own Police Department."

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing added his affirmation: "I have complete confidence in the Police Department." Cromwell said that it was "foolish to have them (the Police Department) investigate themselves."

Griffin voted for the Riggs motion.

Hilltop art show features acrylics

Richard P. Schriber of Norfolk has opened a one-man show of acrylics at Mutual Federal's Hilltop North Office. The show will run through the end of September. Schriber has been a resident of Tidewater for the past 15 years. He has studied at Old Dominion University under Tony Caccalano, and at Chrysler Museum and has painted and exhibited extensively in Tidewater. Much of his work is displayed in the Washington, D.C. area and Mantoo, N.C.

He has won numerous awards, most recently a purchase award at the 1975 Seawall Art Show, Portsmouth. Featured in the Mutual Federal show are landscape and wildlife paintings.

Hours for the show at the Hilltop North office, Laskin Road, are from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday.

Price's opens store at Hilltop West

Price's, Inc., a 71-year-old brand name home appliance, television and audio firm, has selected First Colonial Road at the Hilltop West entrance in Virginia Beach as the site for their new 4,000 sq. ft. sales operation in Virginia Beach.

Price's will feature all of the quality brand merchandise in the new store that they carry in the other six, including all types of home appliances, black-and-white and color TV and both stereo consoles and audio systems.

A special display and demonstration area has been set up for microwave ovens, "the appliance industry's brightest star."

H.B. "Burr" Price III, president of Price's, Inc., announced that Lee J. Gregory, a 25-year Price's veteran, will manage the new outlet. Gregory started with Price's back in the early days of television as a TV technician.

"Turning to the sales field in 1959, Lee has been a consistent top producer with outstanding leadership qualities and a real concern and understanding of his customer's needs," Price said. "Over the past few years, Lee has made a name for himself for his sales achievement in Radarranges."

Gregory and his wife, Cathy have five children: Lee J. Jr., Patricia, David, Linda and Nancy.

Sounding out the Hilltop sales team will be Glenn Bell, another top salesman who came out of Price's Service Department. Glenn has been a sales leader in his short career, and the Price's management feels he is one of their brighter, younger salesmen. The Great Bridge resident and his wife, Janet, have two sons, Scott and Thomas.

Morris House, a newcomer to Price's but a 25-year veteran in appliance sales at retail, wholesale and factory levels, is the third member of the Price's Hilltop group. House's family includes his wife Sarah and a daughter, a junior at the University of North Carolina.

Price said that the company is excited about the new location which was chosen after many months of study. From Hilltop, Price's feel that they will better serve the whole Virginia Beach area.

"By 'serving' we mean total service -- not just selling appliances," Price explained. "Our philosophy is to offer the best products at competitive prices, carefully deliver them, properly install them and then back them with the best possible service."

Price's, Inc., maintain 21 radio controlled service trucks and two service departments.

Five delivery trucks roll daily throughout Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Chesapeake. "These trucks and the men who man them are one of the keys to our success," said Price.

Price III says that the firm is enjoying its best years since it was founded in 1905 and that the addition of this new store assures a record-breaking sales figure.

Grand Opening plans include a consumer contest that will give a Tide-water resident the opportunity to "win" his or her choice of anything Price's sells.

Second prize is a Magnavox color TV, and third prize is a backyard gas grill. The contest runs through the grand opening period, which continues through Sept. 18.

Price's other six locations are: 1900 Monticello Ave. 7020 Military Hwy. Military Circle Mall; Pembroke Mall; 356 Campostella Rd. and 603 Frederick Blvd. in Portsmouth.

Off-season beach better than ever

By LEE CARILL
Sun Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach, already "the greatest tourist attraction in Virginia," is now pushing the resort as an ideal fall vacation spot.

J. B. Ricketts, tourist development coordinator, said the advertising and promotion budget has been increased over the years to promote the Beach during off seasons, especially in the autumn when the water and the weather are still warm.

The Beach is well-established as a family resort during the summer, he said, but in the fall the total completion of the Beach changes. Eighty per cent of the tourists are couples with no children. The fall promotion campaign which Ricketts presented to Council recently reflects this difference.

Of the annual advertising and promotion budget for tourism (a total of $510,000), about $140,000 will be spent on the fall campaign most of that will go toward projects which will be viewed and heard outside of the Beach area. The city also receives from $200,000 to $300,000 a year in free advertising, Ricketts said, who added that Virginia Beach is "the greatest tourist attraction in Virginia."

After viewing the promotion, Councilman Robert B. Cromwell Jr. asked City Manager George L. Hanbury to produce some figures which would show "justification for the expense."

Hanbury said the only measurement would be the actual increase in business, which has increased about 10 per cent a year during the past 10 years.

Little Theatre to start season

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach is recruiting new members and kicking off its 1976-77 season ticket drive, according to Mrs. Joyce Conslating, publicity director for the theatre.

Membership not only entitles the holder to receive monthly mailings keeping them informed of theatre events, casting calls, and play dates, but it also enables them to be voting members and help form the policies of the community's oldest "live" theatre. Special tax deductible memberships and Patron tickets are also available for those who wish to show special support of the local theatre group.

With all season tickets, a special bonus ticket is given to one show each at the Norfolk and Portsmouth Little Theatre, or 7 shows for the price of 5. Season ticket prices have not been increased and reflect a savings over regular box office admission.

Performances on Friday and Saturday evenings are at 8:30 p.m. with one Sunday matinee available for each show beginning at 3 p.m.

For further information, contact Mrs. Conslating at 340-3952.

At a recent meeting of the Virginia Beach Independent Insurance Agents, James L. Kitchin Jr. was named president for the association succeeding Lowell Hartsell.

Kitchin's tenure of office, which became effective July 1, will run through June of 1977.

Kitchin is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and has been in business for the past five years. In January of 1976 Mr. Kitchin merged his firm with Bryant and Fentress Insurance to form Bryant - Fentress - Kitchin Insurance.

Other officers elected at the recent meeting were J. Burke Withers Jr., vice president; Milton Clemmons, secretary; and John Brogan, treasurer.

Family enrichment to be series topic

A family enrichment series program, sponsored by Catholic Family & Children's Service of Tidewater will begin Wednesday, October 6 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Church of the Ascension, 4653 Princess Anne Rd., Virginia Beach.

The program is designed to provide basic knowledge of a richer life together as a family.

Discussion leaders are Janet Duff, Jean Koch and Patsy McKenzie, instructors at Tidewater Community College; Lisa Metcalf, Assistant Coordinator, Family Education of Tidewater; Dr. Gary Rubin, Assistant Dean, Old Dominion University, noted expert in communication theory and interpersonal, group and industrial communication; and Judy Kallier, psychiatric caseworker, Community Mental Health Center. Enrollment is limited to 100 individuals and registrations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis before Sept. 20.

Registration forms may be filled out at any Catholic Family & Children's Service office in Norfolk and Virginia Beach, a United Way Agency.

Cost of the series is $8 per couple for all four weeks; $4 per single person for entire series and $2 per night, per person. For further information call 625-2568.

4,000 people expected at flea market

Eight years and more than $25,000 ago, the Women of Wesleyan decided to hold a little flea market to raise some money for special projects at Virginia Wesleyan College, located on the Virginia Beach - Norfolk "border line."

On Sept. 18, the eighth edition of that little flea market is expected to host more than 4,000 people at the Twin Drive-In Theaters on Independence Boulevard and Holland Road in Virginia Beach.

And the Women of Wesleyan are hoping to raise enough money to refurbish Pruden Lounge at Virginia Wesleyan.

"It's a labor of love," says Mrs. T. W. Brennan, "The Women of Wesleyan got their start in Pruden Lounge."

Since their first flea market the women have raised more than $25,000 which has been used to purchase books for the college library, for picnic benches and tables for the campus, and to construct a greenhouse for the college's botany program.

This year's flea market will feature a new twist -- the Women of Wesleyan will be awarding a cash prize for the best-decorated booth. In their own booth, they will be selling the usual "white elephant" as well as some estate pieces from an old Norfolk home, including antique lamps and glassware.

For more information about the Women of Wesleyan Flea Market, contact Mrs. Paul Schweitzer at 855-3711 or Mrs. George Grant, 428-1698.

Art auction in Kempsville

Original art from such masters as Picasso, Chagall and Dalí, along with the works of lesser known artists from around the world, will be auctioned at a benefit sponsored by the Catholic Church in Kempsville.

The auction will be held Sunday, Oct. 10, with a preview showing and social hour at the church beginning at 6:30 p.m. Bidding will start at 8 p.m.

The collection to be offered includes original lithographs, etchings and graphics signed by artists from throughout the world. There will also be an array of watercolors and original oils. Each work of art comes with its own frame.

Limited seating is available, and reservations must be made no later than Oct. 5. A small admission donation is requested. Call Mrs. J. Michael Duff, 497-3058, Mrs. Sal DiLustro, 499-6245 or Mrs. Thomas Duke, 497-6131 for reservations or more information.

The exhibit and auction is being arranged by Robert Sili Gallery, Inc., of Chicago and Los Angeles. Light refreshments will be served.

Beach students at Sweet Briar

Four students from Virginia Beach are among 220 students who will enroll in Sweet Briar College's freshman class this month.

They are Miss Grace Louise Beyrouly, daughter of Mrs. Lee B. Frank, Jr. of Plantation Beach and a graduate of Frank W. Cox High School; Miss Elizabeth Elena Talbot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas W. Talbot of N. Alston Drive and a graduate of First Colonial High School; Miss Ann Helen Vandervelde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Vandervelde of Ocean Front and a graduate of First Colonial High School; and Miss Heidi Howard Van Patten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac T. Van Patten, III of Goodspeed Road and a graduate of Norfolk Academy.

Sweet Briar College is an independent, four-year liberal arts college for women with an enrollment of approximately 700 students.

Advanced lifesaving offered

The Tidewater Chapter, American Red Cross, will sponsor an Advanced Lifesaving Course at the Houston Boys Club, 3401 Anales Garden Rd., Norfolk, beginning Sept. 14. Classes will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays in September, and Thursdays in October, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Participants must be at least 15 years old and pass a 500-yard swimming test. A fee will be charged for the textbook and use of the pool. For registration or information call Red Cross Safety Programs at 625-6791.

The Fellowship of Christianity

Today we are often told that Christianity is no longer relevant. Yet those that say this have nothing to offer in its place. What can Christianity offer to modern man? One answer is fellowship. The Christian belongs. He is a part of a community of persons whose history goes back thousands of years. As a follower of Christ he is in the company of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, the early founders of the church, Peter, Paul, and James, and the great theologians, Luther, Calvin, and Wesley. No matter where a Christian travels he can find the warm friendship of other Christians.

The brotherhood he shares is dedicated to helping others, both Christian and non-Christian alike. You too can enjoy this fellowship. Join your Christian brothers at church this Sunday.

Case selected by engineers

The Tidewater Chapter of the American Society of Certified Engineering Technicians has selected Robert A. Case as Engineering Technician of the Year.

Award was made at the annual meeting held at the Ramada Inn, Virginia Beach, where Case was cited for contributions to the chapter through outstanding service as vice-president and chairman of various committees. This is only the second time the award has been made since the chapter was established in 1969. The Tidewater membership now includes some 75 engineering technicians certified through examination by the Institute for the Certification of Engineering Technicians in Washington, D.C.

Case, a Chesapeake resident, is a graduate of Cranford High School and attended Chicago Technical College. He is an Engineering Technician with the Norfolk consulting firm of R. Kenneth Weeks Engineers.

Saving energy

An energy-saving tip from the Better Business Bureau: Stimping on air and gas filters for your car is poor economy. Dirty filters reduce the car's miles-per-gallon efficiency and increase fuel use and costs. Replace the filters or clean them before they're clogged.

Secretaries to meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Tidewater Chapter National Secretaries Association, International will be held at the Sheraton Inn, Military Circle, in the Terrace Room on Sept. 21, at 6 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Mr. Stuart Katz, Assistant City Attorney of Portsmouth. He will explain some of the legal aspects of women, no-fault insurance, privacy legislation and consumer card protection.

Corrections personnel to train

Juvenile delinquency correctional personnel in the Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission will soon receive training under a $11,110 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant.

Virginia Beach, acting as a sponsor, will be allotted $400 for administration while the local matching requirement of $555.50 will be paid by the District Commission.

Potters Rd. contract

Virginia Beach City Council recently awarded Contractors Paving Co., Inc., the contract for the paving of Potters Road, Phase III.

The work will start at the eastern approach of the new Potters Road Bridge and end just east of South Great Neck Road.

Contractors submitted the low bid of $332,223.62.

Governor salutes Beach man

Retired Rear Admiral B. F. McMahon of Virginia Beach is the recipient of Governor Godwin's Bicentennial Spruce Up award.

The award was presented to five Steering Committee representatives from each jurisdiction of the Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission (SVPMC). The awards for the Spruce Up Campaign were presented by SVPMC Regional Director Robert F. Frazier at his Norfolk office on Sept. 10.

The award is for local Steering Committee members in the SVPMC who created a successful clean up and beautification campaign in Southeastern Virginia.

During the year, Spruce Up activities have been coordinated and organized at the local level by members of the group.

Speech-making and distribution of thousands of promotional brochures and litter bags by the Committee kicked off the campaign.

Their coordination with local groups led to Clean Up and Paint Up resolutions being adopted by cities and towns in all eight jurisdictions of the region.

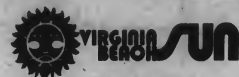

Beach men complete training

Two area men have recently completed courses in How to Conduct On-The-Job Training at the Continental Telephone System Training Center near Amherst, Virginia.

Louise Carter Porter who lives at Newcome, is an Outside Plant Supervisor for Continental Telephone of Virginia at the Virginia Beach location. He began work for Continental in February, 1969 as a lineman. Eddie J. Wright of Virginia Beach, an Inside Plant Supervisor for Continental also at the Virginia Beach location, has been with Continental since 1964 when he was hired as a lineman.

The objective of the five day course is for each student to be able to conduct on-the-job training sessions utilizing the Filmsound projector, and record training progress information. Performance of the student is evaluated according to Continental System Practices.

The cost of living and your electric bill.

Since 1940, the cost of living has increased a whopping 284%. Everything—food, gas, rent, clothes—has gone up in price. And electricity has been no exception.

But a close look at the unit price of electricity shows it has actually increased very little over the years. Today, the average residential cost per kilowatt-hour is 3.88 cents—only 5% more than 1940.

Why then are electric bills higher than they were in 1940?

Consumption and fuel costs soar.

The biggest single factor is the tremendous amounts of electricity we consume today compared to a generation ago. The average Vepco family is using about 9 times as much electricity as it was 35 years ago. A typical Virginia family today consumes about 750 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month. Their August bill would be about $31.18.

When you consider the many uses of electricity—lights, TV, radio, washer, toaster, and so on—all for about a dollar a day, that's a bargain hard to beat.

The second major reason for rising electric bills has been inflation, especially the higher cost of fuel used to generate electricity. The days of cheap energy disappeared with the oil embargo in 1973. Over half of the increase in the price of your electricity since 1970 is due to the increase in fuel costs.

Energy is our livelihood.

America must have dependable, economical energy in order to grow and to extend its high standard of living to all our citizens.

To provide this energy, Vepco supports a strong national policy of energy independence, built on environmentally sound use of domestic fuel resources and wise use of electricity we generate.

Nuclear power provides low cost energy for Vepco's customers. By mid 1978, nuclear power stations will produce half of Vepco's energy, making use of the most economical fuel source presently available. Coal is being used wherever it is more economical than oil. And plans for pumped storage hydroelectric generation also are being developed.

Combined with strong conservation efforts on the part of individual citizens and industry, these steps can help insure adequate, economical energy supplies for future generations.

Millis finishes career

Lieutenant Commander Joseph D. Millis of Virginia Beach recently retired from the United States Navy after 27 years of service.

Millis' last tour of duty was with the Fleet Combat Direction Systems Training Center, acting as the First Lt. for the command. He was also responsible for the maintenance and upkeep of base barracks and grounds.

Millis entered the Navy as an enlisted man and through hard work and superior performance was selected for the warrant officer program. Because of continued exceptional performance he was later transferred to the regular line where he toured numerous duty stations and completed an excellent record of performance, according to the Navy. He retired June 30, 1976.

LCDR Millis will reside with his wife and three children in Virginia Beach.

Property condemned

Condemnation proceedings have been approved by City Council on property for two pump stations in Ocean Park and Chesapeake Beach.

The Patriots show their emotions after victory over Granby

"And they said Cox couldn't beat Bayside!" Those words, coupled with the mile-wide smile on the face of Falcon coach Al Habit, told the whole story.

Immediately following Cox's 6-3 upset victory over Bayside, Habit rushed around the field, accepting congratulations and repeating those words to anybody within hearing range, (and even to some who weren't).

Habit had cause for jubilation. The close decision ended Cox's record to 2-0, and gave them undisputed possession of first place in the Beach District. Picked as low as last by one local forecaster, the Falcons are now the team to beat. Bayside didn't go down without a fight, but untimely penalties and a fired-up Falcon defense, kept the Marlins from punching the ball into the end-zone.

Perhaps the most crucial call of the evening was the clipping penalty assessed to the Marlins on a play that saw Ron Williams scamper 60 yards with a punt, for an apparent TD, only to have it nullified.

Senior running back Tim Disher slid his way into the end-zone from the four late in the first half, to give Cox all the points they needed.

Meanwhile, at Great Bridge, Princess Anne took advantage of some Wildcat fumbles in the first quarter, and posted an insurmountable 20-0 lead. The 26-8 win was the Cav's first of the year.

First Colonial crushed Granby, 35-8, after trailing 2-0 at the half.

Booth enjoys coaching job

By BLAIR THURMAN
Sun Sports Editor

It gets frustrating sometimes, but Kempsville High's head football coach, Ed Booth, enjoys his job.

"The frustration comes from the fact that Booth coached the Neptunes, Tidewater's attempt at fielding a professional football team, for six years, and his players were, well, professionals."

"In high school football, you have to play with what you've got," said the Chief coach. "You just have to make do with the personnel that comes out for the team. In the pros, you just judge the personnel. If you have a weak spot, you can look elsewhere in order to help out that spot."

Booth continued, "Also, in the pros, everyone is good, or they wouldn't be there."

In high school, of course, not everybody is good. Nevertheless, Booth enjoys the challenge of trying to mold winning ballclubs from his players.

"It's good for the kids," he explained. "Football is about the only thing left that puts them in a situation, where just because you may try hard, doesn't mean you'll succeed. Sometimes you have to try and try some more. Even then you may not succeed, but you learn to keep trying. There's nothing else in the system that teaches you that."

Besides coaching the Chiefs and the Neptunes, Booth coached at Maury and Smithfield. His college football was played at Emory and Henry, at halfback and in the defensive backfield.

"My college coach had a great influence on me," Booth reflected. "Over the years its been hard to draw a line between his coaching philosophies and mine."

No matter what his coaching philosophies may be, he has to cater them to the available talent. "My coaching has to be flexible," said Booth. "I cater my offense to what I've got. One year we gear to the pass, and the next year our passing isn't so good."

When asked to compare the Norfolk teams to the Beach teams, Booth responded, "There really isn't much difference between the two districts. The main difference is in the crowd support. Over here, it is tremendous, we have all the action. The teams aren't supported as well in Norfolk."

Small crowds is something Booth has had to contend with in the past, with the Neptunes. One of the Neptunes' rivals once fielded a woman player to hold the ball for the place-kicker who happened to be her husband. "It was just a publicity stunt," said Booth, "but if it sold more tickets, it was fine with me. Maybe if it had worked better, the Neptunes would still be around."

There was one player who didn't appreciate her being on the field though. Booth said, "The Bridgeport team played her team before we did, and one of their linebackers really decked her. He said he didn't like her making a mockery of his profession."

No one is likely to make a mockery of Booth's profession. Besides coaching football, Booth teaches government, international relations and economics.

The Kempsville squad may have to struggle to finish in the top half of the Beach District. But the struggle is what builds character, according to Booth, and they'll be winners for trying.

Ogle king of motoX

After the roar of the engines had ceased to fill the air with their tumultuous fury, after sight was no longer impaired by the swirling dust and dirt, and after the wheels had spun their final revolutions of the afternoon, Joe Ogle was victorious.

Racing last week in the motocross at Dirt Park, in Chesapeake, Ogle revved his 250cc Can Am motorcycle across the finish line ahead of his pursuers, and claimed top honors in 250cc class event. He also took the first heat, which gave him overall 250 honors.

Ogle, who lives in the Hilltop area of Virginia Beach said, "You've got to be in shape to win. That, and practice a whole lot." A mechanic at Tidewater Suzuki, Ogle has been racing motocross for about three years. Last year he decided to go pro and win a little money. "I make about $150 a week," he said, "but it's an expensive sport."

It's expensive, but he enjoys it. In fact, his major gripe is that the races are too short, lasting only about 10 minutes. Of course, some of the fault lies with Ogle, as he careens around the track at speeds up to 40 miles an hour, but he prefers longer courses. "I like a 30 minute race," he said, "like they have in the national competition." In national competition this year at Castletown, Virginia, Ogle finished fifth, racing a 125cc bike. He will probably be winning them before long.

Joe Ogle

Lightfoot hits the dirt trail

You might say that Donna Lightfoot has a heavy hand. That is, she has no qualms about passing her Yamaha bike up all the way.

Last week at Dirt Park, Donna raced her 100cc two-wheeler to a fifth place finish. The 14-year-old, two-year veteran, rarely races against other girls, but that doesn't deter her. She estimates that she has won 12 or 13 races against the guys.

Her brother Donnie, 16, got started racing at the same time Donna did. Donna explained, "We went to watch a race one time, and it looked like fun, so our mother said we could do it."

There is no doubt that Donna is the hardy sort. "Once while I was racing, I went over a hill and fell off my bike. The next bike over landed on my back." Despite a couple of broken ribs from that incident, Donna was a fourth place trophy two days later.

Donna, who attends Princess Anne Junior High, is looking forward to a lot more races. Look out guys.

One of the nation's fastest growing sports has found its way to Virginia Beach, thanks to the support of the Virginia Beach Regatta Festival and the Lynnhaven Optimist Club. The first skate board championships are set for September 26, right in the middle of the 1976 Regatta events. The site is the parking lot of the Old Straw Hat Ice Cream Parlor located at 2824 Virginia Beach Blvd.

The first skate board championships are set for September 26, right in the middle of the 1976 Regatta events. The site is the parking lot of the Old Straw Hat Ice Cream Parlor located at 2824 Virginia Beach Blvd.

With the help of various surf and bike shops, Optimist spokesman Buck Harrison is confident of an exciting and safe day of skate boarding.

"The Optimist Club is a friend of ours," Harrison said. "We realize that skate boarding is one of the fastest growing sports in the country and this area is wild about it."

The competition is open to boys and girls from the ages of eight-18 with three divisions. The junior men's division will include boys 8-13 while the men's division will be 14-18. The women will have their own division.

The competition will be split up into two parts, the slalom and freestyle. The Slalom will be judged on how fast the participants can make it through the already set course. In the freestyle judges will let the riders take it on their own for about 60 seconds and will be judged by their style, difficulty of tricks and smoothness of rides.

In the Neptune tradition, safety will play a big part in the event.

"All contestants will have to bring their own skate boards, and must wear long pants, gloves and shoes," Harrison, a well known local dentist explained. "When they ride, they must also wear a helmet, as well as knee and elbow pads. We will have some pads and helmets available, but they are urged to bring their own if they have them.

Grab your board and go sidewalk surfin'

"We are very concerned about safety, and if they bring all their own equipment they are assured a better fit and a more comfortable ride."

The registration fee is only $2 and official entry forms are available at most Tidewater surf and bike shops as well as calling the Neptune Festival office.

There is only room for 40 contestants in each division and they will be filled on a first come first serve basis.

For further information contact either: Dr. Bernard Harrison, chairman, 4905 Blackfoot Court, Virginia Beach, Va. 23462 499-2175 or 548-7576 or Mr. Thomas Newcomb, Co-Chairman, 3609 Prince Andrew Lane, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23452, 488-4016.

Cheerleader of the week

Brenda Jacques

The SUN's cheerleader of the week is First Colonial's Brenda Jacques, a pretty 16-year-old junior. Brenda enjoys swimming and roller skating, and of course, cheerleading. "I've been cheerleading for seven years," she laughed. Brenda, ecstatic over last week's victory over Granby, thinks the Patriots will win the rest of their games. But no matter what, Brenda will remain loyal.

For Punt, Pass, Kick Register now

All boys and girls between eight and 13 who are interested in competing in this year's Punt, Pass and Kick competition, must register before Saturday, when the contest begins. Registration, as well as the competition, is being held at the Norfolk Arena.

The action begins at 2:00. In case of rain, it will start at the same time on Sunday.

Beachers to box

Six Virginia Beachers will be boxing this Saturday night at the Norfolk Arena.

The Tidewater Amateur Boxing Association. Ricky Butts, Al Humes, Brian Johnson, Tony Rios, Billy Donovan and Lumpy Owens will all be competing.

pigskin prognostications

By BLAIR THURMAN

On the only week.

Ahem. Kempville surprised a lot of people Friday night (including me) by defeating the favored Lake Taylor Titans, but may have used up their momentum. They will not be taken lightly by the Beach teams, and be given an opportunity to surprise anybody.

And of course Cox is the surprise of this young season, perched as they are, atop the Beach District.

Princess Anne's victory over Great Bridge County was a lossy week indeed for picking the winners. Only First Colonial and Kellam won as predicted.

The only game that will have any effect on the Beach standings this week, sees First Colonial travel to Princess Anne. Both teams are coming off initial victories, and still hope to make a run at the title. The Patriots are undefeated (they have a tie), and coming off their big defeat of Granby, will do some hitting. The Cavalier's rushing attack looked awesome last week, and will probably move the Pat defense. It's a tough one to pick. Easy, messy, messy.

Princess Anne. By 3.

Kellam plays at Norview this week, having scored only seven points in two games, but allowing none. Norview is the only undefeated team in Norfolk. The Knight defense is air-tight, but they have trouble putting the pigskin in the end-zone. Norview by 6.

Bayside plays at Granby. Assuming they keep their penalties to a minimum, the Marlins should whump the Comets. By 14.

Kempville, (of shutting out Lake Taylor fame), plays at Booker T., and aims to keep the ball rolling. Chiefs by 10.

Cox plays at victory-less Maury. They only scored six points against Bayside, so they shouldn't take a win over the Bookers for granted. Cox by 7.

The second appearance of the Tidewater Britanny Club and Jim Bonville, the Portsmouth Police Department K-9 Corps will show how their dogs work. The "Top Sounds" band from the U.S. Navy will play for your entertainment. Foot stompers won't be forgotten on Sunday. There will be a banjo picking contest with $1.50 in cash prizes for top finishers in either clavinhammer or Bluegrass categories. Anyone who would like to enter, should call Joe Hoshie, 488-7959 after 6 p.m.

The judges will be noted local musicians. Mr. Peter R. I. Pine, will be Master of Ceremonies.

As if this wasn't enough, while you're touring the exhibits, your afternoon will be filled with entertainment on the mall in the center of the exhibits. Saturday will close the Portsmouth Farmer and the Second Virginia Regiment and their re-enactment of the Battle of Great Bridge. The Tidewater Britanny Club will demonstrate the skill of field dogs. Jim Bonville, the noted herpetologist, will display his snakes and alligators, give pointers on recognition of poisonous snakes, and provide advice on proper treatment for snakebite victims (very important for anyone who enjoys the outdoors). The Friends of Old Time Music will provide some favorite Bluegrass melodies.

Outdoor show soon

A number of Virginia Beach outdoor clubs will be participating in this year's National Hunting and Fishing Day.

"Outdoors with the Family" is the theme of this year's free two-day Tide-ster celebration, September 25 and 26 from noon to 6 p.m. at Portsmouth City Park.

"Forty exhibits make it the most spectacular observance of this annual event since its inception in the early 1970's," said Joe Hoshie, and Jack Albert, co-chairmen of the event. "We will have tailcoat rides, skeet shooting, snake-and-alligator displays, a Bluegrass band, banjo picking contest and a bicycle race, and close by the Portsmouth Jaycees will provide rides on their train, Pokey Smokey. We also have interesting and diverse exhibits from the area's major outdoor clubs, recreation equipment suppliers, and state and federal agencies. Outstanding area artists and wood-carvers will display their

The Virginia Wildlife Federation, the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, and the Portsmouth Parks and Recreation Department are working together to put on a show that should have something of interest for all members of the family regardless of age. Since the site of this year's event is Portsmouth's City Park, its hoped families will plan on coming to spend the day by picnicking, enjoying the displays, and be entertained by the different events. "If you like the outdoors, you'll love our show," said Co-Chairman Joe Hoshie.

If anyone has any "how, where or when" questions about any outdoor activity, club members will be eagerly waiting at their respective exhibits with the answers. As if this wasn't enough, while you're touring the exhibits, your afternoon will be filled with entertainment on the mall in the center of the exhibits. Saturday will close the Portsmouth Farmer and the Second Virginia Regiment and their re-enactment of the Battle of Great Bridge. The Tidewater Britanny Club will demonstrate the skill of field dogs. Jim Bonville, the noted herpetologist, will display his snakes and alligators, give pointers on recognition of poisonous snakes, and provide advice on proper treatment for snakebite victims (very important for anyone who enjoys the outdoors). The Friends of Old Time Music will provide some favorite Bluegrass melodies.

On Sunday, in addition to the second appearance of the Tidewater Britanny Club and Jim Bonville, the Portsmouth Police Department K-9 Corps will show how their dogs work. The "Top Sounds" band from the U.S. Navy will play for your entertainment. Foot stompers won't be forgotten on Sunday. There will be a banjo picking contest with $1.50 in cash prizes for top finishers in either clavinhammer or Bluegrass categories. Anyone who would like to enter, should call Joe Hoshie, 488-7959 after 6 p.m.

The judges will be noted local musicians. Mr. Peter R. I. Pine, will be Master of Ceremonies.

Cox elected head engineer

Local consulting engineer William A. Cox, Jr., has been elected southeast region vice president of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Cox is co-founder and president of Cox-Powell Corporation, mechanical and general contractors of Virginia Beach. A registered professional engineer, he holds a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Cox is chairman of the Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission and past president of the Norfolk-King's Club and the Norfolk Builders and Contractors Exchange.

Reserve on the board of directors and executive committee of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Long active in professional society work, Cox was a charter board member, past president and three-term national director of the Virginia Society of Professional Engineers. He was VSE's "Engineer of the Year" in 1973.

In addition to NSPE, he belongs to the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers, the Water Pollution Control Federation and the engineers club of Hampton Roads and Richmond.

Before hunting

Take careful aim of where you stand

With hunting still a popular sport here in Virginia Beach and the dove season upon us, it is important that hunters be aware of where they can and cannot shoot in Virginia Beach.

The Code of the City of Virginia Beach provides for hunting south of a line that runs generally along the lengths of Princess Anne Road, London Bridge Road and Dan Neck Road. There are, of course, lines drawn that connect with these roads and the actual boundaries are reproduced on the map accompanying this story.

The only exception to the ordinance comes under the following conditions supplied for the discharge of shotguns:

- On land that is fifty acres or more of contiguous area, and
- Under one ownership, and
- Used primarily for agricultural purposes, and
- The landowner has applied for a permit as provided in the ordinance, and
- Any person hunting on such land who is not an owner must carry with him the written permission of the owner for use of the land.

The actual ordinance is longer and more detailed. Any questions about hunting within Virginia Beach will be answered by calling the game warden at 485-1122.

Martial arts classes opened

The Norfolk YMCA at 312 West State Street will offer judo, karate, fencing, and wrestling classes for young people and adults beginning Sept. 18.

Judo, to be taught by national heavyweight black belt champion Don Schneider, will begin Tuesday, Sept. 21 at 7 p.m. for youth and 8 p.m. for adults. Also a special women's self defense class will be taught on the same evening starting at 6 p.m.

Karate black belt instructor, Jim Bailey will teach the Tae-Kwon-Do style karate to adults Monday, 7 p.m. beginning Sept. 20 and Tuesday, Sept. 21 at 8 p.m. Youth karate classes will begin Saturday, Sept. 18 at 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Monday at 6 p.m. and Tuesdays at 8 p.m.

Fencing will begin Wednesday, Sept. 22 at 7 p.m., under instruction of Freeman. Equipment for students will be provided by the YMCA.

Wrestling fundamentals for boys will be taught in a class beginning Saturday, Sept. 18 at 2 p.m. Registration for all classes is being conducted at the Norfolk YMCA, 312 West State Street, Norfolk. Call 622-6328 for additional details.

Horne elected president

Robert A. Horne of Virginia Beach has been elected president of the Old Dominion University chapter of Psi Chi, a national recognition society in psychology for men and women.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Horne of General Gage Road, Virginia Beach.

Horne also serves as president of the psychology club, is a member of Theta Chi fraternity and is a representative to the Inter-Organizational Council.

Republican women announce luncheon

The Virginia Beach Republican Women's Club will start its election year activities with a membership luncheon Wednesday, Sept. 15, at 10:30 AM at the Ocean Officers Club.

Guest speakers will be George N. McLeish, State Chairman of the Republican Party of Virginia, and Bonnie Paul, member of the House of Delegates from Rockingham-Harrisonburg. Anyone interested in joining the Club and working for better government is welcome. Reservations may be made through September 15 with Helen VanderVeghel (481-3121) and Phyllis Davenport (482-6946). All members are urged to come, and bring a guest.

Goldstein elected Princess Anne Plaza president

Some 42 members and guests of the Princess Anne Plaza Merchants Association met last week attended the dinner at the Pancake House.

Elected president for the 1976-77 year was Steve Goldstein, manager, Hohlmeier's Shoe Store. Named vice presidents were Phil Hoverton of Caned Heat and R.A. P. Turner, manager, Ross's.

Mrs. Cecelia Blegs of Hohlmeier's and Crafts was elected for a second year as secretary and Sanford Reesley, accountant, as a second year treasurer.

Elected for one-year term, as director was Gus Mengulas, Pancake House (as outgoing president); Floyd Evans, general manager, Ricos; Rachman department store; Jack Flanagan of Center of Music; Floyd Waterfield, of F & M Bank; Kenny Humeccart, Colonial Food store; and Dave Freeman, Plaza Bakery.

During the proceedings, Turner was presented with an award as manager of the most improved store and customer service during 1975-76. The presentation was made by Ms. Betty Johnston, chairman of the Center's Consumers Board.

An appreciation plaque for serving as president during 1974-75 and 1976 was presented to Mengulas.

Army plans cargo operation

The 11th Transportation Battalion of Ft. Eustis, a terminal unit that deals with Army military operations on water, will undergo its annual Organizational Readiness Training Test (ORTT) Tuesday through Friday (Sept. 14-17), with Ft. Story in Virginia Beach.

The ORTT will consist of transporting cargo from Ft. Eustis to Ft. Story on the Military Vessel Sefton, unloading it from ship to beach and loading it again under partially tactical conditions.

"Speed is a big factor," Capt. W. V. Bateman said, "but the main issue is to unload the vessel effectively, with no damaged cargo. There would be little sense in unloading cargo quickly and damaged."

"The biggest factor in unloading is the condition of the sea," he said. "If it is a rough sea with high waves, it will be very difficult to unload. The ideal situation is a calm sea, but we can't always plan on this."

The advance party of the 11th will leave for Ft. Story Monday, Sept. 13, while the main body will not depart until Tuesday. Over 600 personnel will compose the main body.

On their arrival, the battalion will unload over 300 pallets of cargo. This will be done in what is called "night blackout," which is when a minimum of light is used, if any at all.

After the cargo has been unloaded, which should take over 24 hours, the next step is to immediately move into retrograde operations. This is when the vessel is loaded.

Loading usually takes a little longer than unloading. Reasons for this include finding an area in the hole to store the cargo.

Lt. Col. A. G. Hammon will be the Chief Unloader and evaluator for the ORTT, and will make the final decision whether the test was performed satisfactorily or not.

For the first time this decade, Air Force Weather Station personnel will assist Army Transportation units with on-the-spot information about weather conditions. Members of Detachment 13, 16th Weather Squadron, assigned to Faller Army Airfield at Ft. Eustis, will accompany the 11th to Ft. Story and provide up-to-the-minute weather information.

With this help, the 11th will be informed of any sudden weather change that may adversely affect the overall exercise. This is something Transportation units have not had before and should prove to be advantageous in future training programs.

Virginia Beach City Council at its Sept. 20 session will reconsider an ordinance permitting cash dispensing in conjunction with the operation or convenience grocery outlets.

Councilman J. Curtis Payne who voted against the ordinance last month when it was turned down by Council by a vote of 6-4, suggested the subject be reconsidered. He said that he felt that he would "possibly vote in favor" this time.

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell, Jr. asked that the fire chief be present at the Sept. 20 meeting to inform the Council on possible hazards which may result if cash dispensing were permitted by fast food stores such as 7-Eleven and Tase Giant.

Council acts on numerous items

In other recent actions, Council:

--Passed a resolution of commendation to the Little Creek American Baseball All Star Baseball Team which played in the World Series in New Bedford, Mass.

--Passed a resolution of commendation to the Pump Pals Girls American Softball Association Team for its successful season.

Pumping gas

He works for levis, lunch and because he likes it

When was the last time you felt like tipping a gas station attendant? Have you ever felt like tipping a gas station attendant?

There are a few cases, even today when it seems like most gas dealers feel as though they are doing you a favor by letting you pump your own gas.

An example is the Hi-Lo station on Rosemont Road, just off Virginia Beach Boulevard. Roy Layden Jr., 16, works many "very full days" at his father's station. He comes to work early in the morning some days and works through to closing at 10 or 11 p.m. on others.

A student at Princess Anne High School, Roy is different from many of his peers in that he not only doesn't mind working, but he says it is "fun." And he doesn't earn any hourly wages, either!

The elder Layden is proud of his son and praises him for taking and active part in the new family business. The Laydens began operation of Hi-Lo in early July. "He's working for Mom and Dad... thinking us, in a way, for what we have done for him."

The job isn't without reward, though. Young Roy is earning his keep for school. He says that because of his work his parents will see to it that he gets new Levis, his books and lunch money.

While other kids play all summer or earn money for their own purposes, and still get lunch, clothes and book money from their parents, Roy can feel with all justification, that he has more than earned his.

But Roy would probably do it even if he wasn't going to get those new pants. He's a people-watcher: "You meet a lot of interesting people out here. It's self-service but I pump it anyway for a lot of people. Especially the ladies or men when they are dressed up. Sometimes they give me a dollar tip."

Roy's interests do go elsewhere. He likes the beach and goes whenever he can, and he loves baseball. He has played with the Argonne-Pembroke All Stars. And Roy says he has a "friend who's a girl". She stops by to visit some-times.

The dark-haired, blue-eyed businessman is also learning some useful things working with his father. Roy helps in the shop on tire changes, tune-ups and the like. He'll be driving the family car soon, and it will probably be one of the best running cars in school.

"Best of all, Roy has made many friends in his work. A lot of the ladies will hook and wave when they come by," he explains.

When school starts Roy won't be leaving his job. In fact, he plans to work many hours through the afternoon and evening, and he'll get his homework done on the job. And he'll still have a big smile for each and every customer who stops in.

Part of the job is to take readings at closing

Employment officer selected

Robert R. Burton Jr. has been named assistant manager of the Virginia Employment Commission's Virginia Beach office, Field Supervisor Russell O. Rucks has announced.

He succeeds Robert Feld who was named manager of that office in June.

Burton, who joined the VEC in 1967 as an interviewer, will report directly to Feld.

"Burton has done an outstanding job during his nine years in this office," Feld said. "His knowledge of the many programs and services offered by the VEC and his experience in our organization will be invaluable in his new assignment."

Burton retired in 1966 after 20 years of service from the U.S. Navy where he specialized in personnel and medical administration.

A native of Roanoke Rapids, N.C., he is married and the father of four children.

Robin Ray is the feature twirler and head majorette at Independence Junior High School in Virginia Beach. She is in ninth grade this year and will attend Princess Anne High School next year.

Ford honors Beach men

Three Virginia Beach men are marking their 30th anniversaries with the Ford Motor Company in Norfolk this month.

Kenneth P. Charlesworth, a foreman in the vehicle assembly and body construction area, of Woodstock Road, Sam Johnson of Menden Road, a worker in the chassis division and Alton C. Smith of Providence Road, an accountant in the controller's office, have all been with the company since 1946.

Each will receive a gold pin from Ford's chairman of the board marking the occasion.

Twirling contest Saturday

The Independence Junior High School Band Parents Association will host a National Baton Twirling Association (NBTA) competition at Independence Junior High School this Saturday, Sept. 18, from 9 a.m. until completion.

The contest will be directed by Mrs. Sabra Roebuck, former NBTA twirler. All area band twirlers are invited to attend and participate.

First-through fifth-place trophies will be awarded in strutting, solo twirling, team twirling, dual twirling, twobaton, and flag baton.

A Bicolmunental Queen will also be selected. For more information contact Mrs. Barbara Mann at 440-7799.

The Tidewater Pharmaceutical Association will hold its Virginia's Pharmacist of the Year Banquet in honor of Linwood S. Leavitt of Virginia Beach Sunday, Sept. 19 at the Omni International Hotel.

A cash bar will be open at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:15 p.m. and a dance will follow.

Tickets may be purchased at Kemperville Pharmacy, Virginia Beach; Bayridge Pharmacy, Virginia Beach; Ingram's Pharmacy, Virginia Beach; Farmco Drug, Norfolk; Suburban Pharmacy, Portsmouth; or by sending a check to TPBA, 33 Greenbrier Rd., Portsmouth, Virginia 23707.

Speakers at the dinner will include Dr. Warren E. Weaver, Dean of the School of Pharmacy, Medical College of Virginia; Virginia's Attorney General Andrew P. Miller; and United States Congressman G. William Whitbourne.

Leavitt has given over 36 years of service to pharmacy in Virginia. Beginning in Norfolk as a teen-ager he worked on the soda fountain and drug counters to enable him to finish high school and then go to William and Mary College.

He continued working through pharmacy school and graduated from M.C.V.

School of Pharmacy in 1941. The war years of 1942-47 were spent as an officer in the U.S. Navy. After returning to civilian life, he held several positions in retail pharmacy in Norfolk and Richmond before joining E. R. Squibb & Sons as a professional representative.

Leavitt has served as secretary of the Board of Pharmacy of Virginia for three years. For the past 17 years he has practiced his profession in his own pharmacy in Virginia Beach, Kemperville Pharmacy.

NEED YOUR CAR TUNED? Try turning to the Classified pages for top service.

He has served as president of the Tidewater Pharmaceutical Association and now is a member of the Tidewater Drug Abuse Council.

He has served on many VPA committees and has been a member of the Board of Pharmacy for over nine years, and in the immediate past president of the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy. He is the first practicing pharmacist in Virginia pharmacy history to hold this office, and only the third Virginian to be so honored.

He is a past master of his Masonic Lodge, and a member of the Shrine. In addition to holding many national and state offices, he is the immediate past president of the Princess Anne Rotary Club.

Crane assumes command of engineering post

Command of the Norfolk Naval Shipyard's Combat Systems Office recently changed hands.

Capt. Herbert C. Crane, a naval officer from Virginia Beach, who headed the office since 1973, is now officer in charge of the Naval Ship Engineering Center, Norfolk Division. During a six-year period Crane has been associated with this area, and prior to his assignment as Combat Systems Officer he served in the Naval Ordnance Systems Support Office, Atlantic.

Veteran of 29 years of Navy service, Crane was involved with the submarine service for 11 years, and is qualified for command of submarines. In addition, he has been assigned to electronics, gunnery, and weapons billets on other ships.

The Cranes are the parents of three children, and they live on Capt. Road, in Virginia Beach.

Bowman appointed

Dr. John I. Bowman, Jr., oral surgeon, has been appointed to serve a three-year term on the Eastern Virginia Medical Authority's governing board.

A.B. Caruso who term expired in June. He was named to the position Monday afternoon by City Council which also appointed Paul Dwight Jones, a machinist, to the Board of Plumbing Examiners to fill the unexpired term of Thornton E. Bernard, deceased, and reappointed Mrs. Barbara Racine, whose term expires Sept. 17, to the Wetland's Board for a four year term.

The term being served by Jones expires Dec. 14, 1977.

PA's 'Marching Machine' on the field again

By BUD LOWE
Sun Bands Writer

It's the start of another year for the "Big Red Machine."

Yes, it's that time again, and the fabulous Marching Cavaliers from Princess Anne High School are on the field again.

Those fabulous marching Cavaliers traveled down to Wildcat Country and were the guests of the Great Bridge High School's Wildcat Band and Drill Team for their Friday night football game and halftime show.

The Cavaliers took to the field first at halftime and were very impressive -- to say the least. Those long lines of blue, white and red seemed endless. And they were the greatest when they put on their show.

The "Big Red Machine" is bigger than ever this year, numbering 178 strong, and they looked and sounded just that big. There are 114 musical instruments, 25 silks, 21 flags, 15 rifles, three drum majors, two drill team captains and one majorette. Now that is what I call a field-full, and they have the talent and the style to go with it.

The Cavaliers don't have their complete show ready yet, but it looks good for what they have to show at this time. Like many of the high school bands at this time of the year, they have some smooching out to do.

This was the first showing to the public, and if this is an indication of things to come, the competition in this area is going to be tough. P.A. has its sights on another victory year, and they're going all out for it. Every band and everyone connected with this unit is doing its part in a big way.

Ron Collins, band director for Princess Anne High, has always had a band that the Beach could be proud of, and this year is no exception. For those of you who have not seen this group in action, you have surely missed something. You should make it a point to come out and watch them perform.

The Wildcat Band and Drill Team from Great Bridge High School took the field next and did a fantastic job. Their size was not quite as big as P.A., but their show was equal in quality.

The Wildcat Band is under the direction of Dave Starkey, and the Drill Team is under the direction of Craig Mills. The senior drum major is David Gilliam, and he's assisted by junior drum major Ricky Crowley. Captains for the Drill Team are Joyce Parker and Paulette Sykes.

The Wildcats will be coming to Virginia Beach for the Neptune Festival Sept. 25 and will also compete in the Tidewater Festival of Bands at Indian River High School Oct. 16. These two events will have participants from all of the local high schools and some from the more distant Virginia high schools. We can even expect some of the high school bands from North Carolina.

This will be the first chance the public will get to see how the bands are shaping up and what each band has to offer this year. Both of these events will be worth your while to attend if you have any interest in marching band music.

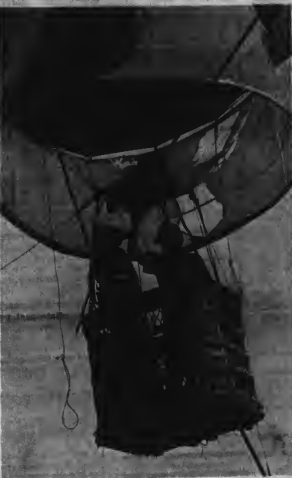

When you are viewing these marching bands, you should remember that these young people travel hundreds of miles a year, giving down their meals, giving up their employment, and taking on pressures of a highly-competitive sport unparalleled in any other activity. Yet, this is all done willingly and voluntarily. This is what dedication is all about.

And remember that a marching band's greatest reward is the satisfaction of entertaining you, the general public. So whether, or not you have a student in the band or a drill team, come out and join in the fun and excitement. Be there when they compete. It will be an experience you will long remember, and you will be glad you were there!

Disease subject of census study

Have you had what it takes to battle the bug?

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey in Tidewater during the week of Sept. 20-27, to determine the extent people have been immunized against selected diseases.

The immunization survey is conducted throughout the U.S. every year and provides information on immunization against measles, influenza, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, rubella, and mumps. The information is needed for administration of health programs geared to disease prevention. The health questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau, for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Results of the monthly employment survey provide data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country. For example, in July the survey indicated that of the 65.3 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 87.9 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.8 per cent, up from 7.3 per cent in June but substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 per cent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Personal information supplied in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals. Interviewers who will visit households in this area include:

Mrs. Anne M. Ofelt, 824 St. Clement Rd., and Mrs. Angela A. Coffield 420 Apple Ave., Virginia Beach, Va. 23452.

Mrs. Mary G. Euler, 4288 Greenleaf Dr., Chesapeake.

Pendleton review

The value of the Pendleton Project, a program for problem children in Chesapeake and Virginia Beach funded by Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) grants, will be studied by the Washington, D. C., firm of Touche Ross & Company.

Under terms of the grant, a complete management, financial and programmatic review must be made during the third year of the operation; Pendleton is now in its third year of operation. The $10,000 cost of the review has been budgeted and requires no city funds.

That's why Hometown newspapers are read with such interest. Folks believe in them. Advertising goes trouble.

HOMETOWN NEWSPAPERS
SELL! Here's why: The reader of the hometown weekly paper has more time to peruse each copy, because the newspaper is usually smaller, less crowded and with editorial content that is alive with local events that involve the reader. This provides a depth of readership that favors the classified advertiser in hometown newspapers. Give us a try!

Today's crop duster is a chemist and farmer too

By STEVE STONE

SUN News Editor

The bush pilot is dead and gone. At least that rakish image of a devil may care, fly-by-the-seat-of-the-pants aviator doesn't apply to the modern crop duster.

"The idea of a guy climbing into his plane, throwing a scarf around his neck, adjusting his goggles and flying all around spraying chemicals everywhere just isn't right anymore," explains Bill Bonner, a Virginia Beach crop duster.

"Today you have to be registered and have gone through an agricultural school." But all the romance of the trade isn't gone. (Read on.)

Bonner is part-owner of Flying Services, a small but growing business. He, and one of his partners, Pete Cummings, spend much of their time in the air over Virginia Beach farms providing the invaluable dusting services that save crops from insects.

Both men learned to fly in the Navy. Bonner in the H-1 (Huey) helicopters and Cummings in the F-4 (Phantom) jets. They met each other in the Navy, but it was not until several years later, after the service, that they became partners.

Cummings left the service but did not want to leave the air. "I didn't like living on a boat, but I wanted to stay with flying. At first, the crop dusting was just something to do, now it's much more."

The transfer from sleek, fast Navy aircraft to the planes of their new trade was difficult at first. But not as bad as one might think.

Planes used for crop dusting today are far more advanced than those of yesteryear. The spitting bi-planes have given way to $40,000 wonders that are far safer and efficient -- the best that modern aviation has to offer.

Both found that the fast, low-altitude flights (sometimes going within three feet of the ground) were much different from what they had learned.

For Cummings it was a major adjustment -- he had been flying high-speed, high altitude jets while serving on the carrier Kennedy.

Bonner felt a little more at home. He often had to swoop low over the ground in his helicopter while serving in Vietnam.

"It goes against everything they taught in the Navy," explains Bonner of flying the crop dusters. "It is against all their safety procedures." But it has to be. In fact, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) rules and recommendations almost completely exclude the crop dusters. The FAA says simply, do what you have to do and be careful while you do it.

But there are many regulations the pilots have to follow, dealing mostly with the chemicals they use. There are as many as 50 different chemicals which can be employed for different purposes. Bonner learned about these aids in far-

Family center moving toward completion

The United Way Family Center of Virginia Beach is well on its way to completion with a target opening date of Dec. 1.

Located next to Mt. Trashmore off Bonney Road, the $2 million project is far larger than it seems when viewed from the highway.

While the red-brick single story structure are administrative offices, a blood donor center, a hall and a partial gym, a swimming pool, locker rooms, a small kitchen and other facilities. In all, there is nearly one acre of floor space, 45,000 square feet.

During a briefing and tour for representatives of the service agencies involved in the center, Executive Director Gerald R. Rosenmeier explained the purpose of the facility.

"It will be a 'shopping mall' of services... housing the YMCA, Red Cross, Boy's Club, Girl's Club, Girl Scouts, Family Services/Travelers Aid, Big Brothers/Big Sisters and RFP."

Opening of the multi-service center will be a milestone for Virginia Beach. Never has such a facility with such service availability been based in the city.

One of the greatest assets will be the ability of the YMCA to offer a wide range of activities and services to Beach residents without traveling to the Norfolk facilities.

For the first time the "Y" will offer 350 family memberships in Virginia Beach as well as regular, individual memberships.

Goal of the center is to provide a comprehensive group of services, aimed at the whole family--social and health services; personal, social growth and character development; leisure time activities; special skills development; physical fitness; education and training.

The concept of the multi-purpose center began with a concern expressed in May of 1969 by the Virginia Beach Council of Women's Clubs regarding the need for health, welfare and recreational services in Virginia Beach.

The Health-Welfare-Recreational Planning Council of the United Community Fund responded with studies and recommendations that led to the current planning, development and construction.

A complex of agency offices was established in 1969 in the Princess Theater Building. Those offices will remain in use until the new center opens.

Several of the member organizations will be conducting membership drives in the months prior to the opening.

The YMCA will lead off with a drive starting on Oct. 1. The Girl's Club will begin its drive Nov. 7 and the Boy's Club will kick off its membership campaign Nov. 15. Individual membership in each organization is $10 per year.

Memberships in center organizations are being accepted prior to membership drives. Interested citizens may contact the United Way Family Center offices at 340-3131. After the center opens in December the number will be 499-2311.

Wyllie R. Cooke of Oliver, Smith and Cooke is the architect of the building contracted by Galloway Corp., both of Virginia Beach.

Alleged spying

'Seeking truth' says Riggs; Council says issue ended

By STEVE STONE

SUN News Editor

and LEE CARILL

SUN Political Writer

"All I want to do is to tell the truth... I have just begun to fight."

Councilman Buddy Riggs, assailed by fellow councilmen for his efforts to bring about a full-scale investigation by council of alleged police spying, will continue his efforts.

Speaking with the SUN Monday evening Riggs was asked if he would now let the issue drop. The answer was an emphatic "No." "My intention for the whole thing is to bring the truth out to the public... if we (the city and its agencies) make a mistake, damn it all, bring it out and be a man about it," Riggs said.

The councilman said he was not sure why City Council does not want to discuss the story. "Whether they're trying to cover it up or white-wash it, I don't know... Do they have something to hide?"

Riggs says that police might have had "every right" to do what is alleged to have been done, but if so, he cannot understand why no one wants to talk about it.

"I'm fighting for the people, the 14,000 people who put me in office," explained Riggs.

Riggs wants the internal affairs division of the Police Department to investigate the claims that the police maintained illegal files and surveillance on prominent members of the city with Italian surnames. His motion to have this done failed last week and another motion by Councilman J. Henry McCoy, Jr. to have a "blue-ribbon committee" investigate the case, never got off the floor.

Monday afternoon Riggs accused City Manager George L. Hanbury of failing to answer questions in a letter dated Sept. 13 and sent by Riggs to Hanbury. Hanbury replied in a letter dated Sept. 16, but Riggs maintained that he did not agree that the basic points were substantiated by "everyone," that police officials did not and do not maintain files simply because individuals have Italian surnames.

Riggs referred to articles in the VIRGINIA OBSERVER which allege contradictions between sworn statements of the city manager and Police Chief W. W. Davis.

A suit brought by developer John A. Aragona against two city policemen whom he claimed maintained illegal files on him, were dropped recently and the judge sealed the depositions in the case.

Riggs maintained the files did exist and someone's lying to cover up. "Why did you send (John Aragona) a letter of apology?" Riggs asked Hanbury. "I did not ask you to write a letter of apology."

Councilman John A. Baum said that he couldn't see any reason for bringing the matter up.

"I would try to squash the rumors," Riggs said.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing said that "if we have to take a vote each week that we don't want to discuss it, (then) we'll take a vote each week."

Mayor Clarence A. Holland told Riggs the majority of Council would prefer that he talk with Hanbury privately.

He went on to discuss kelpine and its effect on the seafood industry.

Councilman George R. Ferrell, whose name is alleged to have been the subject of a supposed secret file, apparently did not wish to discuss the matter.

Contacted Monday evening by the SUN, Ferrell said that pursuing "a dead horse" sounds "rather foolish to me." He said he didn't want to discuss the matter until there was solid evidence and charged the press, naming the VIRGINIA OBSERVER specifically, with sensationalism.

The most colorful extravaganza of the Neptune Festival, the Grand Coronation Day Parade will held at 9 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 25.

More than 75 different entries are expected to march, ride, perform and dazzle thousands of spectators.

The parade is a showcase of color, featuring floats, marching bands, drill teams, bicyclists, horse units, and many surprises.

Details of the parade route are on page four of today's SUN.

"Our Heritage From Sea to Shining Sea" is the theme of this year's parade. King Neptune and his royal court will feel right at home as the nautical motif is created in glorious splendor.

Judging of the floats in the Coronation Day Parade will be held in the assembly area prior to the start of the parade. Three judges have been selected this year: Lawrence Madry, Chris Miller and Lt. Harry DeBotts of Virginia Beach.

Five awards will be given and they include the Festival Director's Trophy for the best civic or association entry.

King Neptune's Trophy will be awarded to the outstanding float in the parade.

High school marching bands, military marching bands and special guest units will also be judged in separate competitions. Six prominent band directors will select the winning units.

All high school bands performing in the Neptune Festival Parade will also participate in a field show at Cox High School. This competition will be held Saturday afternoon following the parade.

Bands will perform for a first place cash award. Other field show awards will go to best field commander, best majorette, best color guard, best drill team, and best percussion.

Cox Band Parents Association is handling all arrangements for the field show and they are providing hosts and hostesses for each band.

SUN ads are a time setter

Time stood still for Mrs. Margaret Karns of Chesapeake, until she saw the Wilson Jewellers ad in the Virginia Beach SUN.

While time may fly for most of us, it had stopped for Mrs. Karns. Her watch was broken.

But the SUN hadn't been on the stands minutes before she had read the ad and rushed over to give her watch to Mr. Wilson for repairs. Beyerly Publications community newspapers give their advertisers good readership and good readership means more business. That goes for the businessman, and the homeowner who uses classifieds, too! Join the smart set--contact a SUN advertising representative today at 486-3430. WATCH your profits grow!

'Undescribable honor'

Charles Forbes Jr. named King Neptune III

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

For Charles H. Forbes, Jr., becoming King Neptune III was an honor he "couldn't describe."

At 64, and claiming to be in his childhood, "His Majesty" is a happy, easy-going gentleman with a bright smile accenting a "chippy" mood.

He "came to Virginia Beach in 1933 as soon as he "was able to get car fare out of Norfolk."

Forbes, who owns and operates Forbes Candy Co. of Virginia Beach in the Lynnhaven Office Park, opened his first candy store at the beach front just in time for the 1933 hurricane. "I think I had four feet of water in the store that day."

It was everywhere," Forbes said.

At the time, Virginia Beach was a township with high hopes of becoming a second class city of 5,000 citizens. "But everyone we took a census, half the people had gone to Florida," explained Forbes.

Today Forbes is proud to see Virginia Beach on the way to becoming the state's largest city.

Forbes was instrumental in helping to promote the city, thus bringing in business and tourist dollars to help spur continued, favorable growth.

His efforts were interrupted briefly when duty called in 1941. Prior to serving with the War Shipping Administration in the North Atlantic, Forbes had been assistant coordinator of the local Virginia Beach Civil Defense.

After the war it was back to the candy shop which his wife Marion had run during the war.

As the years went by Forbes interest in the city increased. He became a member of the tax equalization committee, and in the last two years before the consolidation of Princess Anne County into Virginia Beach, he chaired the committee.

In 1962 Forbes was elected president of the Beach Shrimpers organization in which he was very active. Today he organizes the annual Virginia Beach Music Festival which may add the world international to its name in 1977 if two expected foreign bands participate.

In about mid-July Forbes was informed of his selection as King Neptune III. From then until Friday night's announcement only his wife and children knew. "I had the grandchildren thinking it was Bradshaw Pulley," Forbes offered.

The honors will carry a heavy schedule. So heavy that his wife will be called on to represent him at some of the events that he will not be able to attend due to time conflicts. "If you could see my schedule, you would not believe it," he explained.

To Forbes, the most beautiful part of the festival will not be the color of the parade, the excitement of the street dances or the fireworks. Rather, the prayer breakfast that starts the festival off, holds the warmest spot for Forbes. "That just pleases me to no end. To think that they would start the festival off with a prayer is beautiful."

It is the honor of a life of time, well earned by Charles Forbes, Jr., King Neptune III for 1976.

Childrens dance offered

This fall a new program in dance for children will be offered by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation.

The Childrens Dance Ensemble will offer year round classes in ballet, tap, modern and jazz for children 7-13, classes will be offered at Kempsville Elementary between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday.

The Childrens Dance Ensemble will meet continually for eight months, with various performances throughout the eight month period. All children will be required to have a black leotard and pink tights and slippers (girls), or black tights, white T-shirt and white ballet slippers for boys. Those children in tap will be required to have black tap shoes.

The Childrens Dance Ensemble requires no prior experience, only children who are eager to learn and will be constant in their attendance. The fee for the entire eight months (October through May) is $18, which can be paid at the Virginia Beach Parks and Recreation Fall registration to be held Sept. 20-23 at Pembroke Mall between 10 a.m. - 9 p.m.

$3.8 million project

Newtown, Princess Anne Roads to be enlarged to four lanes

The State Highway and Transportation Commission last week approved a project to improve Kempsville Road between the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway and Newtown Road in Norfolk and the connecting portion of the facility - Princess Anne Road - from Newtown Road to a terminus at South Parliament Drive in Virginia Beach.

The location of the project was approved as presented at a public hearing in March. Major design features also were approved, but with some minor changes as a result of requests made at the public hearing.

Essentially, the project will provide a four-lane divided facility on the existing road.

Kempsville Road will be provided with two 24-foot roadways, separated by a 22-foot raised median with curb and gutter and a five-foot sidewalk on both sides of the street.

On Princess Anne Road, there will be two 25-foot roadways, separated by a 15-foot raised median, with curb and gutter and a four-foot sidewalk on both sides of the street.

The Newtown Road intersection is an extremely busy one. To alleviate traffic congestion there, the road will be widened to include two 25-foot roadways, separated by a 16-foot raised median with curb and gutter and a five-foot sidewalk on both sides.

This design feature will extend for about 800 feet southwest and 500 feet northeast of the intersection.

Left-turn lanes will be provided at all intersecting streets except at Susquehanna Drive, which will be shifted slightly to the west, away from Capot Road, and at Susquehanna Drive will be restricted to right turns only. Left turns into and out of Susquehanna Drive will be denied, but will be provided at Coventry Drive.

Flashing signals will be erected at the Norfolk and Southern Railway crossings on Newtown Road, at Princess Anne Road, and at relocated Southern Boulevard.

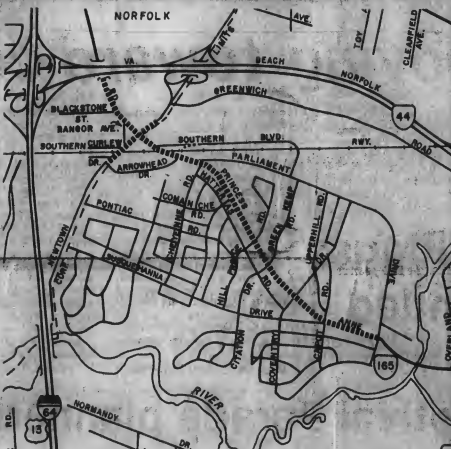

New traffic control signals will be erected at the Chayman Road, Southern Boulevard and Coventry Drive intersections with Princess Anne Road, while existing signals at Newton Road and South Parliament Drive will be modified.

Some 10,000 vehicles use Kempsville Road north of Newtown Road a day and 20,000 vehicles a day use Princess Anne Road in Virginia Beach.

By 1997, it is anticipated 20,000 vehicles will use the new project north of Newtown Road daily and 36,000 vehicles a day will use Princess Anne Road in Virginia Beach.

The 1.7-mile project is estimated to cost some $3.8 million. No date has been set to advertise for construction bids.

Representatives of the Department of Highways and Transportation, responding to requests made by citizens at the public hearing, have worked with public officials of both Norfolk and Virginia Beach and the following amendments to the original proposals have been agreed upon:

with left-turn lanes, will be permitted on Kempsville Road north of the railway, and a crossover will be made on Newtown Road about 500 feet east of Princess Anne Road.

An additional traffic signal will be installed at Comanche Road opposite a large shopping center, and

-Storm sewers will be installed on Bangor Avenue to eliminate an open ditch in front of two churches.

At Ft. Story

Dailey finds new interests by learning effective reading

By NANSE GRADY

Eleven months ago Sgt. Clinton Dailey of Virginia Beach didn't read newspapers. He'd read the headlines, maybe, but not the articles. Outside of that, he'd read a poster "or something like that."

A supply clerk with Headquarters and U.S. Army Headquarters Company at Ft. Story, Dailey didn't read newspapers (or books) because there was no pleasure in it for him. Nor was there much information. This was because Dailey, for the most part, didn't understand what he was reading.

"I'd read something, and if there was a word I didn't know, I'd just pass it by," he says. Though Dailey had completed eight grades of school, reading was so difficult for him that he didn't attempt it.

Dailey's not stupid. Far from it. He simply shared a problem millions of Americans have. In this instance the Army was able to help.

According to U.S. Office of Education statistics from a four-year study completed in 1975, more than 23 million American adults are "functionally illiterate." The study says that another 39 million were "functional, but not proficient in such tests as reading a newspaper grocery ad."

Dailey fell into the latter group. "Ads in the paper... the abbreviations messed me up."

Unlike many people who don't recognize they have a problem or for one reason or another don't do something about it, Dailey did -- on both counts.

"Education was something I needed to get in my Army. I also need it for civilian life," he says.

While stationed at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii, Dailey returned to school. He'd spend four morning hours with his Army teachers improving his reading. In the afternoon, he was a regular on-the-job soldier. After four months of this in Hawaii, Dailey was assigned to Ft. Story here in Virginia Beach where he continues his schooling. Now, seven months later, he's reading about on the 10th grade level, according to his teacher Phyllis Eagleburger.

Dailey did Dailey has the reading program? A series of Associated Press Newspapers, "Johnny Still Can't Read," written by Kathryn Diehl of the Reading Research Foundation, puts the blame of the "look-see" method of reading instruction in the public schools. Diehl is an advocate of the phonic approach where an individual learns to read words by sounds of letters, particularly vowels, and letters in different combinations.

Mrs. Eagleburger used and is still using the phonic method to teach Dailey "Clinton had trouble with sounds" so she taught him "small words with specific sounds, such as the long 'A' sound in gate, wait, plate..." Then she applied these lessons to longer, more difficult words.

Sgt. Clinton Dailey, who grew up and was schooled in Virginia Beach, is being assisted by the U.S. Army in improving his reading skills. Here, his teacher Mrs. Phyllis Eagleburger of the Beach, provides some instruction in phonetics and poetry while sitting on the beach front. Photo by Sandy Walsheana.

She won't say the phonics method is the end-all of teaching, however, though she was taught to read that way.

Dailey's reading problems spilled over into his writing. "I knew what I had in my mind," he said, "but when I put it on paper it came out differently."

So Mrs. Eagleburger concentrated on Dailey's writing along with his reading. She wrote several topics for her students on the blackboard. "I wanted the students to get images from the topics and then put what they were thinking about down on paper." One of the topics was "beach during a storm."

Dailey's response was the poem, "Stormy Beach." Mrs. Eagleburger was surprised. She hadn't expected a poem, but there it was.

Dailey shrugged off Mrs. Eagleburger's amazement, even though he'd done something that would have been impossible for him a year ago. "I saw it in my mind and I put it down."

Dailey's goals now go far beyond simply learning to read with comprehension. He's already done that. Now he's gearing up to take the GED high school equivalency exam, while continuing to expand his reading and writing abilities.

Dailey has two children, 5 and 6. He reads stories to them. He didn't 11 months ago. He couldn't.

He's interested in history. "There were a lot of things I'd just heard of before, but now that I've started reading, they're more real. I want to learn more."

One thing that puzzles Dailey is that he wasn't the only person around who suffered from poor reading comprehension. When told that 80 per cent of the college freshmen taking the GED at a large state university had flunked on the first try, he raised an eyebrow. When told that a college professor had taken to pronouncing all the letters in common words (think of "sum-bah," etc.) so that his journalism students could spell them, Dailey's mouth fell open.

"People in college really have problems like that?" he asked Mrs. Eagleburger.

If that revelation gave Dailey a sense of superiority, he didn't show it. He's satisfied with what he's done so far, but believes he has a long way to go.

While some 39 million American adults can't read a newspaper grocery ad, Dailey not only reads them, but gives sound advice, Mrs. Eagleburger noted.

"Clinton recently told me not to go to the commissary to pick up an item, but to go to a local grocery store instead because there was a special on."

Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Thee Free

"Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make Thee Free" (John 8:32)

Jesus said these words many years ago and there are few today who would disagree. The question remains, how do we discover the truth? Every day we hear someone preaching that their doctrine is the "truth". It becomes quite confusing when we are confronted with so many different philosophies all proclaiming to be the ultimate truth.

Sometimes truth is revealed quite dramatically as it was to Saul on the road to Damascus when he was struck blind. When his sight was restored he became a convert to Christianity and never wavered from his belief that it was the one true religion. With most of us, however, truth is revealed very slowly. We must spend much time in deep reflection and study of the Bible. This is the way we finally begin to understand the truth. Then the Christian understands Christ's words, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make thee free."

Voters want it sharp and honest

Carter fuzzes the issues

By HANES BYERLY

Despite his huge lead, pollsters say much of the public sees Jimmy Carter as just a nice guy with a big grin. The big grin helps in the television debates but just being a nice guy won't help a fuzzy image. For the first time, Mr. Carter is going to have to be specific. Or he should be. That's the reason for the debates - to find out who believes what, and why.

Mr. Carter's love and trust campaign was sensational in the spring primaries but it's wearing thin in September. Jimmy Carter "will never tell a lie," but more and more people don't exactly believe what he says. How can they? You can't be a liberal in New Jersey and a conservative in North Carolina. He can get away with that kind of duplicity in a state primary but it won't wash in the national campaign.

The Carter camp believes that stands on specific issues are less important than the general attitudes that the candidate conveys to voters. The result has been the ceaseless theme of love and trust (oh, yawn, yawn!) and time for a change. A change to what? Certainly we need more than a warm smile and rather vague promises to do away with Washington.

The candidate who pledges never to tell a lie or duck an issue seems to be doing both with his shifting stands and waffling on the issues. Lets look at the record:

ITEM. Three weeks ago Carter pledged that he would balance the federal budget and hold the line on domestic spending programs if elected president. Yet at every stop on the campaign trail Carter promises increased spending for education, health, the cities, revenue sharing, welfare, housing, transportation and Social Security. When asked how all this red ink adds up to a balanced budget, Carter assures us that he has an "econometric model" figuring it all out.

ITEM. Carter has promised as president he would never raise taxes for low and middle income Americans. Now he says he would raise taxes on half the population of the United States. Carter told the Associated Press Sunday, "Anybody above the median level of income would pay higher taxes, anybody below would be lower."

ITEM. Carter was forced to back down from a promise that "once and for all, under no circumstances" would he impose an embargo on farm exports. Just a few hours after his solemn promise, under questioning by reporters, he said he would impose a grain embargo "under special circumstances."

ITEM. Candidate Carter says he will not resort to personal attacks, yet this spring he branded Hubert Humphrey "an aging loser tainted by scandal." Frustrated over defeat in trying to pass legislation, Governor Carter attacked the 1974 Georgia legislature as the worst in the state's history and its deliberations as "an absolute victory for every selfish interest" and lobbyist that ever set foot in the capitol.

ITEM. And while campaigning for governor Carter used both George Wallace and Lester Maddox beneficially and successfully. He praised Maddox as "the essence of the Democratic Party" and in a letter he wrote, "I have never had anything but the highest praise for Governor Wallace. I think you will find that George Wallace and I are in agreement on most issues." The truth is Carter only agrees with Wallace when he is in Alabama. How can any honest man, under any circumstances, call Maddox the essence of the Democratic Party?

ITEM. A month ago, while attending a party of Hollywood celebrities, Carter delivered a shearbreaking indictment of his rural home in Georgia: "In the county where I'm from, we don't have a doctor, a dentist, a pharmacist, a registered nurse, and people who live there who are very poor have no access to preventive health care." Absolutely false! The Medical Association of Georgia says there are 22 licensed physicians in Sumter County, there is a hospital, there are pharmacies, there are registered nurses. Carter's own mother, Miss Lillian, is a registered nurse who has worked long hours administering health care to the poor in the county where Jimmy's from.

You can't say the man who promises "never to tell a lie" is a liar unless we know his definition of a lie. We can say, however, that the nice guy with the big grin knows all about straddling the fence, changing the facts and flip flopping on the issues.

Mayor aids senator

Holland heads Byrd's local effort

Virginia Beach Mayor Clarence A. Holland will head the city's Virginia Beach Byrd Committee, campaign headquarters for the re-election of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr. he announced.

Six other prominent Virginia Beach citizens will serve on the committee. The announcement said:

"I am delighted to be heading the senator's committee in Virginia Beach. The membership of the committee shows the broad appeal Senator Byrd's philosophy has with the people of our area. I think he will carry Virginia Beach by a substantial majority," Mayor Holland commented.

Others on the Byrd Committee are:

-Robert B. Bertram, chairman of the Virginia Beach Republican Committee and an insurance executive.

-R. Dean Lee, chairman of the City Planning Commission.

Council approves gas sales

The Virginia Beach City Council has agreed to permit the sale of gas in conjunction with the operation of convenience stores.

But it's small comfort to the operators of the 7-11 and Time-Giant stores. None of their stores in the Beach can comply with the conditions of the amendment to the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance.

The amendment approved Monday afternoon requires that the property on which the joint operation is located be a 25,000 square foot site with a minimum lot width of 150 feet.

Vincent Masarico, attorney for the Southland Corporation, operators of 7-11 Stores, and C. Richard Griffith, attorney for the Giant and Time Giant, said none of their stores in Virginia Beach have that much space. They would need the minimum to be 15,000 square feet.

Donald Rhodes, attorney for Teneo Oil Co., said however, that his clients were satisfied with the ordinance. Teneo operates no outlets in Virginia Beach, but plans to. Stores operated by the company elsewhere have an average site size of 35,000 square feet, he said.

The amendment passed Monday by a vote of 8-3 reversing a decision on Aug. 16 when the vote was 6-4 against an amendment.

"The first couple of times you see it done, this guy flying 5-6 feet above the crop, you think, he has got to be nuts." But that feeling either didn't last long, or Bomser "went a little nuts" himself.

His job isn't just crop dusting though. Today there is much more that Bill and Pete can do for their customers from the air. They can even plant the fields and fertilize them, accomplishing days of work in just hours.

As for the "romance" of being a crop duster, "It's hard work, really hard work," says Bomser. "Handling the chemicals all day long and having to work long hours getting sweaty, hot and dusty."

"But when you're seeing the farmer's fields being eaten by vermin and then you come back the day after you've sprayed and they're all dead, well it's kind of neat and makes you feel good."

And, they say the occupation makes for interesting conversation. "I'll go out... and someone will ask me what I do. I say crop dusting, and they get all excited," Bomser explained. It still has a mystique about it.

Neptune Festival

Parade will affect boulevard traffic

The Grand Coronation Day Parade of the Virginia Beach Neptune Festival will follow a 1.5 mile route along Virginia Beach Boulevard.

The parade will begin at Princess Anne High School and proceed west passing in front of Pembroke Mall and Aragona Shopping Center. He will disassemble at Dorset Avenue.

Viewing stands for spectators will be set up along the parade route.

Plenty of parking is available at Pembroke Mall, J.M. Fields, Wicks Furniture and Aragona Shopping Center.

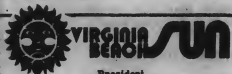

Because of the parade, part of Virginia Beach Boulevard will be partially closed to traffic.

The westbound lane of the boulevard between Princess Anne High School and Dorset Avenue will be blocked off at 6 a.m. and is scheduled to re-open at 1:30 p.m.

Two-way traffic will flow in the east-bound lane along the parade route.

The closing of the boulevard will make crossing at Independence Boulevard impossible during these hours.

Heavy congestion is possible and alternate routes along the expressway are recommended. The Witchback Road exit provides access to the Northern end of Independence Boulevard.

Bicentennial reception planned

Lynnhaven Parish/Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution will hold a Bicentennial reception for members, prospective members and their guests Sunday, Sept. 26 from 2-4 p.m. at Eastern Shore Chapel, 2020 Laskin Rd.

The chapter is holding its charter member's first open annual Jan. 30, 1978 in order that all who become members by that date may have their names inscribed on the chapter's charter.

The first Eastern Shore Chapter was the second church to be built in Lynnhaven Parish from which the chapter takes its name.

It was built prior to 1859 on the eastern shore of the Lynnhaven River when early settlers found it difficult to reach the first Lynnhaven Parish Church.

Members are asked to notify either Mrs. James J. Gregory, regent, or Mrs. Eugene F. Conners, vice-regent, of the number of guests they expect to bring to the reception.

The percussion section of Bayside High School

Bayside provides great show at ball game

By BUD LOWE
SUN Staff Writer
Saturday night Football? Yes, that is what happened at Bayside High School recently.

And the half time show was presented by the Marching Marlins and the Marching Marlinettes. The Marching Marlins are under the direction of Joe Ligart and the drill team, the Marching Marlinettes, are under the direction of Mrs. Darlene Crenshaw.

There are 36 musical instruments on the field with two drum majors, John Pesto and Kevin Hampill. There are 49 members in the drill team, 23 squad members with Capt. Micah Alderman and Co-capt. Shari Hagl, five rifles with Capt. Patty Curran and Co-capt. Gini Alvarez; nine flags with Capt. Yvonne Blecher and Co-capt. Stephanie Douglas; four majorettes with first Majorette Kathy Schenke. One of the majorettes, Tawana Billups, is out at this time with a pulled Achilles tendon. Bayside hopes that Tawana will be back in action soon for she has been missed.

The Marching Marlinettes have two banner carriers assigned to their squad as well. This is not one of the biggest units here at Virginia Beach but they do put on a show that is different from any other high school around these parts.

Joe Ligart put on a good show for the crowd at half-time and the Marching Marlinettes did their thing like only they can do. The music was exceptionally good and the routine was put together with a lot of style.

Mistakes were few and could present no problem for Ligart and company to straighten out. The fact that many musicians were missing was very noticeable in the power of their sound. Yet, Saturday night is a hard night to put on a field show for any high school band. The students get Friday night off from work to perform and get raised out and then to get Saturday night off from work as well is not always possible. Bayside put on a creditable show even with some of their members missing.

The Drill Team, sometimes known as the Dancing Dollies, were there in force. As usual they did their chorus style routine instead of the pop style that most of our local high school drill teams use. They do it very well and have a lot of class and style about their show. They have added rifles to their show this year, and they looked good. The routine for the rifles was short but they still have time to work on their routine before the first competition in the Neptune Festival this Saturday.

The drum majors had on new uniforms and they looked just great. There is a resemblance of some of the other high school drum majors in their appearance, but are by far much more impressive looking than last year. And use of two drum majors on the field this year brings a new dimension to Bayside's band and should work well in addition to giving them depth they didn't have before.

The Marching Marlins from Bayside will be competing in the Neptune field competition at Cox High School this Saturday at 1 p.m., as well as competing in the Fourth Annual Tide-water Festival of Marching Bands at Indian River High School on Oct. 16.

This weekend will be the start of another big year for the competition and it all gets underway for our local high school bands at the Neptune Festival.

First will be the parade which will start at Princess Anne High School and go down the boulevard to Aragon Shopping Center. The parade will start at 9 a.m. and the viewing stand will be at Pembroke Mall. Then it is out to Cox High School for the field competition and that is where all the excitement will take place.

Beach boxers pursue dream

By BLAIR THURMAN
SUN Sports Editor

They range in age from 11 to 22, but you'd better not mess with any of them. They are a group of Virginia Beachers who love to box, but have to travel to Norfolk to work out.

Due to a lack of facilities in Virginia Beach, Lumpy Owens, 11, Tony Rios, 15, Billy Donovan, 19, Ricky Butts and Al Humes, both 22, take advantage of the Norfolk Parks and Recreation facilities in the Norfolk Arena to train and compete.

Lumpy's father, George Owens, along with Sam Moore, is their trainer and coach.

"It's kind of nerve-racking," said the senior Owens about watching his young son in the ring, "but I don't like to see any of the boys get hurt."

Lumpy ("I'm a big Lump, not a little Lump") fights at 105 pounds. "We try to hold his weight down," said his father, "since we don't want him fighting boys older than him and risking injury."

Rios, who attends Virginia Beach Junior High, was the AAU Regional runner-up at 110 pounds last year, but is seen as a fighter with great potential who is capable of winning the championship next time around.

Billy Donovan, a 147 pound welterweight, is almost fanatical about boxing. "I like to take punishment, and I like to give it out," he said. He gets up every morning about 5 in order to run, showing the type of dedication that breeds champions.

Ricky Butts, who fights at 156 pounds, is the veteran of the group, with over 20 fights to his credit. Butts has a definite goal in mind. "I want to be a national champion," he said. "I'm training hard, I get up every morning and run, I think about it constantly, and I think I have the tools to do it. I feel like, if I can get by the state competition this year, I'll go all the way."

The biggest boxer of the bunch is Al Humes, a heavyweight who fights at 217 pounds. Humes got tumbled-on to boxing by Ricky Butts. "Ricky and I grew up together, and he got me into it," he said. "I think I'll stick with it." Humes models himself after Muhammad Ali, in that he likes to "bounce around, jab, bounce, jab and then use a combination."

Within all of these young fighters is a spirit and a dedication that seems to assure success. Hard work and pain are now a part of their lives, but are pursuing a dream, and nothing else will do.

Last year we brought you
$2,329,650,000 worth of automobiles.
You've got a lot riding on us.

A lot of cars rode our rails in 1975. We estimate that the manufacturers' value for autos we shipped amounted to $2,329,650,000.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got 76% of all the autos and auto parts Americans buy.

Why do the automotive industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is three times as much as by rail. Air shipping is over forty times the price. And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this one to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

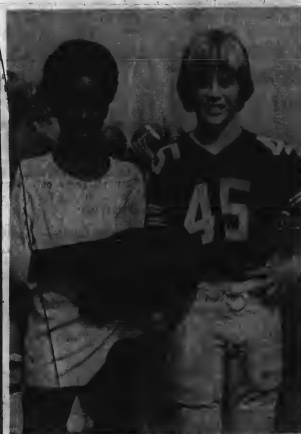

So next time you're riding in your car remember, the wheels you're riding on probably rode the rails first.

P,P & K tests skills

The turn-out wasn't quite what was hoped for, but the competition was good at Virginia Beach's fourth Punt, Pass and Kick Contest held at Beach Ford last Saturday.

70 boys competed and enjoyed free refreshments and a beautiful afternoon.

The winners were: Johnny Gutter, 8 years-old, Jeff Fuller, 9, Mark Inderfield, 10, William Duxler, 11, John Campbell III, 12, and Ricky Stokes, 13.

Football isn't the ONLY sport played by high school students in the fall. One of the other sports is field hockey, and the girls are just getting under way.

Last week, Kempville opened at First Colonial, and the game turned into a real defensive struggle. It wasn't until the final 15 seconds, that Patriot, wing, Kathy O'Connell, scored the only goal of the game, getting First Colonial off to a good start for a winning season. Winning is something new for the Patriots. Last season, they didn't collect a single win, but according to coach Sharon Burkhardt, things will be different this year.

"People who look at last year's record, and expect an easy win over us, are going to be surprised," she said. "We're going to give them a tough fight."

According to the Patriot coach, Cox and Bayside are probably the best teams in the district. "Bayside won the regular season," she said and Cox won the tournament.

Some of the players expected to help pull First Colonial out of the doldrums are: Kathy O'Connell, Lorraine Knapp, Sandy Berry, Martha Owen, and Hunter Bell.

Sandy Berry goes after ball

By BLAIR THURMAN

Cox held Friday night to a scoreless tie by Maury, who has yet to score this season, was my single wrong prediction of the week. My 4-1 week was sorely needed to upgrade my .500 percentage and to bolster my ego.

Kellam is finding winning an elusive goal this season, evening its record to 1-1-1 after its loss to Norview. Bayside, Kempville and Princess Anne all won as expected, with the Cavs looking very impressive since their opening loss to Cox.

Cox hosts Warwick this weekend, a Newport News team boasting a 2-1 record. The Falcons will have to contain halfback Bobby Hawkins, a real speedster. Warwick runs a razor-sharp offense, but it often sputters. Cox has scored six points in the last two games and the Warwick defense is rated above average. I'll give the home team the nod. Cox by 3.

Kempville plays at Kellam in an interesting matchup. Kellam, one of the pre-season favorites, has scored but seven points in three games. Kempville, on the other hand, is building momentum. The Chiefs will be psyched. Kempville by 7.

Princess Anne plays at home against Grassy. The Cavs look great, the Comets look not-so-great. Princess Anne by 16.

Bayside goes to First Colonial, and needs to shape up its act if it hopes to win the Beach District. They'll click this week. Bayside by 7.

Oceana Air Show is festival highlight

The annual NAS Oceana Open House and Air Show will be held at this Navy Master Jet Base in Virginia Beach Sept. 25 and 26.

Open House is scheduled both days from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with an air show slated for Sunday afternoon Sept. 26.

This year the Oceana show coincides with the opening weekend of the Virginia Beach Neptune Festival which runs from Sept. 24 to Oct. 3.

All air station events on both days are open to the public and admission is free.

Feature attraction at Sunday's air show will be precision flight maneuvers by the famous Blue Angels Flight Demonstration Team. Their displays of aerial artistry and professionalism is seldom matched. You can see them take to the air in their A-4 Skyhawk jets exhibiting precise timing, coordination, alertness and teamwork, and marvel at their tight formation maneuvers in the air with only three feet separating the wing of one plane from the cockpit canopy of another.

The Navy's Parachute Team East Skydivers from Little Creek will open the show with their daring and breath-taking free-fall maneuvers.

Following the skydivers the U.S. Army Silver Eagles, a helicopter demonstration team from Fort Rucker, Ala. will conduct exciting precision maneuvers in close formation flying the OH-6A Cayuse chopper. A big eared "Boco the Clown" helicopter, who rolls a barrel, picks up hoops and plays with a 104 pound yo-yo will surely please everyone.

If the skydiving exhibition and helicopter demonstration doesn't strike your fancy, then catch an eye-full of the Confederate Air Force, Florida Wing, flying World War II combat aircraft. They even have Hitler's personal plane, a German JU-52 Juakers, in their Wing. Seeing these old line planes in the air again will spark pride in many attending veterans.

For the "arm storming" enthusiast Mr. Ray Wiseman from Richmond, Va., will demonstrate his "Pitts Special." If you've seen him perform you know he's great. If you haven't seen him you're in for a treat.

While these events are in progress let's not forget the children. For them, there are carnival rides and refreshments.

Various model aircraft will also be on display and the Tidewater Radio Control Club will fly remote control model planes.

There will be ample free parking provided and traffic directors to guide visitors. Due to limited grandstand seating it is suggested that you bring along blankets and folding chairs so you can sit comfortably and watch the air show. Don't forget to bring strollers for the little tots so that they may enjoy the show in comfort too. And bring along your friends, neighbors, cameras and binoculars.

Static display aircraft, and an array of interesting static exhibits from industry and the Virginia Beach military installations at Little Creek, Dam Neck and Fort Story will be displayed in Hanger 200 during Open House on Saturday and Sunday.

Schedule of events:

Gates will open to the public at 10 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 25 and 26.

Open house events include:

- Carnival rides, refreshments
- Static displays in Hanger 200
- Aircraft displays

From 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on both days there will be a demonstration of radio controlled model aircraft by the Tidewater Radio Control Club, Inc.

Other events scheduled for Sunday's Air Show are:

- 12:30 p.m. Ceremonial band
- 1:00 p.m. Opening ceremonies
- 1:15 p.m. Capt. M. C. McCana, Jr. officiating
- 1:45 p.m. Skydiving demonstration by the U.S. Navy Parachute Team (East)
- 2:25 p.m. Helicopter demonstrations by the U.S. Army Silver Eagles
- 2:55 p.m. World War II combat aircraft demonstration by the Confederate Air Force
- 3:15 p.m. "Pitts Special" Demonstration
- 6:00 p.m. The Blue Angels
- Gates will close

At Little Creek

Numerous courses open to all local servicemen

Military classes for officers are now being offered at the Little Creek Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Center by The Naval Reserve Officers School.

All officers active and inactive duty in the Navy, Marine Corps, Army, Air Force and Coast Guard, regardless of rank or designation.

Courses being offered are strategy and policy, human behavior and leadership, military justice, and amphibious operations. All courses are taught by instructors who are qualified to teach by experience and training.

Courses will conclude June 30, 1977, after 42 weekly drills. All classes will be held on Thursdays and will begin in the evening at 7:30 and end at 9:30 p.m.

The course in strategy and policy is based upon the Naval War College curriculum and consists of a series of case studies in political-military and history from the Peloponnesian War to the Cold War. The course is conducted as seminars which analyze the complexities and interrelationships of political and military factors from the vantage point of the decision maker in war on international crisis.

The purpose of NROCS courses is to broaden an officer's professional knowledge, to enhance an officer's promotional opportunity and to earn additional retirement points.

Further information may be received by calling 460-1457 at the Naval Reserve Center at Little Creek.

Aim with care

Now that the hunting season is under way, Continental Telephone of Virginia has issued a plan for "careful shooting" by hunters near telephone equipment.

W. L. Smith, District Plant Manager for Continental's Southern District, pointed out there have been instances of recent and past gunfire damage to telephone equipment in the area.

"Even the smallest shot can cut a wire, shatter an insulator, or otherwise disrupt telephone service," Smith said.

Walters writes for magazine

David W. Walters of Brown-Arris-Langhorne Insurance, Inc., in Virginia Beach, is the author of an article appearing in the September issue of "American Agent & Broker."

"American Agent & Broker," published in St. Louis is a leading monthly educational magazine circulating nationally among general insurance agents and brokers. The title of Walters' article is, "Account Secretaries Improve Efficiency."

Nimitz wives plan supper

The USS Nimitz Elusive Wives Club is having a spaghetti supper, Sept. 25 at 6 p.m. The supper will be held at the Navy Wives Club of America Building at Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base in Virginia Beach.

Reservations are required and should be made with Denise Nelson by Sept. 23, telephone 423-0219.

Another project of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk organization is a children's party and sitting scheduled for Oct. 3.

Beach Federal leads in growth

According to Virginia savings and loan statistics, Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association led all Virginia savings and loans of its size or larger in the rate of asset growth in the first six months of this year.

While the average growth in assets throughout the state was 11 per cent, Virginia Beach Federal increased at a rate of 26 per cent, more than double the state average. No other Tidewater area association equalled Virginia Beach Federal's growth rate in the first six months.

Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is the only federally insured savings and loan association which is home based in Virginia Beach. The firm has four offices in the Beach area.

Guess you heard it won't be long before we start charging for directory assistance in Virginia.

Yeah, but people will still get thousands of numbers from me.

Am I in there, too?

Inflation has claimed another victim.

We have to start charging for directory assistance in Virginia. Last year, C&P Telephone spent $12 million for directory assistance.

But at the same time, we spent $4 million printing and distributing your C&P Telephone directories.

That's a double cost. And if you pay twice for something when you don't have to, that double cost eventually works its way back to you. The customer.

And that's what we want to avoid.

Studies have shown that most people use directory assistance for just a few calls a month.

About 50% of directory assistance calls are made by only 9% of our customers. Most people look up numbers themselves, because most of the numbers you need to find are right there in your directory.

So you'll still be able to make 6 direct-dialed calls a month to the Directory Assistance Operator at no additional cost. After the first 6, each directory assistance call will cost you 10¢. When calling directory assistance, customers in some areas will have an operator come on the line to identify the telephone number. However, charging will not occur until after the sixth directory assistance call is completed.)

But the allowance of 6 calls a month to the Directory Assistance Operator does not apply to calls placed through the "1" Operator. All "0"-dialed directory assistance calls will be charged at the rate of 20¢ per call.

Those people who are visually or physically handicapped and are unable to use a telephone directory provided by C&P will be exempted from charges for calls made from their residence telephones. An exemption form is available from your Virginia C&P Telephone Company Business Office, and we'll gladly assist anyone who needs help completing the form.

And there will be no charge for directory assistance calls from hotels, motels, hospitals, and coin phones (except certain calls billed to credit cards, third number, and collect calls), or for out-of-state long distance directory assistance calls.

Remember, there are thousands and thousands of numbers in your directory, so look up numbers yourself, instead of calling directory assistance.

That will help keep phone costs down.

For everybody.

Council moves forward with convention center

Despite lingering controversy, expectations now are that ground will be broken for the new Virginia Beach Arts and Conference Center around the first of the year with completion anticipated in the summer or fall of 1978.

Council Monday afternoon made two final authorizations which wrap-up the $16 million center package. But with some Councilmen in opposition.

The Gibson's firm, Gibson Equipment Company, petitioned for the zoning change and plan to build a motel adjacent to the center.

In its second action on the Center, Council accepted the conference center site from the Gibson Brothers.

Thursday preceding the Monday meeting, was defeated by a vote of 7-4 with McCoy, Mrs. Oberndorf, Riggs and Griffia voting in favor.

Council talks teeth, time

SUN Public Affairs Writer
J. Henry McCoy, Jr., councilman, admitted he didn't have the best interests of J. Henry McCoy, Jr., dentist, at heart.

Halloween should be a "dentist's dream," he said. "All that candy pulling out fillings..."

Still, he wanted Council to move the Halloween curfew from 9 to 8 p.m. to conform with the times in the adjacent cities of Norfolk and Chesapeake.

It seems that the little demons in Norfolk and Chesapeake actually don't stop reveling at 8 p.m., they just cross over the line to Virginia Beach where trick or treating is legal until 9 p.m. Councilwoman Meyers Oberndorf went along with McCoy and voted for the change because of "unsafe conditions for the children involved." Some cities, she said, have banned trick or treating altogether.

But other councilmen weren't about to tamper with the spirits. They voted against change.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing said he didn't think it was fair to impose restrictions on the whole city because of the inconveniences residents along the city lines may have to suffer. Also, he added, if we're going to create a law for every problem, we should just put the children in a box.

Upseturbed, Dr. McCoy said, "They get toothbrushes at my house anyway."

Jack and Roger Gibson, brothers and co-owners of the property (they own a total of 54 acres at the site) offered about 20 acres of the property to the city, free of charge as a site for the center.

—Mrs. Meyers Oberndorf, who cast the sole vote against the rezoning, explained that the Arts and Conference Center would be a "financial albatross" for the city and that construction of a motel on adjacent land "will take business from existing facilities."

Councilman J. Henry McCoy voted for the zoning change but said he is no way was "changing my thoughts on the Convention Center... I'm still opposed."

Four of the 11 Council members voted against this motion. Councilman John R. Griffia pointed out that Council members had not received a copy of the agreement and that he would not approve a contract he had not seen. Councilman R. L. Riggs, agreed and voted with him. Other negative votes were cast by McCoy and Mrs. Oberndorf, who said that the city needs schools and other things more.

A motion made by Griffia to require contracts with private citizens to be presented to members of Council on

In a letter to council, City Manager George L. Hanbury commended the Gibsons "for their civic interest in this project and for their confidence in the financial stability of Virginia Beach and its economic growth."

Beach voters: Register before Oct. 2

Residents of Virginia Beach who have not yet registered to vote are being advised to do so on or before Oct. 2 by the general registrar of the city.

Only persons who move to Virginia Beach from another Virginia city or county between Oct. 2 and Nov. 2 will be allowed to vote in their former precinct.

Park for handicapped now being considered

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is considering plans for construction of a park especially designed for the handicapped. No such facility is known to exist anywhere in the United States, and officials of the city department are now just "feeling" their way.

No specific plans have been made, and no site for the park or its cost have been determined.

The park would feature such items as a special court for wheelchair basketball games, special picnic tables, wide paths and trails, a special rest room facility and other items designed with the handicapped in mind.

Representatives of the department hope to meet with local groups and organizations as well as specialists in the field to work out a basic plan.

Hopes are, according to a department spokesman, to have a basic plan ready within 60 days.

As the days go by the numbers of residents and visitors taking part in various activities of Neptune '78 continues to rise. Officials reported as many as 35,000 people attending the Oceana Air Show this past weekend, about 5,000 devoured tons of fresh seafood at Camp Pendleton, unknown thousands lined the beach from 23rd through 27th Streets to watch King Neptune arrival and coronation, and tens of thousands more watched the parade, joined in street dances, attended the Prayer Breakfast, played volleyball, were enchanted at International Night, played golf, watched water ski demonstrations, viewed live rock music, danced to the sounds of Disco '78, viewed the youth art show, tumbled on roller skates, played tennis and saw more entertainment in days than they normally see in a year.

—On Sunday, Oct. 3 Neptune Festival will draw to a close, but the day will be packed with memory making fun activities. The sun starts at 10:30 a.m. on the boardwalk and Music-A-Rama will take place at Mt. Trashmore all afternoon.

—At 8 p.m. the 10 day festival ends with the return to the sea of King Neptune III while a Grand Bicentennial Fireworks display lights the sky over Virginia Beach.

—A twilight religious service and concert will be held at the First Landing at St. Mary at 5 p.m.

Free Bees do it over and over

For everything from hamsters to toy trains, the classified ad section of the Byerly Publications community newspapers -- the Chesapeake POST, Virginia Beach SUN and the Tidewater LIFE can get buyers and sellers and gives together.

Take Marti Hohmann's golden hamsters, for instance. The Hohmann's found themselves, as hamster owners will, with an oversupply of the little critters. Mrs. Hohmann decided to use a Tidewater LIFE FREE BEE to give them away.

"We gave them away on the first call," she reports. "And we had a large quantity of calls."

Mrs. Hohmann, who lives on Timberland Drive in Merrifield, apparently has high regard for the LIFE: "So many people in the Churchland area read the Tidewater LIFE. Children read it, too. My daughter (Marti) checks the FREE BEES every week... The paper is appealing to children, too (as well as adults)."

(FREE BEES, incidentally, operate on a simple premise. If you want to give something away gratis, we'll advertise it free -- no charge whatever. Just call Byerly Publications at 547-4571.) Chesapeake Earl Knight has the same regard for the POST. "A lot of people read your paper," he says, and that's exactly why he used the FREE BEES when he wanted to give away a washer. Good response, Mr. Knight says. Calls kept coming long after the machine had been given away.

The regular classifieds -- our "word ads" -- you find in Byerly Publications can be pure gold for users. You'll find real bargains there, and you can pick up a little change by selling that spare set of tires or those goodie up in the attic.

Mrs. William Green of Chesapeake sold all of her potted plants with a single ad. The Green-thumber reports the POST ad response was far better than other papers she'd tried.

But can there be too much of a good thing? General England, who operates a flea market at Oak Grove, placed a wanted-to-buy ad for TV's, watches, trains, glassware.

"The advertising was so good and so many people called I had to change the ad. People wanted to sell me everything!"

Would Mrs. England use Byerly Publications classifieds again? Without hesitation -- she's sold on them.

If you want to sell... or buy... or maybe even pick up something for free, look our classified section over right now. Then give Byerly Publications a call!

In the middle of all this the King, his Royal Court of princesses, their chaparrones and police escorts, are attempting with success, to attend every event.

Riding around on McDonald's "Big Mac" Bus, King Neptune and court have made some remarkable success at meeting their schedule, and all always have big smiles and friendly waves for the crowds. The princesses have done an amazing job at appearing fresh, neat and happy. Even the chaparrones are maintaining a semblance of sanity amid the confusion, proving that things are generally running well.

Friday, Oct. 1 will feature a shodown at 7:30 p.m. in Princess Anne Park, Princess Pale Moon will appear in concert at Virginia Wesleyan College at 8 p.m. and the Dixie Squares will step out at 8 p.m. at the Dome.

Saturday, Oct. 2 will be the busiest day of the Neptune Festival. Some of the day's events include:

--The Third Annual Hilltop North Art Show which will go on all day at the shopping center.

--Youth Day will be held with numerous events all day long at Mt. Trashmore including a Soap Box Derby from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

--The Regatta will be held all day at Tidewater Community College.

Princess Pale Moon in concert

Few people of the American Indian Nations feel much inclined to celebrate the 200th birthday of the United States. The birth of a nation was, to them, the beginning of the death of their way of life.

But there is one, a Cherokee Indian princess named Pale Moon, who is eager to celebrate the Bicentennial and who has been participating throughout the year. Now she is coming to Virginia Beach.

Princess Pale Moon will appear at 8 p.m. Oct. 1 in the new gymnasium at Virginia Wesleyan College in Virginia Beach. There is no admission for this Reggae Festival event.

Called an "ambassador" of all Indians, Pale Moon is the mother of three young sons in San Jose, Calif. Princess Pale Moon feels that the Bicentennial provides an opportunity to remind all Americans of the fact that Indians are an important, if neglected, part of America.

"We're not really a nation inside a nation, as some suggest," says Pale Moon. "We are a culture within a culture. We can develop our individuality as tribes and still be part of America as a whole."

PA leads festival parade

By BUD LOWE
SUN Bands Writer

This is the week of the Third Annual Neptune Festival at the Beach and two of the main events held were the Coronation Day Parade and the Field Competition.

The parade was by far the most successful held at the Beach in many years. There were floats and units from all over, including the Hey-o's, Indian Dancers from Bloomingfield, Ind., who gave a superb show at the parade and field competition. This unit won the best special unit award in the parade for the second year in a row.

A total of 14 high school bands participated in this year's parade.

Winning high school band was E. C. Glass from Lynchburg, a very impressive unit to say the least.

They number about 155 and have a show that is as strong in quality as their number is in size. Congratulations are in order for E. C. Glass and we hope to see them back next year.

After the parade the field competition was held at Cox High School.

The first high school band to go on field was First Colonial. Max Gosano, band director for First Colonial, and his unit put on a show the rest were going to have to work hard to beat. There were a total of 14 high school bands entered in the competition that lasted from 2 p.m. until about 5 p.m.

High schools entered were: Bayside, First Colonial, Kellam, Kempsville, and Princess Anne from Virginia Beach; Cradock from Portsmouth; Great Bridge and Indian River from Chesapeake; E. C. Glass from Lynchburg; Hampton; Focomocho City, Md.; and John Yeats from Suffolk.

The judges were outstanding considering that their job has to be one of the hardest in the world. All but one are from outside the Tidewater area and a more impartial group of judges could not have been found anywhere. This is definitely a tribute to Billy Cooper and his outfit at Cox High School on picking such a fine group of judges.

Here is how it all ended up:

Parade--first place, E. C. Glass, second place, Princess Anne, third place, Indian River.

Field Show--first place, Princess Anne, second

E. C. Glass, third place, Indian River.
Percussion--first place, E. C. Glass, second place, Princess Anne, third place First Colonial.

Majorities--first place, Hampton, third place, Kellam.

Color Guard--first place, E. C. Glass, second place, Princess Anne and Indian River, third place, Kellam.

Drill Team--first place, Bayside, second place, Princess Anne, third place, Indian River and E. C. Glass.

Overall Field Show and Parade--first place, E. C. Glass, second place, Princess Anne, third place, Indian River, fourth place, First Colonial, fifth place, Great Bridge.

As host band and drill team Cox High removed themselves from competition in both the parade and field show of their own to fill time while judges added up their marching and maneuvering on the field would have rated them high in this or any other competition.

Yes, Billy, the new uniforms looked great and your style was as usual outstanding. Any high school band that entered can be proud that they were on the field that day for they all did an impressive job.

They were surely a credit to the high schools they came from. This competition has the making of being one of the best showing of high school bands for the Tidewater area. This was the first time on the field of competition for many of the students and a good place to get their feet wet. The next big competition is to be held at Indian River High School on Oct. 16, so if you missed this one be sure to be at the Fourth Annual Neptune Festival (Festival of Marching Bands at Indian River High).

And music fans is what happened at the Third Annual Neptune Festival Coronation Day Parade and Field Competition at the high school level.

Many of us think of prayer as a time for asking God to solve our problems. Often just meditation about things problems which make us feel how important they are. When in the experienced time grief and sorrow we can find great comfort in knowing God is with us and our loved ones.

Make prayer and meditation a daily habit. End each day by placing the day's cares and problems in His hands.

5,000 attend Seafood Feast

Over 5,000 people attended the annual Seafood Feast at Camp Pendleton Saturday afternoon and while most enjoyed the food and drink and the various exhibits and demonstrations, there were a few problems.

About 200 late comers found some seafood booths closed because they had run out of food. Some people were given refunds on their tickets, according to Neptune President Bob Berry Jr.

Numerous stories accounting for the early run-out were circulated including reports of free passes for some in attendance and free loaders having gotten in. However, officials of the Neptune Festival discounted the reports.

"I have had people calling and saying what a good time they had at the Seafood Feast," explained Berry. "I'd say 96 per cent of the people thought it was outstanding and in my book 96 per cent is an 'A'."

Another problem that developed was unavoidable. In order to avoid some of the last minute confusion in planning for the festival, tickets to various events are printed months in advance.

The Seafood feast tickets were no exception. They listed two events however, which did not take place because previously committed promoters pulled out at the last minute, so fault of the Neptune Festival.

Ballet presents program

The Virginia Beach Ballet Company will present a special Neptune Festival program at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Thursday, Sept. 30, in Plaza Junior High School.

A highlight of the evening will be the performance of two guest artists with the ballet, Dorothy Fiore and Orlando Zavarce.

These two dancers will perform "Laurencia Pas de Deux" and "Still-point."

The evening's program will include a total of four ballets, produced and choreographed by the company's director, Virginia Biggs and the company's ballet mistress' Betty J. Walker and Janet Smith.

RT to cut fare

Tidewater Regional Transit (TRT) has announced a special discount promotion on its weekly bus passes beginning Sept. 27 and continuing through Nov. 1. During that time, passes will be available at 50 per cent of regular cost.

The pass promotion is the first of several marketing and promotion efforts planned for the next few months, according to James C. Echols, Executive Director of the Tidewater Transportation Commission.

"Our goal is to realize a significant increase in the number of regular users for our regional bus service," he said. "We are looking particularly toward attracting commuting students, naval base employees and shoppers."

Passes are available through the bureau's office at ODU, at the Norfolk supply center building V-13 for Naval employees, and all Cities Trust Banks in Portsmouth. They are also on sale at other locations in Portsmouth, Suffolk and Virginia Beach. Information can be obtained by calling 487-3451.

An expansion of TRT's public information program is also planned, including the formation of a speakers bureau to provide guests for civic and business group, major employers and others interested in Tidewater's mass transit system.

"We will be trying to reach the potential rider in as many ways as possible in the coming months," Echols said.

Three bands planned for Youth Day

The conjunction with the Neptune Festival Youth Fair Day, to be held Oct. 2 at Mount Trashmore Park, the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation will be providing musical entertainment throughout the day.

The schedule is as follows:
10-11 a.m., "Hush"
11-11:45 a.m., "Eric"
4-5 p.m., "Fly By Night."

In addition to the musical entertainment, various activities will be conducted throughout the day. They will include a milk carton boat race, Chuck Norris Karate demonstration, games, and Youth Fair Parade.

Newtown Road improvements

Funding approved for Expressway

Congressman William Whitehurst last week announced the Federal Highway Administration has informed him the Newtown Road interchange project on the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Expressway qualifies for federal funding.

Whitehurst has sought federal funds for the Newtown Road construction project which will ease access to Interstate 64.

Whitehurst has written to John E. Harwood, commissioner of the Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation informing him of the Federal Highway Administration's decision.

asking that the state give the project a high-priority rating.

In his letter to Harwood, Whitehurst wrote:

"As you well know, the Tidewater, Virginia area has an inordinate number of toll facilities. Recently progress has been made in eliminating some of these tolls. However, toll roads such as the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Expressway continue to be a substantial burden on the people of the Tidewater area. I would appreciate it if the State Department of Highways and Transportation could include the Newtown Road interchange as one of the projects funded under the urban system program. This action would provide significant relief to toll revenue bond fund and would hasten the day when the tolls on the Expressway could be reduced or eliminated."

Under the urban system funding the Federal Highway Administration (FHA) provides 70% of the project cost and the state pays the remaining 30%. The estimated cost of the Newtown Road project is $7 million.

The proposed Newtown Road interchange improvements include an off-ramp from the eastbound Expressway to the southbound land of Newtown Road; a cloverleaf ramp from northbound Newtown Road to the west lanes of the Expressway; an off-ramp from the westbound lanes of the Expressway to the north lane of Newtown Road; and widening the east and west lanes of the Expressway and its bridges over Newtown Road.

Whitehurst had earlier written to Robert T. Tiemann, administrator of the Federal Highway Administration asking that the recently funded improvements to the I-64/I-264 interchange be extended to include the Newtown Road access project. In a reply to Whitehurst the FHA said the project could not be funded under the Interstate improvement program, but that it does qualify for federal funding under the urban system program.

'Advance priorities'

McCoy concerned about school space

Councilman J. Henry McCoy, Jr. wants top priority to be given to classrooms in the Kempville area when the next capital improvements program (CIP) is considered this winter.

McCoy Monday afternoon, requested that City Manager George L. Hanbury meet with the school board and school administration to "advance the priorities on more classrooms in the Kempville area."

McCoy referred to concern in the Fairfield area when 171 seventh grade students had to be shifted from the Fairfield Elementary School, which had been opened just nine months ago, to the Old Kemps Landing School. The Fairfield School was built for 900 students and 1200 showed up this fall.

McCoy urged three things be considered:

--Construction of new schools as soon as any funding is possible;

--Studying possibilities of additions (not portables) to the present schools, and

--Renovating the older schools like Kemps Landing which was once on the CIP and later removed.

Three seek permits

Three persons have filed applications with the district engineer in Norfolk for permits for various construction projects in Virginia Beach.

Mr. David L. Cassida of 219 79th St. has made application for the construction of approximately 55 ft. of timber sheet-pile bulkhead about two feet channelward of existing bulkhead so as to tie-in with the adjacent bulkhead. In addition, the applicant desires to place approximately 30 cu. yd. of sand obtained from an upland source, behind the proposed bulkhead.

Replies to this application should be made to the district engineer before Oct. 18.

Mr. Robert M. Flannery of 3192 Adam Keeling Rd. has made application for the construction of approximately 235 lin. ft. of timber sheet-pile bulkhead at or above the mean high water shoreline, as well as the construction of a 20-foot-long open-pile timber pier, and dredge, by dragline method, an area 220 feet long and varying from 30-42 feet in width to a depth of 2 feet at mean low water.

Replies to this application should be made with the district engineer no later than Oct. 14.

Mr. William A. Cox Jr., 1133 Wye Ln., has made application to maintenance dredge by bucket method an area of varying widths around his 400-foot bulkhead lot to a depth of 5 feet at mean sea level with dredged material to be placed behind the bulkhead prior to removal for use as fill.

Replies to this application should be made on or before Oct. 18.

Preliminary reviews of all three applications has indicated that no environmental impact statements will be required.

Persons desiring more information may contact the district engineer at the Norfolk District Office, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Fort Norfolk, 605 Front St., Norfolk.

Williams: from Falcon to Tar Heel

By BLAIR THURMAN
SUN Sports Editor

The game is over. The 45,000 spectators have dispersed. They are satisfied with what they saw, a victory for the home team.

Brooks Williams, tight-end for the University of North Carolina Tar Heels, tries to unwind in the locker room, which is filled to capacity with reporters, players, coaches and kids.

Williams, an ex-Cox High stand-out, is courteous to all who ask him questions, questions he has heard before, and will undoubtedly hear many times more.

While talking with newsmen, he is barraged by requests from the multitude of youngsters that have invaded the hallowed locker room, for autographs and/or pieces of his equipment for souvenirs.

He laughs as a feckle-faced urchin asks to keep a filthy sweat and grass stained elbow pad. "No, I think I'd better keep that," he says.

The youthful fan is not through yet. "Well, will you autograph this for me," he asks as he thrusts a scrap of paper in front of the half-dazed Williams.

Certainly," he says, still smiling.

That little job done, he resumes the conversation as if nothing had interrupted it. Indeed, it happens so often, that to let it slow him down would be never to be interviewed.

Williams, as an all-around athlete for the Falcons here at the Beach, was a local hero, well known and popular.

But at Carolina, all football players were high school stars and the glory sometimes is spread thinly. On this particular day, Williams did not catch a pass, although he came close on a couple of occasions.

The Tar Heel offense is geared to the run. Passing is done only in an emergency, and so Williams' job is to block and keep on blocking.

"I get used to it," said the blocker/receiver. "I get satisfaction blocking for guys like Mike Voight and Mel Collins (UNC backs)."

Williams worked at the Tiki, a popular nightclub on the Beach, last summer, and expects to do it again next year. Meanwhile, his thoughts are on football. Yes, he'd like to play pro ball. Yes, he thinks the team can go to a Bowl game this year. And yes, college football is different than high school football.

"While I was at Cox," says Williams. "Coach Habit

worked with us a lot more than Coach Dooley does here. Dooley has assistants that teach as the fundamentals."

"Besides that, football is a year-round thing here. Spring practice just kills you."

Despite the distance from home, (Chapel Hill, which he loves, is about 200 miles away from the Beach), Williams manages to keep abreast of Beach happenings. "My mother is always sending me clippings and stuff like," he explained.

A 6-4 1/2, 223 pound junior, Williams caught a key touchdown pass two weeks ago in a 24-21 upset of nationally ranked Florida. "It was a real thrill," he enthused.

Next year is when the dream of pro ball playing will become a reality or remain just a dream. Whatever happens, Williams is bound to keep his friendly disposition and succeed at his endeavors.

Woodcock studies complete

In a recently completed study by Game Commission biologist W. H. Taylor, it was noted that the best time for hunting woodcock in Virginia was during the month of November. The study indicates that there are good populations of woodcock here in the latter part of October with the hunting success falling off in December.

Much of Mr. Taylor's work was conducted on the Marine Corps Base at Quantico, Va. Methods used in the study included stinging ground counts which were run from February to June in 1975 and 1976. This method, along with flushing counts, indicated that woodcock were present on the area throughout the winter except late January and early February.

Mr. Taylor's study concluded that more birds were found in moist bottom land along streams with a low brush cover. As in more northern states, deer appeared to be the favorite covert. Blackberry, small maples, dogwood, willow, ash, sycamore, gumbo and other small shrubs with thickets of honeysuckle were also frequently used. In some cases, woodcock were flushed from dry hillside in small Virginia pines and hardwoods with medium thick under-story. Clumps of pines in open fields, viburnum, plum thickets and bicolor patches were other locations from which birds were flushed.

Relatives also Patriot rivals

"He isn't say good. He spends half the game on his butt!"

"Man, don't listen to him. I'm stronger and faster than he'll ever dream of being!"

Two high school players getting ready to square off against each other next Friday night, right? Not exactly.

Will and Donald Phillips are cousins who both play for the First Colonial Patriots, and the rivalry between them appears to be as hot as a super nova.

To listen to them talk, you would think that one of them has no ability as a football player, while the other has the combined talents of Dick Butkus and Carl Eller. Depending on who is talking.

Both of them play on the defensive line, with Will also playing offense. They both concede to being bonafide superstars. Both of them give each other a hard time.

Will, a junior, is starting for the first time this year. "I could have started last year," he explains, "but coach Webster wanted me to get a little more experience."

Donald is just a sophomore, playing nose guard, and never lets Will forget that he is playing a full year before his cousin did.

On the field, the kidding ceases, and they work together and with the rest of the line, never getting the full recognition they deserve as the slaves of the pits.

"Hey, you should have seen me when I..."

Wendy Smith

Our cheerleader this week is Wendy Smith of Kellam High. Wendy, a sophomore, is in her third year of cheerleading, and says, "I love it." She also enjoys running track and swimming, with one of her goals being to take physical education in college. As for the Kalgis this year, Wendy flashed her pretty smile and said, "I have faith in them for a good season." Wendy used to deliver the SUN, and is still an avid reader.

By BLAIN THURMAN
Sun Sports Editor

Some people certainly are choosy. Bayside's Wilbert Wharf, a combination strong safety, tight-end and kicking specialist, knows just the type of place he wants to attend college. Said the super athlete, "It's got to be not too big, and not too small. Just medium."

In the final minute of play, after trailing Kellam 2-0 since the first quarter, Kempsville made a final push, deep into Kellam territory, only to be penalized out of field-goal range. When asked what his feelings were as the Chiefs penetrated, Kellam coach Johnny Cooks, replied, "3-2."

It caused some consternation, but all's well... Speculation had it that Bayside defensive back, Bobby Cursee, had contracted mononucleosis. False alarm. It was just a case of the flu, putting Cursee out of action for last week's game with First Colonial. He is expected to play this week.

Sheldon Cox, of the Department of Virginia Beach Parks and Recreation, writes regularly for the SUN, but has been out of commission for about a month due to an injury sustained in a softball game. Cox underwent an operation for some torn cartilage, but is now back at work, and starting next week will resume keeping SUN readers informed about community sports.

Andy Marshall of Virginia Beach, jumps his skateboard during the free-style competition of the Heptame Festival's Skateboard Contest, sponsored by the Lynnhaven Optimist Club.

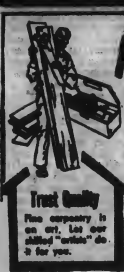

Local hunting limits revised

The Game Commission's current pamphlet listing waterfowl seasons, bag limits and hunting areas has been revised and re-issued. The recall of the brochure was made necessary by an expansion of the Back Bay goose hunting area, and hunters should be advised not to use the old pamphlets. The old brochure is printed on white paper with brown ink. The new and correct version is printed in blue ink.

The new special Back Bay goose area includes those portions of Virginia Beach and Chesapeake lying east of U.S. Highway 17 and Interstate 64. The season here begins at noon on December 8, 1976 and runs through January 30, 1977. The bag limit is one goose per day, two in possession.

For waterfowl hunters

Steel shot required

Hunters planning on taking waterfowl in the Back Bay area of Virginia this season are advised that the use of steel shot is mandatory for all upland game birds. Hunters using 16 gauge and smaller guns in the designated area will be allowed to use lead shot. It is estimated that only about 15% of waterfowl hunters in this region will be using guns smaller than 12 gauge.
